Penalty for Defendants Up to Judge.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

HAROLD M. KEELE.

Dan Serritella, Capone henchman, ward committeeman, state senator, and former city sealer under the past city administration, and Harry Hochstein, deputy sealer under Serritella, were found guilty by a jury in the court of Judge James J. Kelly of conspiring to cheat the public by permitting merchants to short weight their customers.

Leave Penalty to Judge.

Under the verdict of the jury the fixing of punishment for the two defendants was left to the discretion of Judge Kelly, who may impose a fine not exceeding $2,000, or imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one year, or both fine and imprisonment. The judge set May 20 as the date for hearing of a defense motion for a new trial, and if he overrules the motion he will impose sentence at that time.

Serritella was regarded as the representative of Scarface Al Capone in the cabinet of the former mayor of Chicago, and he was the gang chief's handy man in political matters and in promoting rackets for the gang.

Hochstein has long been a figure in the turbulent history of the Bloody 20th ward, west side domain of Morris Eller, and was accused of sluggings and assaults in the Loesch grand jury's investigation of frauds in that ward. Hochstein has received political appointments from the former mayor, and from Len Small while the latter was governor.

Blow to Gang Politics.

Assistant State's Attorney Harold Keele, who with Assistant State's Attorney Henry Seyfarth has been directing the Serritella-Hochstein investigation from its inception, and who conducted the trial, declared that the verdict of the jury should stand as another decisive defeat of the politico-gang alliance.

"There was no doubt," he said, "that Serritella was linked with the Capone gang. The evidence proved that. We showed that by Serritella's orders a large supply of ducks, donated by one of the cheating chain store companies to Serritella's Christmas basket racket, was not distributed to the poor at all. The ducks went to Phil D'Andrea, Capone bodyguard and eventually found their way to the Capone soup kitchen where meals were given to the unemployed, supposedly under the benevolences of Capone.

Hold Gang Rule Broken.

"With Capone in the penitentiary and with his political lieutenant, Serritella, on the way, to jail, we feel that the rule of that gang is broken."

The verdict of the jury was returned at noon yesterday. The jurors were given the case at 9:25 p. m. Monday, were locked up for the night at 12:15 a. m., and immediately upon awakening, they resumed their discussions in their sleeping quarters.

At 11:30 a. m. yesterday the bell connecting with the jury room jangled. The defendants, their lawyers, Michael Ahern, Miles Devine and Ben Short, and their usual coterie of tough looking hangers-on became tense with anticipation. Serritella appeared particularly worried.

When the jurors had been brought into court, at 11:45, Judge Kelly asked them if they had reached a verdict.

Sent Back to Sign Verdict.

"Yes, we have, but we haven't signed it yet," one of the jurors called out, and it developed that they had rung the bell before signing the verdicts. They were sent back, and finally, about noon, they returned with the completed verdicts.

The clerk read the first verdict, which gave the bad news to Serritella. He slumped in his chair, but in another moment he faced the jurors with an angry glare. Hochstein was less demonstrative.

Defense Attorney Ahern, who also

WETS BUILD UP WIDE LEADS IN OHIO PRIMARIES

Gov. White Winning by Five to One.

BULLETIN.

Columbus, O., May 10.—(AP)—2,699 precincts out of 8,701 in the state for Republican governor give: Ingalls, 75,791; Brown, 63,749; Cooper, 32,782.

In 2,284 precincts out of 8,701 in the state for Democratic governor Gov. White gets 66,910; Ross, 12,258.

GOV. GEORGE WHITE. [A. P. Photo.]

David S. Ingalls, Cleveland, assistant secretary of the navy for aeronautics, who advocated repeal of prohibition, had a lead of more than 13,000 votes over his nearest competitor for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, while Attorney General Gilbert Bettman, liberal, was leading his chief opponent by more than 22,000 for the Republican senatorial nomination.

Ingalls Well in Lead.

The vote in 2,069 precincts out of a total of 8,701 in the state for Republican governor gave Ingalls, 61,372; Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown, 48,011; former Gov. Myers Y. Cooper, 24,219, and James C. B. Beatty, 2,350.

In the senatorial race the vote in 2,217 precincts gave Bettman 59,951; L. J. Taber, national grange master, who had the support of the Anti-Saloon league, 37,472; "Gen." Jacob S. Coxey, mayor of Massillon, 9,563; Charles A. Bracher, 5,647, and Mrs. Elizabeth C. T. Miller, 5,157.

White Winning Renomination.

Gov. George White was leading his opponent, Galen Starr Ross, better than 5 to 1 for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination. In 2,069 precincts White had 47,922 to 8,499 for Ross.

Peter Witt's insurgent Democratic slate of delegates to the Chicago convention supporting Alfred E. Smith over Gov. White was shown running well behind on the basis of first meager tabulation of ballots, which came from Cleveland.

Dry Runs Sixth for Congress.

Former State Senator George H. Bender, Cleveland, was leading the field of seven candidates for the two Republican congressmen at large nominations. The vote in 143 of the state's 8,701 precincts was: Bender, 1,241; Thomas J. Herbert, 1,210; Percy Tetlow, 1,081; Hugh K. Martin, 985; L. T. Palmer, 938; Benjamin F. Reading, 927; Dallas Sullivan, 633. Reading alone was indorsed by the Anti-Saloon league.

Liberals also were leading in the Democratic congress at large race for the two positions. The vote in 126 precincts was: Charles V. Truax, Bucyrus, 740; Stephen M. Young, Cleveland, 649; Paul F. Dye, Urbana, 445; Louis M. Day, Chillicothe, 394; Gordon Hayes, Columbus, 356; Arthur D. Davis, Columbus, 286; Grover Cleveland Bell, Cleveland, 280; Charles E. Lukens, Marion, 220; Herman R. Witter, Canton, 192; William Norton, Toledo, 165, and Thomas W. Latham, Toledo, 148. Lukens was the only one of the eleven candidates having Anti-Saloon league support.

President Hoover's pledged delegates in the Twelfth Franklin county (Columbus) district were running far ahead of the delegates pledged to former Senator France of Maryland.

Roosevelt Leads Ten to One.

Charleston, W. Va., May 10.—(AP)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt was amassing a 10 to 1 lead over Gov. W. H. Murray in the Democratic presidential preference contest as returns from West Virginia's precincts were slowly tabulated.

The Roosevelt vote in 77 of the state's 2,342 precincts had climbed to 6,076, while Murray had totaled only 567.

The gubernatorial races held major attention in the state. In the Republican contest M. Z. White lost an early lead he had accumulated over T. C. Townsend. Returns from 87 precincts gave him 2,055, with Townsend 5,314.

DELAYING THE VOYAGE

J. GOWAN-STOBO HOME IS ROBBED OF $1,500 TEETH

Burglars who entered the home of John Gowan-Stobo, 1418 Hyde Park boulevard, a Michigan avenue tax consultant, last Thursday, stole $5,000 worth of clothing, silverware, and other things.

The "other things" were revealed last night as a set of false teeth, valued at $1,500.

A detailed list of the stolen bicuspids, incisors and molars was supplied to Hyde Park police by Mrs. Gowan-Stobo. She explained that the teeth were of special and unusual type and were made in New York. They included, she said, one large platinum upper tooth, one large gold and platinum upper tooth, one small platinum lower piece with two teeth, two lower teeth of composition, one upper gold and partial plate, one temporary composition partial plate, two gold caps, and one temporary composition for lower front.

Police said last night that with this description they might be able to find the missing teeth. It is probable, they said, that the set will be pawned for its gold and platinum fillings. Mrs. Gowan-Stobo refused to discuss the missing teeth last night.

SPEAKER GARNER IS APPROVED BY PARTY IN TEXAS

Dallas, Tex., May 10.—(AP)—Most Texas Democratic county conventions today named no second choice to Speaker of the House John N. Garner, promised the state's presidential nomination votes at Chicago in June.

Sentiment for Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York as a second choice appeared, however, at a number of meetings. Most of the counties asked that the state's delegates be instructed to vote for Garner, a native of Texas, as long as his name is before the national convention.

Republicans, likewise, held their county conventions today. They were no less unanimous for President Hoover than the Democrats were for the speaker of the house of representatives.

DOUMER SLAYER WILLS ROYALTIES OF BOOK TO WIFE

BERLIN, May 10.—(AP)—Twenty-four hours before Paul Gorgnioff assassinated President Doumer of France, he mailed from Monaco the manuscript of a novel and his will to a Berlin publishing house. The contents of the will were published in German newspapers today.

The package arrived in Berlin on the day Doumer was slain and contained the novel bearing the title "The Romance of a Cossack." The will asks that the royalties from the book be paid his wife.

Helen Gould Victim in New Means Fraud

Washington, D. C., May 10.—(AP)—Another wealthy and socially prominent woman was listed tonight as a possible victim—to the extent of $100,000 or more—of the suave representations of portly Gaston B. Means.

MRS. FINLEY SHEPARD.

Only a few hours after he had been indicted on charges that he swindled Mrs. Edward B. McLean of $104,000 by promising to return the Lindbergh baby, authorities were investigating allegations that he got that much or more from Mrs. Finley Shepard of New York, the former Helen Gould.

New Fraud Not Linked to Lindy.

The Lindbergh baby did not figure in the alleged swindling of Mrs. Shepard. The story, hinted at by District Attorney Leo A. Rover, while arguing over Means' bond in the McLean affair, was that Means was paid by the New York woman after he represented that he could give her information on communist activities which might threaten her daughter or her fortune.

Rover told Justice James M. Proctor while arguing that Means' bond should be fixed at $100,000 that there was "very serious possibility" that a criminal charge might result from the second investigation.

The two indictments returned today by a District of Columbia grand jury against the one time government sleuth charged embezzlement and larceny after trust of money allegedly given Means by Mrs. McLean, estranged wife of the Washington publisher.

Mrs. Shepard Threatened.

It was said that the justice department has been investigating the allegations concerning the New York woman for weeks; that Mrs. Shepard and her family received threatening letters from individuals signing themselves "agents of Moscow," and that Means undertook, last winter, to furnish protection.

Means was meantime jauntily whiling away the hours in jail.

The grand jury who heard the strange McLean story last week returned the two indictments today without ado.

Mrs. Shepard Silent.

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—Mrs. Finley J. Shepard would not discuss the report that she had lost a large sum of money in dealings with Gaston B. Means, when inquiry was made at her home near Tarrytown, N. Y., tonight.

MRS. GERST'S FOOD IS WASTED ON SAILOR MAN

Mrs. Anna Gerst, 26 years old, 1451 South Avers avenue, gave food yesterday to a man who said he was a sailor. As he sat eating a man who said he was a salesman appeared at the kitchen door. They fell to talking and as they reminisced the sailor drew from his pocket a pouch from which he rolled a dozen sparkling stones.

"Diamonds!" exclaimed the second stranger. "They must be worth $10,000."

The other man said he had $4,100 in a loop bank and might buy some. Mrs. Gerst, gazing entranced at the dazzling display, said she had $2,000 in a bank. First, however, she said she would like to have a jeweler examine the stones. So they all went to a jeweler friend of the salesman, who pronounced them easily worth $10,000. From there all hurried to the loop bank, where the salesman drew out his $4,100. They then went to Mrs. Gerst's bank and she took out her $2,000. She handed it to the sailor and he gave her several of the stones. Then she went home.

Last night Mrs. Gerst had another idea. She took the stones to a neighborhood jeweler. He told her they were glass.

A Motorman's Romance Lifts the Mortgage

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Albert Gregory, botanical minded suburban motorman, stood revealed yesterday in Circuit court at Wheaton as probably the first husband whose marital misdemeanors lifted the mortgage on the old homestead. Attorneys for Mrs. Jessie Erickson of Elmhurst, the pretty divorcée from whom Gregory's wife extracted a check for $5,000, brought out that $4,500 of this amount cleared the financial incumbrance from the Gregory home in Wheaton. Moreover, it so eased Grace Gregory's aching heart that she took back her erring mate.

ALBERT GREGORY.

Brick red with embarrassment, but refusing to let this impede his chances of beating Mrs. Erickson's suit for return of the $5,000—and $50,000 damages in addition—Gregory insisted from the witness stand before Judge Claude W. Shepherd that his floral friendship with the young divorcée didn't end on that status; that his wife's accusations were well founded.

Lawyers Call It Extortion.

Mrs. Erickson's denial that the affair exceeded a mild friendship, established on a mutual liking for flowers, is the basis for her demand of restitution and damages. Her lawyers bluntly use the term extortion in the case.

Outwardly composed but for the deepening color on his wind-tanned cheeks and the constant swinging of one foot crossed over the other knee, the errant husband told the jury how it happened. Much of his testimony corroborated the tale Mrs. Erickson had already related, beginning back in 1924, when she passed his interurban car on her way through the station with an armful of roses and, flipping a rose into the cab, called gayly:

Later he encountered her again in the station and admired the posies she carried, asking whether she raised them herself. She said she did. Then he queried, "Are you as good a cook as you are a gardener?"

From Posies to Pastry.

"Better," she retorted. Gregory countered, "You'll have to show me."

Mrs. Erickson showed him, with savory pastries of her own making, and more floral offerings conferred as she passed, he recounted. Eventually one Thanksgiving she brought down a whole roast duck which he shared with the rest of a train crew, he asserted. This had already been contradicted from the stand by the plaintiff in her testimony on Monday.

Finally one evening, at his invitation, Gregory testified, Mrs. Erickson rode to St. Charles with him, where there was a fifty minute stopover. They took a walk down the Great Western railroad tracks, into a pasture, and up a gully.

Defense Attorney Charles W. Hadley asked a direct question. Gregory said "Yes" and that there had been subsequent occasions when he visited her home.

Denies Seeing Note Signed.

"Did you see Mrs. Erickson sign the note for $5,000?" Gregory was asked on cross-examination by W. C. O'Brien of Mrs. Erickson's counsel.

"I did not," he replied. "I didn't know that my wife got that money." The note in question was signed by Mrs. Erickson when she was summoned to the Gregory home by Mrs. Gregory and was paid after she had mortgaged her own home in Elmhurst, she testified on Monday.

Q.—Were you in the kitchen when the note was signed? A.—I don't know

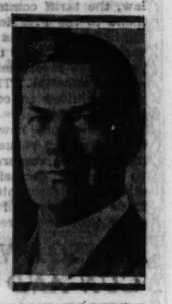
ALL FINANCIAL BILLS HALTED TO FORCE SAVING

Hoover, Congress Get Together.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—A nonpartisan drive to whip together a coördinated economy program of sufficient proportions to insure the balancing of the 1933 budget will get under way at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning when a newly appointed subcommittee of the senate appropriations committee begins a systematic search for ways and means of reducing federal expenditures.



SENATOR WESLEY L. JONES. [Fotograms Photo.]

This new subcommittee was chosen late today by Chairman Wesley L. Jones [Rep., Wash.] of the senate appropriations committee after consultations with Republican and Democratic leaders as well as President Hoover. Its announced task is that of working out a comprehensive economy program which will make it possible to bring about a total reduction in governmental expenditures, including cuts in appropriation bills of close to a quarter of a billion dollars.

Appropriation Bills Halted.

Appropriation bills will remain at a standstill until the economy bill has been acted on in the senate, agreed to by the house, and passed on to the president. Once the economy program becomes law the plan is so to trim the remaining appropriation bills that the savings goal of a quarter of a billion dollars can be reached.

The upshot of today's developments may be the abandonment of the senate program of straight 10 per cent cuts for all appropriation bills, the course of action which has aroused resentment in cabinet circles.

As a first move the senate subcommittee has summoned members of the house economy committee before it tomorrow morning.

Administration Plans Program.

After this group has given the committee the benefit of its experiences in its futile effort to raze federal expenditures it is understood, White House representatives will appear before the new economy group and present features of the administration economy program.

Plans for the administration's share in the development of the new economy program were mapped out by President Hoover and three members of his cabinet at a late afternoon conference which crowded the dinner hour. This session was attended by Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, Acting Secretary of State William R. Castle, and Budget Director J. Clawson Roop.

Hoover Slashes Not Great.

Cabinet members said that President Hoover is confident the senate will save the day by pushing through a coördinated economy program which would make it possible to balance the budget, assuming that the revenue bill is enacted into law. The plan, according to all indications, is to rely principally upon new taxes to balance the budget. No drastic economies are to be sought, the goal being reduction of between 225 million and 250 million dollars below the budget as submitted to congress last December.

The members chosen by Senator Jones to pass on the proposals to lessen government costs are Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], L. J. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.], Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], Sam G. Bratton [Dem., N. M.], and James F. Byrnes [Dem., S. C.].

TARIFF VETO BY TOMORROW

Washington, D. C., May 10.—(AP)—President Hoover late today wound up his consideration of the Democratic tariff bill and will announce a veto of the measure tomorrow—or at the latest Thursday.

The measure would alter the flexible provision of the present Smoot-Hawley tariff law. Mr. Hoover has stated publicly in the past his belief in the worth of such a clause.

As it stands, the bill would clip off presidential power to change import duties without congressional approval.

Any doubt about the chief executive's action upon the bill was considered dispelled tonight by Secretary Mills as he left the White House after delivering his own report upon it. When a newspaper man asked if he had discussed "the Democratic tariff bill," he replied:

Confers with Aids.

The chief executive during the day marshaled facts to back his stand. He conferred for more than three hours with Mills, Acting Secretary Castle of the state department, Secretary Hurley, and J. C. Roop, director of the budget.

The conferees reported that although the parley had been devoted in part to "matter of economy," the tariff question figured prominently in the discussion.

Robert Lincoln O'Brien, chairman of the tariff commission, also came to the White House, but departed shortly after leaving a sheaf of papers.

Last Chance Tomorrow.

Unless the President announces his action tomorrow he will have left only one additional day before the measure would automatically become law. The ten day period allowed him expires on Thursday.

The Democratic house, which originated the bill, completed final action upon it on April 13, agreeing to senate amendments by a vote of 202 to 171.

The bill did not arrive at the executive mansion until two days later, however, and since the day of arrival is not counted in the period of grace and the next day was Sunday—which likewise did not count—an unusual time has been allowed the chief executive for action.

Little Chance to Override.

There seems slight possibility that congress could successfully override a presidential veto of the measure. Sufficient house Republicans probably could be marshaled to prevent a two-thirds vote. The senate, which passed the bill by a 42 to 30 vote, observers believe, could be depended upon to uphold the President.

Under the existing Smoot-Hawley law, the tariff commission can recommend to the President as much as 50 per cent increases or decreases of tariff duties. If the President approves the recommendations the duties become effective. The Democratic bill would restore to congress all power to alter rates.

The measure now before the chief executive also request him to call an international conference with a view to lowering excessive tariff duties, eliminating discriminatory and unfair trade practices, and preventing retaliatory tariff measures.

MUSSOLINI WAVES GUN AND A BOOK; STUDENTS CHEER

ROME, May 10.—(AP)—Several hundred Fascist university students greeted Premier Mussolini with a roaring demonstration today when Il Duce, standing on the balcony of Venezia palace, holding a book and a musket high in the air in each hand, cried:

The students marched to the palace, in which is the premier's offices, following their annual meeting, which was addressed by Secretary Starace of the Fascist party. The students cheered again when Mussolini said:

"Sports contests were begun in the year of Garibaldi's anniversary to sharpen the spirit and muscles of Young Italy."

CHINESE BANDITS FREE MISSIONARY HELD TWO YEARS

HANKOW, China, May 10.—(AP)—The Rev. H. W. Sandy, a British missionary who was captured by bandits in southeastern Hupeh province more than two years ago, has been released, it was learned today. This is the same gang which kidnaped Capt. Charles Baker, American master of a Yangtze river boat, last year. The owners of the boat paid about $2,500 ransom but the bandits did not release their prisoner. Instead they demanded more money.

CHARGES BANKS IN CHICAGO HIRE CONGRESSMEN

Glass Recalls Fight on McFadden Bill.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—Charges that certain Chicago banks "hired some congressmen" to oppose the McFadden branch banking bill several years ago, were made in the senate today by Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], when he continued his presentation of the Glass banking reform bill.

CARTER GLASS.

"When the congress," said Senator Glass, "granted that inappreciable measure of branch banking which is contained in the so-called McFadden bill, the most strenuous opposition came from the loop bankers of Chicago. They hired a skillful and persuasive professional lobbyist and paid him a high salary to come to Washington. Worse than that, they hired some congressmen, to my positive documentary knowlege, to beat even that small measure of branch banking and extolled the unit banking system to the skies in preference.

Lists 70 Bank Failures.

"Yet, in 1931, there were 70 bank failures in the loop in Chicago, whereas if we had had a larger measure of branch banking, many of these banks, failing not because of dishonesty or perhaps incapacity of the bank officials, might have been taken over and saved and their depositors rescued from impoverishment."

When the matter was called to his attention tonight Senator Glass admitted he had been in error in attributing these activities to the loop banks of Chicago. It was the outlying banks which fought the McFadden bill, and many of which later failed. The "high salaried" lobbyist employed by the outlying banks was E. N. Baty, then secretary of the Chicago and Cook County Bankers' association.

Senator Glass declined to name the congressmen who were hired. One of them whose name has been mentioned by the senator in this connection in private conversation now is dead.

Hull Denies Being Hired.

Representative Morton D. Hull [Rep., Ill.], who was active in fighting the McFadden bill in the behalf of the Chicago banks, declined to discuss the Glass charges.

"I was not hired," said Mr. Hull, with some heat. In order to make a correction of his remarks yesterday Senator Glass adverted to the matter of the suppressed department of justice opinion that bank affiliates are illegal. He said that the opinion was the joint work of Attorney General George W. Wickersham and the late Frederick W. Lehmann, solicitor general in the Taft administration. Attorney General Mitchell Palmer, in the Wilson administration, refused to reveal the opinion, the text of which was obtained by Mr. Glass from Attorney General William D. Mitchell and placed in the Congressional Record.

Senator Glass said that he does not advocate the Canadian banking system being applied to the United States, "but it had proved very effective in Canada. During the last 65 years there have been but 26 bank failures in Canada and not one during this period of frightful depression. We have had nearly 5,000 bank failures in the United States and we have had one failure in Canada since 1923."

Only 15 Million Lost in Canada.

The senator said that the losses to the depositors in Canada by reason of bank failures amounted to about fifteen million, while in the United States in the last two years they aggregated five billion 500 million. He did not attribute that difference solely to the branch banking system in Canada, "but I think largely the branch banking system is responsible for the more efficient operation of banks in Canada." There are 16 banks in Canada, but with innumerable branches.

"It is inconceivable that this country will ever have but 16 banks," said Mr. Glass. "Moreover, we are not proposing nation-wide branch banking. We are proposing to confine it to state lines."

Charges Bank Laws Are Evaded.

Senator D. U. Fletcher [Dem., Fla.] suggested that the state anti-branch banking laws are being evaded by the organization of affiliates.

"Exactly," agreed Senator Glass. "They are acquiring long chains of banks; not only that, in many instances they are buying up banks."

Senator Glass pointed out that in the eleven years from 1921 to 1931, inclusive, there were 8,221 bank failures, out of 27,000 banks. "That is," he said, "there were 27,000 institutions called banks, but thousands of them were little pawn shops that never should have been chartered." He said that 59 per cent of the suspended banks had a capital of $25,000 or less, 25½ per cent had a capital exceeding $25,000 but less than $50,000 and only 37 of the failures had been of banks with a capital of as much as one million. More than 60 per cent of these failures, he said, occurred in communities of less than a thousand and more than 90 per cent of the failures occurred in cities and towns with a population of less than 25,000 people.

Small Rural Bank Failures.

"It is therefore obvious that the problem largely is one of the small bank failures," the Virginia senator went on, "and I repeat what I have said before, that the appeal of the so-called little banks against the monopolistic tendencies of branch banking is futile when we come to reason about it. The fact is that the little banker is the monopolist. He wants to exclude credit facilities from any other source than from his bank. He welcomes a manufacturing or industrial enterprise to his community, but if it is a bank come to trade credit he wants to monopolize that field himself."

Senator Glass, turning to the argument that the branch banking provision of his bill would be an invasion of the sovereign rights of the states, argued that it was "untenable argument that the congress may authorize the establishment of a national banking system in all the states, but that it would be an invasion of the sovereign rights of the states to authorize these banks to establish branches and to conduct their business in various parts of the states rather than in one place."

The senator said that congress sustained by the Supreme court completely swept away the rights of the states in banking matters when it imposed a 10 per cent tax on state bank notes. He added that "I am thoroughly convinced not only of the equity and feasibility of branch banking but of the real necessity for it in order to save the situation that now confronts the country. We have a species of nationwide branch banking in this country that concentrates in the money centers an enormous sum contributed by the interior banks."

BILL WOULD PAY VETS CASH BONUS IF THEY'D GO BACK TO THE FARM

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—Legislation providing for immediate cash payment of their adjusted service certificates to veterans who will agree to engage in farming for a period of three years, was introduced in the house today by Representative Clarence J. McLeod [Rep., Mich.].

Under the proposal the lands now owned by the federal government would be made available for veterans desiring to avail themselves of the privileges granted under the bill. It also permits the purchase of land by the veteran himself from private ownership, provided that the initial payment does not exceed one-third of the total value of his adjusted service certificate. State owned lands and lands donated by private citizens would also be available, according to Mr. McLeod.

Payment of the certificates would be made from the proceeds of a 700 million dollar bond issue, to be known as "veterans' relief bonds" and the federal farm board would be authorized to make available its surplus wheat holdings for food for the veterans and their families over a one year period.

NO BRIBES, SAYS BATY.

E. N. Baty, named as a lobbyist against the McFadden branch banking act several years ago by Senator Carter Glass yesterday in the senate, denied last night from his home in Flossmoor that any bribes had been passed in opposing the bill or that he was employed at a special salary to lobby against it.

"I spent a number of months in Washington opposing passage of the McFadden bill," said Mr. Baty. "I did so as executive secretary of the Chicago and Cook County Bankers' association, a post which I held from 1922 to 1931, and the only pay which I received was my regular salary from the association.

Refers to Check Glass Has.

"I wouldn't care to comment on the matter if it were not for the charge of bribery. That is not true—emphatically not true. The documentary evidence Senator Glass refers to, I am certain, is a check we wrote to pay a member of the house for traveling halfway across the continent to address a national gathering of bankers. He had a perfect right to do this. A large percentage of members of congress accept pay for public addresses. The man in question, who is now dead, had been a consistent opponent of branch banking for many years before he received a fee from us to speak on the subject.

"The check in question I gave to Senator Glass in 1926. Following the passage of the McFadden bill he introduced a resolution in the senate charging that a powerful anti-branch bank lobby had opposed the bill.

"He was appointed a one man committee to investigate, and I placed before him, at his home in Lynchburg, Va., all of the records of our association. The check was the only document which he retained. I am sure that if Senator Glass had found any evidence of bribery he would have presented it to the senate before a period of six years had elapsed."

CHICAGO MAN TO GET WILLYS' POST POLAND REPORTS

WARSAW, Poland, May 10.—(AP)—The American ambassador, John N. Willys, who resigned recently while in Washington, D. C., is expected here tomorrow to conclude his affairs before resuming his business career in the United States. The press carried a rumor today that Charles S. Dewey of Chicago would replace Mr. Willys.

Mr. Dewey was named financial adviser to Poland in 1927 and has been serving in that capacity since then.

Charles S. Dewey, rumored in Washington, D. C., as the possible successor to John N. Willys as ambassador to Poland, said last night that he had not received the "slightest suggestion" that the post would be offered to him and that he believed "there is nothing to the rumor."

HOOVER STUDIES SILVER WAR DEBT PAYMENT PLAN

Hayden, Author of Idea, Sees President.

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—A thorough exploration of the Hayden resolution permitting world war debtor powers to pay their obligations to this country in silver will be made by the various interested departments of the government, President Hoover disclosed today. That this study would be made was announced by Senator Carl Hayden [Dem., Ariz.] following a conference with President Hoover today.

CARL HAYDEN.

"The President," Senator Hayden said, "has agreed to submit to the various interested departments of the government my resolution authorizing payment of foreign debts to this country in silver. This study will be made for the purpose of determining the possibilities and the effects of the resolution upon economic conditions in the United States.

"An attempt will be made to estimate the effect of passage of my resolution upon silver shipments to this country, as well as the effect on the treasury of the receipt of large quantities of silver."

Mr. Hayden's visit to the White House marked the third time in less than a week that a member of congress has sought to interest the President in legislation calling for the use of silver as a contributing cure for the depression.

Senator Hayden's resolution would authorize the acceptance of debt payments in silver at the rate of 1½ fine ounces for each dollar owing. No payments would be accepted if the debtor government intends to debase or melt up coins to make silver payments. The silver received by the United States would be coined into dollars and deposited for use in backing up silver certificates.

represented Al Capone in the case which landed the gang chief in the federal penitentiary, moved on behalf of Serritella that the jury be polled. The clerk asked each of the jurors, in turn, to answer the query: "Was this and is this your verdict?" and every man answered in firm tones: "It was and is my verdict."

When court was adjourned Serritella refused to make a statement. Ahern said: "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year," which, incidentally, was an expression used by his client after Serritella had taken $200 from a chain store official for fixing short weight complaint tickets.

D. F. Bland, 240 Grove avenue, Oak Park, foreman of the jury, said none of the jurors had expressed any serious doubt as to the guilt of the defendants. They took only four ballots, he said, debating the whole time on the technicalities of the conspiracy law. The first ballot, taken Monday night, was 8 to 4 for conviction; the second, yesterday morning, was the same; the third ballot stood 11 to 1 for conviction, and the fourth was unanimous.

The jurors themselves might have fixed the punishment for the defendants under the instructions given them by Judge Kelly. They could have returned a verdict giving the defendants a term not less than 1 year nor more than 5 years in the penitentiary, or one fixing the term at not more than 1 year in the county jail, or one giving them a fine not exceeding $2,000, or both fine and one or the other form of imprisonment.

Year in Jail Maximum Penalty.

However, under the verdict which was returned, the law prescribes that the maximum which the judge may impose is either a jail sentence not to exceed one year, or the fine not to exceed $2,000, or both. Foreman Bland said the jurors believed Judge Kelly was better fitted to fix the punishment than they were.

"It's time that we get these fellows."

"Those charity baskets were all the bunk."

"Yes, and we didn't fall for this mother, wife and children stuff, either."

The last evidently referred to a plea by Attorney Ahern that the jurors consider the defendants' relatives.

YOUNG EXECUTIVE DONS OVERALLS, STOKES FURNACE

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—James Cox Brady Jr., 23 years old and already a director in 50 corporations, went to work today as a stoker in the Consolidated Gas company's plant in the Bronx. For almost a year he has held a place on the executive board of the organization. Yesterday he bought a pair of overalls and started out to see the other side of the picture.

He began at 3 o'clock on the 8 to 5 shift and shoveled coal into the furnaces by the side of Polish and Italian immigrants. To them he was a new man by the name of Brady, a healthy, strong youngster, and they congratulated him on his luck in getting a job. He will shovel coal until he has learned the business.

4,000 JOBLESS RIOT IN CAPITAL OF NEW ZEALAND

Mob Stones Parliament and Loots Stores.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, May 10.—New Zealand's unemployed, who have been nursing their grievances in comparative quiet since the Auckland and Dunedin riots three weeks ago, resorted to violence again today. They stormed the house of parliament with bricks and stones and smashed 150 windows before police dispersed them.

The window smashing followed a parade of 4,000 unemployed, who had quit work on city relief undertakings as a protest against the new wage scale. They were accompanied by their wives and children. The parade, until it arrived in parliament square, had been orderly. Storekeepers reported broken windows and others told of stocks looted by the mob.

Fear Further Trouble.

In the first Auckland riot three weeks ago a mob wrecked the main street from end to end. Wholesale raiding occurred and the damage was estimated at around $400,000. Fifty-four shops were attacked in a cheaper shopping area on the following night. At Dunedin a mob hurled various missiles at the mayor.

Riled by recent government pronouncements on relief, the unemployed have struck an attitude of belligerency which, it is felt, can only result in further trouble. Insurance rates in Wellington have doubled. Three cruisers have been ordered by the government to stand by off the city. Parliament house doors have been barricaded. The whole dominion appears to be in a state of fear and ugly unrest.

Trouble Centers on Dole.

The unemployed arrived at their present dangerous attitude because of differences of opinion with the government over the administration of the unemployment insurance act, which was passed about a year ago. It provides for a levy of about six cents on every $4 of wages and salaries. The resulting fund is administered by the unemployment board for the 50,000 New Zealanders who are now enrolled as out of work.

The unemployed object to this administration because, they say, it has provided work but not sustenance. They demand a dole, apart from or in addition to work. They maintain that married men, given three days of manual labor a week, three weeks in four, earn only $3 a week and that out of this most of them pay $4 for rent.

Segregate Single Men.

The government, anxious to avoid the demoralizing results of payments without work, has resorted to "made" work, such as shifting of soil. The men have become disgusted with such work. They claim that the manual labor given them is irrelevant and wasteful.

Friction arose, too, when the government endeavored to segregate all single unemployed men in camps. The single men are paid $1.75 a week.

But the unemployed considered that the last straw came when J. G. Coates, minister for unemployment, announced that men in the cities would be required to work for five days a week instead of three, but for the same amount of pay. This was followed by the announcement that all single men must be in camps in the country district within one month and that all food and shelter would be refused to all men who did not go.

Unions Back Men.

Those pronouncements touched off the smoldering resentment of the jobless into action. The Auckland and Dunedin riots and now the Wellington affair resulted. The end, it is believed, is far in the distance and property everywhere is believed to be menaced.

The labor unions, although moderate in tone and conduct, have organized to support the men who refuse to obey the government edict to go to the country camps. The feeling is prevalent among the labor element that the government is exploiting the situation for its own ends.

The emergency session of parliament, which was concluded today, was one of the most strenuous and most difficult in the history of New Zealand. The usual month's session was extended through eleven weeks. The principal measures passed include the substitution of voluntary for compulsory industrial arbitration, the reduction of interest, rent, pensions, and public service salaries, and other economic measures, and the approval of the Canadian trade treaty.

LILACS BRING JOY TO SICK AND POOR

Chicago to Follow

Yesterday was "Lilac day" in Kankakee. The blooms were sent to hospitals and institutions of that city to bring springtime cheer to the sick and poor.

This annual spring custom in Kankakee was a forerunner of a season in which Chicago and its suburbs will be organized by the Chicago Plant, Flower, and Fruit guild to share flower and vegetable garden products with the needy and the stricken.

Lilac day in Chicago, it was announced by T. V. Purcell, president of the guild, will be launched within ten days in coöperation with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and hundreds of garden club members in the metropolitan area. Mr. Purcell yesterday named the following division chairmen to gather up flowers left at the various railroad stations and send them to hospitals, settlements, and tenement sections of the city:

Mrs. Frank B. Gray, Geneva, and Mrs. Arthur H. Harrison, Deerfield, Aurora-Elgin station; Mrs. T. E. Moritz, Kenilworth, and Mrs. William MacAuley, Homewood, Illinois Central, Randolph street station; Mrs. H. E. Wulfing, 10500 South Hoyne avenue, La Salle street station; Mrs. Rolden F. Dressler, Wheaton, Galena division; Mrs. Frank W. Kingsley, Evanston, Milwaukee division, and Mrs. Fred A. Record, Barrington, Wisconsin division, North Western station, and Mrs. K. Edgar Tholin, Downers Grove, Union station.

SOVIET PEASANTS WIN RIGHT TO SELL OWN CATTLE

MOSCOW, May 10.—(AP)—Russian farmers today were given the right to sell their cattle in the retail markets for the remainder of 1932. This marked another step in the liberalization of the soviet farm code, to encourage individual farmers—whether collective or independent—to seek the open market. Heretofore there have been restrictions against slaughtering cattle for the needs of the rural population and for sale.

These restrictions were removed by a decision of the council of commissars and the central committee of the communist party. Under the new plan collective and individual farmers, who have fulfilled what is known as the centralized plan of cattle collections—their obligations to the government program—will be granted every opportunity to sell cattle in retail markets and collective shops.

Local authorities will be instructed to eliminate private traders and middlemen—"speculators who grow rich on the sale of meat at the expense of toiling peasants."

PLAN TO SELL $6,250,000 IN RELIEF NOTES

The sale of $6,250,000 of state tax anticipation notes has been undertaken by a committee of bankers and other prominent citizens to provide the Joint Emergency Relief committee with funds to continue their work, Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the commission, said yesterday. The sale is expected to be negotiated this week.

Funds of the committee will be exhausted by next Sunday, Mr. Ryerson said. These funds were raised by selling $12,500,000 of state tax anticipation notes, bearing 6 per cent interest. The total amount that may be raised through the sale of such notes is $18,750,000. When the $6,250,000 is exhausted, probably by Aug. 1, new sources of revenue must be found, Mr. Ryerson said.

The notes were authorized under an act providing for a state-wide property tax levy of $25,000,000, but only 75 per cent of the tax levy may be anticipated in the sale of notes. The legislature also directed that the tax shall not be extended and collected if bonds to pay the notes are voted at the general election next November.

CIRCUS PYTHONS OCCUPY JOISTS OF ROOMING HOUSE

St. Louis, Mo., May 10.—(AP)—The landlady in a rooming house on Washington avenue is worried about that hole in the bathroom wall and her worries may be well founded, for two circus performers, Mr. and Mrs. Dee Aldrich, say their two pet pythons, 12 and 14 feet long, disappeared through that hole, and have taken up their abode among the joists of the house.

"We put the snakes in the bathtub to bathe them and then went out to lunch," the performers relate. "When we returned, they were gone. Where else could they have gone but into that hole?"

Snakekeepers from the St. Louis zoo viewed the hole and sighed for a pied piper who knows how to call snakes.

TURN THE OTHER CHEEK TO OTHER WOMAN, WIVES!

Social Worker Gives Her Marriage Philosophy.

A social worker's philosophy on what a wife's attitude toward "the other woman" should be was described last night in a deposition taken in the Hotel Sherman by attorneys for the executors of the $4,000,000 estate of Nathan Frank, St. Louis lawyer and former congressman. He died April 5, 1931, a bachelor, at the age of 72 years.

The depositions were in connection with a suit for $500,000 brought against the estate by Mrs. Ann Hamilton, manager of an Evanston cleaning plant, former manicurist of St. Louis.

In her suit, now pending in the Circuit court in St. Louis, Mrs. Hamilton alleges that Mr. Frank promised to bequeath her $500,000 when he died. She also charges that he promised to care for her and her two children, Louis, 17, and Blanche, 15, during his lifetime, on the condition that she would not remarry, but would give him her exclusive companionship.

"Through with Mrs. Hamilton."

Miss Anna Malloy, the social worker, who lives at 1115 East 47th street, questioned by Attorney Randolph Laughlin of St. Louis for the estate, said that Mr. Frank told her in 1922 that he was "through with Mrs. Hamilton" because he had learned she was friendly with Julius Birck, who with his wife then operated the Chicago Hairdressing academy. Birck and his wife, the latter a witness earlier in the day, live at 7835 Morgan street. He is now a cleaner and tailor.

Hundreds of times, she testified, she had seen Mrs. Hamilton sitting on Birck's knee in the hairdressing academy, hugging and kissing him and calling him "Daddy dear," right in front of Mrs. Birck.

"And did Mrs. Birck protest?" asked Attorney Laughlin.

"No, she only sighed, and after Mrs. Hamilton and Birck had gone out together, she would cry," Miss Malloy said.

Says They Are Friends.

Under cross-examination by Attorney J. M. Feigenbaum of St. Louis, representing Mrs. Hamilton, she was asked how she accounted for the fact that Mrs. Birck testified earlier that she and Mrs. Hamilton were the best of friends.

"Her love for Julius Birck is so great that she has consented to a division of his love," answered Miss Malloy, pushing back her graying hair.

Attorney Feigenbaum: You think because she loved this husband so much she could be willing to share his love?

A.—I don't think it, I know it.

Attorney Feigenbaum: In your experience as a social worker do you think it possible that a wife could do that? A.—I have known no one like Mrs. Birck before—except one woman who is just as wonderful. Her husband has five women. It's women like that who win out. The women who protest lose their husbands.

Mrs. Birck once told her her husband and Mrs. Hamilton occupied twin beds in the same bedroom at the Birck apartment, 428 Surf street, while she slept on a daybed in another room, Miss Malloy testified.

"She would always take Nan [Mrs. Hamilton] back after she'd asked her to leave because she felt responsible for having placed temptation in her husband's way by taking in Nan," Miss Malloy said.

"Nan called Julius Birck 'Daddy, dear,' and rode with him in his car while Mrs. Birck rode on the street car," she said.

Tells of Inheritance.

Miss Malloy told of being approached by L. V. Freeman of St. Louis, who told her she had "inherited" $100,000 from the Frank estate, and asked her to go to see Attorney Feigenbaum.

Miss Malloy [to Attorney Feigenbaum]—Yes, I came to your office in June, 1931. Mr. Freeman had said Mr. Frank left me $100,000 and that another Chicago woman had a $500,000 claim, but he hadn't located her.

Attorney Feigenbaum—Didn't you tell me of having had intimate relations with Mr. Frank after you worked for him in his office? A.—No, I never told you. I never worked in his office. I worked for the St. Louis Star, which he owned, but never for him. I told you I had no claim against the estate.

Mrs. Birck previously testified that the story that her husband and Nan Hamilton were too friendly was "ridiculous." She said that Mr. Frank sent Nan money for eight years.

BEST MAN AT SOCIETY WEDDING ASKS $7,500 IN SUIT FOR 'SERVICES'

San Francisco, Cal., May 10.—(AP)—The best man at the recent marriage here of two eastern society people today brought suit against them for $7,500 for "services performed."

Dr. Russell C. Ryan, physician and surgeon, was best man last week at the bedside wedding of John Eshelman Lloyd of Philadelphia and Mrs. Mary Penrose Hooton Guilford, New York, in a hospital where Lloyd was ill. Mrs. Lloyd flew across the country in an airplane for the wedding.

The bride, former wife of Thomas Buchanan Guilford, New York financier, announced she was taking Lloyd east in a private car as soon as he was able to be moved. Dr. Ryan alleges his overtures for payment of his services, "medical and otherwise," before they left brought no results.

E. B. Leigh, 79, Chicago Manufacturer, Ill in Texas

San Antonio, Tex., May 10.—(AP)—Edwin B. Leigh, 79, Chicago, nationally known in manufacturing and railway circles, is reported seriously ill at his ranch near Center Point, Tex., where he spends several weeks every spring. He became ill a week ago. Leigh is president of the Chicago Railway Equipment company and chief executive of the Marion Malleable Iron works, Marion, Ind.; Franklin Rolling mills, Franklin, Pa., and the Grand Rapids Malleable Iron works, Grand Rapids, Mich., affiliated concerns.

'PRINCE' MICHAEL, HILLSBORO (ILL.), SAILS—IN BRIG

"Royal" Deportee Mourns Loss of His Cane.

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—Honored by being confined to the ship's brig while nine other deportees occupied ordinary cabins, Harry Gerguson, alias Michael Romanoff, prince of Hillsboro, Ill., started back to France today on the French liner De Grasse. It was only two weeks ago that he came over on the Ile de France as a stowaway, but a crowded two weeks. They included confinement to Ellis island, escape, and a pleasant day or two in some speakeasies, and return to the island.

HARRY GERGUSON.

Gerguson's emotions on departure were divided between sorrow for the loss of his beloved cane, which disappeared somewhere on the tour of the speakeasies last week, and sorrow for the treatment he was being accorded by his "native country." He left still proclaiming his American citizenship, although he was pretty vague about its origins.

He is afraid France will throw him in jail when he arrives, keep him there for a year, and then rearrest him when he gets out.

PASCHEN LINKED TO TWO FIRMS IN INCOME TAX TRIAL

Testimony Shows Big Payments to Companies.

Chris Paschen's connection with two building cleaning companies which are said to have prospered during his régime as city building commissioner was established late yesterday by a witness in Federal Judge Barnes' court, where Paschen is on trial on a charge of evading $114,000 in income taxes during 1927 and 1928.

Frank Wilder, connected with the Hartford Accident & Indemnity company in 1927, and now associated with the National Surety company, was the witness. He testified that in 1927 Joe Sladek, Paschen's manager, asked him to bond J. Morvec and L. Kuhn, the operators of two Paschen companies—the Commercial Building Cleaning companay and L. Kuhn & company—for work they were to do. Not knowing either of the men, Wilder demurred, so Sladek took him to Paschen in his office at the city hall.

Sladek Is One "Company."

There, Wilder testified, he was told that Paschen's men would do the work required and when he wished Paschen to sign the bond Paschen refused, saying "my word is as good as a bond." At the conference, Sladek said "I'm L. Kuhn," indicating that he was the Kuhn company, although an L. Kuhn did work for the concern.

This testimony followed that of Frank Mallon, of the city department of public works, who had told the jury that the same two concerns had done work for the city in 1927, cleaning two pumping stations—the old Chicago avenue station and the Central Park avenue station.

Mallon testified that the Commercial company was low bidder for the Central Park contract and performed the work in July, 1927, for $14,210. The L. Kuhn company was paid $7,420 for cleaning the Chicago avenue station in October, 1927.

Tells of Big Payments.

The government prosecutors, Assistant United States Attorneys Dwight H. Green and Sam Clawson, and Assistant Attorney General William J. Froelich, directed the day's testimony to show income for the Chris Paschen company during the two years—income which Paschen declared he had not had in his tax return.

Prior to Mallon and Walder, several loop building managers and bank employés testified to paying the company large sums for cleaning and repairing their buildings. The first of these was R. W. Starrett of the Starrett Building company, who testified that he had paid Paschen $5,448 for cleaning one of the Woolworth buildings.

The next witness was Erwin W. Rinder, manager of the Insurance Exchange building. Paschen's concern has cleaned that building for 17 years and is now engaged in doing it again, he said. In 1928, the price paid for this work was $2,640, he said. Christian Peterson, controller of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, testified that work on the bank building done by the Paschen company in 1928 totaled $10,129.57.

James W. Benjamin and Miss Rachel W. Haynie of Willoughby & Co. testified next that in 1928 Paschen received $3,090 for cleaning the Ashland block.

The day's first witness was Special Agent Fred Peabody of the bureau of internal revenue, who totaled deposits in the "A. B. Anderson" account in the Foreman bank, admittedly opened by someone from Paschen's office, and said that the aggregate for 1927 and 1928 was $469,069.

Currency deposits of $416,602 were made and checks to the total of $52,467.

He indicated the method by which the government alleges the account was run, namely by the cashing of checks at one window and the depositing of the currency in the "Anderson" account at another window, the transactions thus being difficult to trace.

where I was. I don't know when it was signed.

Q.—Did you know that $4,500 of that amount paid off a mortgage on your home on which your name appeared? A.—I did not.

Gregory was not asked when, if ever, he learned of the payment of the note which Mrs. Erickson had told the jury he watched her sign. He even, she said, protested to his wife that sixty days was not long enough for her to raise the money.

Mrs. Gregory a Mild Witness.

Mrs. Gregory, known in Du Page county as an active reformer, was mild of manner and meek of voice as she testified. Frequently she seemed to gasp for breath and to be on the point of collapsing. Her recital of the case contrasted sharply with the pugnacious manner attributed to her by Mrs. Erickson.

The night her husband failed to attend the lodge meeting he had given as an excuse for leaving home, first opened her eyes to his philandering, she said. She told how she had waited in vain for him outside the Masonic temple as the meeting adjourned and the janitor turned off the lights. Later, she said, she saw him drop off a car coming from Elmhurst. She went into hysterics, she testified, and during the dispute that ensued Gregory confessed he had been at the Erickson home.

Early the following morning she drove to Elmhurst with her brother-in-law, Tom Gregory, a co-defendant, and confronted her rival. Mrs. Erickson, she asserted, coolly inquired, "What are you going to do about it?" when Mrs. Gregory charged her with having entertained her husband the previous night.

"Willing to Get Divorce."

"What did you say?" inquired Hadley.

"I told her," was the faint reply, "that if she and Albert really cared for each other I wouldn't stand in their way—I'd get a divorce."

"Did you ever tell her you were born on a Canadian farm and could shoot pretty straight?"

"I—may have," she answered. "I can't exactly recall."

Mrs. Carrie Taylor of Naperville, a former intimate friend of Mrs. Gregory, sent the courtroom into suppressed mirth at the morning session when she told of a visit Mrs. Gregory made to her on receiving the $5,000 from Mrs. Erickson. She demonstrated how the caller had brandished the check triumphantly, asserting, "I've got this much, and I'm going to get more."

"It was right there in front of me," Mrs. Taylor stated impressively. 'Five—thousand—dollars!' And I said, 'Why, Grace! How did you do it? Were you really damaged that much?"

The case will probably be completed today.

Waives Alimony

Mrs. Anne Courtney Newton, 27 years old, 6214 Winthrop avenue, was granted a divorce yesterday by Superior Judge Harry B. Miller from her husband, H. H. [Tex] Newton, an oil promoter and lease broker of New York. She charged desertion.

Mrs. Newton, who was represented by Attorney Leslie Whelan, waived alimony and was allowed to resume her maiden name. Newton did not contest the divorce and was not in court. He was represented by Attorney J. Thomas Moore.

The Newtons were married in January, 1924, and separated in March, 1929. Newton has not supported her since the separation, Mrs. Newton charged. She is a secretary employed by the National Broadcasting company.

SENTENCED FOR SELLING MARIHUANA.

James Collarile, 41 years old, 2048 West Grand avenue, was fined $50 and sentenced to 60 days in the house of correction yesterday by Judge Francis B. Allegretti for selling marihuana cigarets to students of the McKinley High school.

CITY'S DEMANDS AT GAS HEARING CAUSE A CLASH

Insull Lawyer Protests "Veiled Charges."

Attorneys for the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company clashed with counsel for the city of Chicago yesterday at a resumption of the hearing before the Illinois commerce commission on the question of the rate the utility shall be permitted to charge 600,000 Chicago consumers for the new natural-manufactured gas mixture.

The dispute arose when Joseph F. Grossman, assistant corporation counsel, demanded that the gas company produce the monthly balance sheets of the Texoma Natural Gas company, lessee of the Texas gas wells which supply Chicago, and the Natural Gas Pipe Line company, which transports the gas from the Texas fields to Joliet.

Company Owned Jointly.

The Peoples company, Public Service company of Northern Illinois, and the Western United Gas and Electric company, three Insull utilities operating in the Chicago metropolitan area, jointly owned a 25 per cent interest in the gas fields and the pipe line.

"The company's figures show that 25 million dollars has been invested in gas leases," Mr. Grossman observed. "The city questions whether those leases are worth 25 million dollars. The company has presented figures purporting to show the operating costs of the gas producing company and the pipe line company, but the figures are jumped together. The city believes these figures should be broken down so that the commission may be able to determine just how much natural gas costs at the wells."

Francis L. Daly, counsel for the gas company, was on his feet with an objection. The figures Mr. Grossman requested were irrelevant, he maintained.

List Standard of N. J.

"The Standard Oil company of New Jersey also owns an interest in the gas fields and the pipe line," Mr. Grossman countered. "I think that if all the figures were produced it might be shown that a fictitious value has been placed on the leases."

"The commission, right here, faces a question of principle," replied Daly. "Much information that is irrelevant has been permitted to go into the record in this case. If opposing counsel propose to question the integrity of these companies and cast doubts on the honesty of their figures, then we shall refuse to supply further information along that line."

Still Wants Figures.

Mr. Grossman begged his opponent not to misunderstand. "But we still want the figures," he insisted, "and we want the opportunity to check the books to establish our theory of this case."

"You're merely fishing for errors in judgment," Mr. Daly declared. "When you find that the companies have exercised sound judgment, you're willing to let that stand. If you find a case of error in judgment, you want to crucify the companies for it."

"The commission wants all the facts and figures bearing properly on the case," Judge S. Gale Gilbert, chairman of the commission, reminded both sides. "The commission will consider the question in executive session and will announce its decision in the morning."

Experiment with New Gas.

Earlier in the hearing, W. G. Rudd, vice president of the Peoples company, testified that the company was experimenting with a manufactured gas with double the heat energy of the present product.

The improved gas, manufactured with a water process, will be well suited to a peak load or emergency use and can be turned out with present equipment, Mr. Rudd testified. One experimental process has produced gas with a heating capacity of 900 British thermal units and a second process 1,100 thermal units, as compared with the 500 thermal units in the present gas, he added.

Seek Reduced Rates.

The Utility Consumers and Investors' league yesterday petitioned the commerce commission for a drastic reduction in the electricity rates charged consumers in Chicago suburbs by the Public Service company of Northern Illinois.

The petition, signed by Prof. Paul H. Douglas, University of Chicago economist and president of the league, asks that the commission order the company to file a temporary schedule reducing residential rates 20 per cent, commercial 10 per cent and rural 20 per cent.

274 INDICTED FOR RAPE; ONLY 79 SENTENCED

Many Were for Short Terms, Records Show.

Continued reports of rape cases and other assaults on women and children yesterday caused the Chicago Crime commission to investigate the court records. Seeking information as to whether judges and juries have been too lenient, they found that of 274 men indicted for rape since Jan. 1, 1930, only 79 were sent to prison. Most of the sentences were for extemely short terms.

Meanwhile in the Felony court yesterday an expectant mother appeared as a witness against two alleged rapists and sobbed a story of how she defied death threats of the two men before they beat her into submission. She is Mrs. Anna Arshenick, 23 years old, 1530 Washburne avenue.

Facing Rape Charges.

The two charged with rape and kidnaping are Louis Cohen, 42 years old, 1725 West 13th street, and Harry Freeman, 25 years old, 8431 West Jackson boulevard. Mrs. Arshenick, who expects to become a mother within a month, testified she is separated from her husband but went to met him on April 28, to sign some papers. As she stepped off a street car two men pushed her into an automobile and she lost consciousness.

She awakened, nude, in Freeman's apartment, which is a bear flat, she said, and four men were there playing cards. They made their demands she testified, but she replied she would rather die than submit. Finally they overcame her. Later Mrs. Freeman, wife of one of the defendants gave her an old dress and 15 cents for carfare, she said. After wandering in a daze she collapsed and was taken to the county hospital, where she told her story and the two defendants were seized.

Judge Howard Hayes, after hearing her story, ordered the defendants held and increased bonds to $10,000. They will get an early trial, he said.

Refuses Long Continuance.

Charles Frankey, 3744 Pine Grove, and Donald Avis, 3812 Pine Grove, were refused more than a 24 hour continuance yesterday when arraigned before Judge Hayes on complaint of Mrs. Alice Thompson, 3601 Pine Grove avenue. She said she met the two at a dance hall and agreed to go with them to a party. Instead, she testified, they drove her to the vicinity of the drainage canal where Avis attempted to ravish her. Her screams attracted a policeman who arrested the men.

Another case yesterday involved Harold E. Miller, 21 years old, an ex-convict charged with the rape of a 7 year old girl. Miller is being held pending the condition of the child, who is suffering from a disease as the result of the attack. Miller has confessed he lured the child into the basement of his home at 10738 Avenue O.

"The courts should inflict more drastic punishment on rapists," said Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating head of the crime commission. "We find they have been permitting defendants to be convicted of lesser charges in many instances."

Inflict Few Heavy Penalties.

"In numerous cases the final verdict was contributing to the delinquency of a child, which permits a jail or House of Correction sentence up to 1 year. For rape the penalty is any number of years fixed by judge or jury. We find very few heavy penalties inflicted."

A table was prepared from figures secured by the crime commission from the social service department of the state's attorney's office. It shows that 60 men indicted were dismissed without trial.

Of the defendants found guilty 22 were placed on probation. They were originally indicted for rape, but to make probation possible, it was necessary that the verdict be for a lesser offense, such as contributing to the delinquency of a minor, or assault.

	Dismissed.	Not guilty.	Jail.	Prison.	Probation.
Finnegan	3	3	3	3	1
Fisher	3	3	4	13	1
Miller	1	1	2	3	0

Normoyle	2	0	1	3	0
Totals	60	70	43	79	22

In these cases the indictment was for rape. On indictments for assault to commit rape or attempted rape the courts were more lenient, the crime commission reported.

WIDOW RETRACTS BUT JURY NAMES KILLER SUSPECT.

Mrs. Mary Breclaw, widow of Albert Breclaw, alias Casper, ex-policeman, who was shot to death in his beer flat at 1006 North 23d avenue, Melrose Park, Sunday night, repudiated her identification of the alleged slayer yesterday.

She had said the killer was a hoodlum known as "Tony," and had identified a photograph of Tony De Grazia. Yesterday, at the inquest conducted by Deputy Coroner A. B. Margolis, she said that the murderer was a man named "Joe," and denied that the picture of De Grazia was that of the killer.

However, Mrs. Breclaw's brother, Stephen Skvara of Whiting, Ind., who also had identified De Grazia's picture, stuck to his story. As a result the coroner's jury, after 45 minutes of deliberation, returned a verdict naming De Grazia as the murderer and recommending that he be arrested. No motive for the crime was given, but police suspect Breclaw's beer activities.

There is more to "style" than a parrot-like harping on the word.

To us, "style" in suits changes with every type of man we fit. For a young man, slim-waisted, tall and slender, Rogers Peet says, "For you we have style! Broader shoulders! A neck that fits neatly even when your head is erect and shoulders back. The waist is cut in a little closer and you might like plaited trousers."

For his father we have a "style," modified somewhat to his figure (but still young-looking), in excellent taste and with fine quiet characteristics.

And so for every man there is a Rogers Peet "style"—new, alive, of the moment, but above all, "style" that a gentleman wears.

GOOD LIQUOR FOR GOOD CITIZENS IS DIPLOMAT'S PLEA

Tells Senators Benefits of Swedish Plan.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—Let good citizens drink good liquor, John M. Morehead, United States minister to Sweden, today urged a senate subcommittee considering 18th amendment repeal and resubmission proposals.

In other words, Minister Morehead explained, let the New York man, operating under a proposed 20th amendment, go to a government liquor store, much as the Stockholm citizen, under the Bratt system, goes to his government store and exchanges one coupon from a booklet of coupons for a pint or a quart of good stuff. But limit his purchases to a maximum of four quarts a month.

And make even that quota dependent on his purse and his behavior. If he doesn't pay his grocery bill cut down the issue. If he lets his taxes go cut the allowance down still further. If he gets drunk once curtail the allottment. If he gets drunk too often take his book away.

Badge of Good Citizenship.

"As a result," Mr. Morehead told Senators Blaine [Radical Rep., Wis.] and Walsh [Dem., Mont.], "over in Sweden that little book has come to be regarded as the badge of good citizenship. If your neighbor hasn't one then you're sure something must be the matter with him."

The Bratt system, which Morehead praised highly, or any similar system putting the manufacture and sale of liquor under government control, approaches the prohibition problem, he contended, from the "best possible viewpoint," and from one "directly opposite to the Volstead slant."

The financial ability of the drinker to drink is to be governed, under the Morehead regulation, by revocation of a drinker's permit if he doesn't pay his ordinary bills. The moral ability of the drinker to behave himself after he has drunk is to be controlled by making issuance of liquor booklets dependent upon his good conduct.

Walsh Compliments Morehead.

At the conclusion of his testimony, Minister Morehead said:

"You know the wets and drys aren't so far apart on this, or, at least, they oughtn't to be. The wets ought to agree with the drys that it's good to have the saloons gone, and the drys ought to agree with the wets that bootlegging is bad.

"Now we have the drys running around in a circle asking for a totally impossible enforcement, and we have the wets running around in the same circle, but in the opposite direction, asking for a totally impossible repeal."

This prompted Senator Walsh, who has rarely talked at these prohibition hearings, to say enthusiastically:

"Mr. Minister, it is exceedingly refreshing to hear a witness present both sides of this question. When the wets come before us they never mention the advantages of prohibition and the drys never speak at all about the evils attendant on prohibition."

Perfers Swedish System.

Senator Walsh then went into a discussion of the "so called Raskob-Smith" plan, which would keep each state under the 18th amendment until it adopted a liquor plan acceptable to itself. Mr. Morehead found many points in that plan agreeable to him, but preferred a Bratt system, or a Canadian system, which placed liquor manufacture and sale definitely under government control.

Later in the day, Senator Bingham, [Rep., Conn.], author of the Bingham beer bill, offered an amendment to the pending revenue bill, which would eliminate a number of nuisance taxes and substitute a tax of $6 per barrel on a legalized four per cent beer.

A conservative estimate of the annual revenue to be derived from such a tax, Senator Bingham places at 375 million dollars, while the total revenue cut out by his proposed elimination of nuisance taxes is 373 million dollars, allowing a two million surplus.

FAIL TO TRAP EXTORTIONER FOR LINDBERGH CASH

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—A trap set in White River Junction, Vt., to catch a man who demanded $50,000 for the return of the kidnaped son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh was revealed today by Vermont authorities. The trap caught only an unwitting confederate.

Two weeks ago Col. Lindbergh received a letter demanding that $10,000 be mailed to a postoffice box at White River Junction. This was to be followed by a second payment of $40,000.

Two Vermont motor vehicle inspectors were made temporary postal inspectors and they placed a package resembling a bundle of bills in the box and wired it to give a signal when the package was taken.

They waited a few days but nobody came. Finally they turned the job over to a White River Junction deputy sheriff, and after four days the package was removed. The deputy sheriff caught Alfred Bellis of Newport, N. H., but Bellis said he merely took the package at the request of a friend and give it to him, not knowing what was in it.

The police are now looking for William Hand, a former resident of Keene and Portsmouth, N. H.

Capt. Dennis Moss, a veteran of 46 years' service, resigned from the fire department yesterday. Moss commanded Engine company 93 and lives at 9635 South Troop street.

'BIG HAND' GUINAN IN PARIS; SHOCKS SWANKY HOTEL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 10.—"It is worth $100,000 to see Paris," Texas Guinan, American night club hostess, said after her arrival here today. She did not seem worried by the breach of contract suit facing her in New York for skipping off to Europe and she declared that she has no grudge against France for that little incident last summer in which a bevy of her performers was refused admittance.

Regarding her alleged intention to open a night club here, she was vague. She said she wanted to look around a bit. She disclosed that she lost a diamond from one of her rings on her trip across, but said that a gentleman passenger found it and returned it. As a reward she gave a life membership in her sucker club, which means he will "never have to pay any cover charges at my place."

Tex's entry into the swanky Hotel George V. was spectacular. "Hello, everybody. Give me a room with four beds in it," she said. The room clerk looked shocked until Tex explained that "I am so worn out one bed would not be enough."

SEE ONLY SLIGHT HOPE OF MERGING 2 JEWISH CLUBS

The proposed merger between the Covenant and Standard clubs is only a slim possibility, directors of both clubs said yesterday. They are two of Chicago's largest Jewish social organizations and both own valuable property in the loop. Both have more than 1,000 members. Louis H. Harrison, president of the Covenant club, said yesterday that chances of the merger "were extremely slight." U. S. Schwartz, an attorney, a director of the Standard club, said the same, although committees of the two clubs are working on merger plans.

Tomorrow evening the Covenant club will hold its annual meeting and dinner. New officers will be installed. It was said that the proposed merger may come up for informal discussion at the meeting.

AKRON SPEEDS WEST AS TEXAS STORM ABATES

BULLETIN.

Deming, N. M., May 10.—(AP)—The United States navy dirigible Akron passed over Hachita, N. M., at 9:35 (mountain standard time) tonight. The weather was clear and the craft was believed to have a tail wind.

El Paso, Tex., May 10.—(AP)—Driven over southwest Texas by inclement weather of many varieties the naval dirigible Akron finally completed its journey over Texas at 7:25 p. m. [Mountain standard time]. It had been delayed about 14 hours.

The ship, en route from Lakehurst, N. J., to California for navy maneuvers, had bucked head winds, been driven back by violent electrical disturbances, surrounded by thunderstorms, halted by poor visibility over mountain peaks, and finally impeded by a sandstorm near El Paso. It had required 22 hours to travel from San Angelo to El Paso, a distance of 379 miles.

As the air fleet's giant moved west into New Mexico, its path remained hazardous. It flew a zig-zag course through a mountain pass west of El Paso, apparently finding the going difficult against a strong wind.

Make Good Time Until Storm.

Over more than half of the 800 mile air trail across Texas, the craft made good progress. It entered Orange at 12:45 p. m. [Central standard time] yesterday, and was at San Angelo by 10:30 o'clock last night.

Then the trouble started. The ship had run through thundershowers between San Antonio and San Angelo but it had made good time, and Lieut. Com. Charles E. Rosendahl, in command, planned to continue the usual air route northwest via Big Spring.

The thunderstorm increased in intensity, however, and violent electrical displays were seen on all sides of Big Spring and farther west. The commander reversed his course, hovered over San Angelo for a time, giving residents the impression he might be forced to land the ship, then turned southward.

Low Visibility Delays Ship.

During the dark hours of this morning the ship turned to and fro in an attempt to elude the storms, but to no avail.

Everything appeared to be going serenely as the ship headed toward the mountains east of El Paso. The ceiling was low, however, and the dirigible turned back, remaining over Toyah for some time. Finally, late this afternoon, the visibility improved and the craft sailed majestically over the range.

FRANCE GAINS A PRESIDENT AND LOSES A PREMIER

Albert Lebrun Is Elected Head of Republic.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 10.—In the assembly hall of the former royal palace of Versailles, from which exactly one year and three days ago the late Aristide Briand came out a broken old man and where Paul Doumer was marked as the presidential target of an assassin's gun, Albert François Lebrun today was elected and proclaimed the fourteenth president of the French republic.

The ghosts of those other two men hung heavily over the assembly, chilling the partisan fever of the chamber of deputies and the senate which elected him at a joint session. The French, who carry their political quarrels to the grave and beyond, forgot them today. Lebrun's majority was a near record in the history of the republic—633 votes out of 824.

Dawn of "New Union."

Against him were only the Platonic candidacies of a communist and a Socialist and the blank ballots of a few diehards. In that vote, and more especially in certain hints dropped by Premier Andre Tardieu in the corridors, the French see the dawn of a new "sacred union" after the political battles of the last four years.

Save for the contrast between the "truce of God" observed today and the high drama of the struggle between Briand and Doumer for the presidency, the ceremony was like seeing a revival of a play with actors whom you once knew but are now dead.

While France was gaining a president it was losing a premier. On his way back to Paris President Lebrun received the resignation of Premier Tardieu's government. At the request of the new head of the republic, Tardieu consented to remain in office on the understanding that a new cabinet would be formed by June 4 at the latest. The new chamber of deputies meets on June 1.

Tardieu's successor is expected to be Edouard Herriot, leader of the Radical Socialist (Liberal) party, which swept Tardieuism into the political discard at last Sunday's election for a new chamber.

Tardieu Becomes Figurehead.

As the ceremonies ended at Versailles Premier Tardieu turned over the executive powers of the government. Tardieu will carry on as premier just as he would had his government been overthrown in parliament. He will take no initiative in important matters of state.

President Lebrun, after receiving the customary congratulations, hastened to the Elysées palace in Paris, where he bowed before his predecessor, Doumer. Then he traveled through cheering crowds to place a wreath at the tomb of the unknown soldier at the Arc de Triomphe. At Luxembourg palace Lebrun was inducted as grand master of the Legion of Honor.

RISES FROM PLOWBOY.

The rise of Albert François Lebrun, new president of France, from a plowboy to the highest office in the French republic has been, until the last few years, a gradual and unspectacular progress.

Since the war he has forged steadily to the political front, and since his election as president of the French senate to succeed the late Paul Doumer his name has become more familiar to American newspaper readers. His election as president of the republic caps his spectacular rise of the last few years from comparative obscurity to international prominence.

President Lebrun was born in 1871 in Mercy le Haut, in the east of France, and it is this constituency, the department of Meurthe-et-Moselle, that he has so often represented politically. Meurthe-et-Moselle was the department of the former President Raymond Poincare, and it has been called the Ohio of France, because it has furnished the republic with so many presidents.

A Great Orator.

While working on his father's farm, Lebrun at the same time studied at schools in Nancy. Later he was graduated from L'Ecole Polytechnique and from the National School of Mines, where he took high rank as a scholar. It was in these years and in his subsequent occupation as an engineer in the corps of mines and as a professor at L'Ecole des Hautes Etudes Commerciales that he laid the foundation for the reputation he later possessed as a member of the senate, that of being one of the most distinguished and cultured of French senators and one of the best orators in the country.

Lebrun's first venture in politics was as a member of the chamber of deputies shortly after the turn of the century. Since then he has represented his department in the senate and has held several minor cabinet posts. During and after the war he was a member of the "cabinet of victory" as minister of blockade and invaded regions and minister of liberated territories under Poincare. In these posts he was responsible for some of the rehabilitation work which followed the war.

He has been his country's delegate to the league of nations and has had considerable experience in handling financial and industrial matters. He is interested in a steel plant and is known as a Nationalist. Lebrun is married and has two children, a son, Jean, 25, and a married daughter, Marie Freysselinard.

FOUND AFTER 30 YEARS

Mrs. Nels P. Madsen (left) of Rockford, Ill., and her sister, Mrs. Karen Larson Newberg of 9204 Blackstone avenue, who found her after long search.

Had Never Met

Rockford, Ill., May 10.—[Special.]—A promise made to her dying mother by Mrs. Karen L. Newberg, 9204 Blackstone avenue, Chicago, was fulfilled this afternoon when she met her oldest sister, Mrs. N. P. Madsen, 62, of Rockford, whom she had never seen until today.

The dramatic meeting of the two sisters, one the youngest and the other the oldest of a family of ten children, came thirty years after Mrs. Madsen had given up completely any hope of locating any of her family, from whom as a young girl she had been separated.

Mrs. Madsen was adopted by a Mrs. Dr. Spaulding of Rockford when a baby and had never met any of her family until today, when Mrs. Newberg visited her.

The meeting was brought about when Mrs. Newberg came to Rockford last week-end to attend a dog show here, in which she had entered her prize bulldog. She had heard that her sister was living in this vicinity and had a local newspaper run a picture of her sister. Mrs. Madsen saw her picture.

"It doesn't seem possible, but there is no mistake about it," Mrs. Madsen declared as she met Mrs. Newberg. "Though you are much younger than I am, we look much alike. I can see that plainly. Even your voice is like mine."

Mrs. Newberg, the Chicago sister, obtained the addresses of another sister and brother. The other six children and the parents are dead.

HITLER PROPOSES GERMANY GO OFF GOLD STANDARD

Says Present System Has Broken Down.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 10.—Gregor Strasser, National Socialist (Fascist) deputy, told the reichstag today that Germany's strongest party, the Fascisti, is in favor of abandoning the gold standard. Revealing some points in Adolf Hitler's program, Strasser said:

"The modern economic system is no longer able to distribute nature's gifts sanely. Therefore, the system must be changed."

GEN. WILHELM GROENER.

This can be achieved by going off the gold standard and by abolishing the limits binding the amount of currency in circulation, Strasser said.

"The gold basis has become meaningless," he declared. "Capital does not make work—work creates capital. We demand that labor power be fully exploited for the general benefit, if necesary, through compulsory labor service."

How Fascists Would Do It.

Strasser insisted that it would be simple to create money to finance labor projects and that this would not result in inflation. He advocated creation of an "economic bank" for financing jobs for the unemployed.

Settling of the unemployed as homesteaders owning their homes, promotion of German peasantry, a radical reduction of rates of interest, reorganization of electricity works to reduce the current rates, a state monopoly of rye and state control of food prices were the main points of the Fascist program as enunciated by Strasser.

Strasser, in his speech, carefully sought to conciliate Chancellor Bruening and the German labor unions, thus paving the way for Facist coöperation in the government.

Later in the day another Facist spokesman, Hermann Goering, tried to wreck this rapprochment by making a virulent attack on the Bruening cabinet, which he called "weak and mild mannered."

This was followed by an uproarious scene, in which Facist members stood on their benches and shouted, "Hail Hitler!" The scene came about when Minister of Defense Gen. Wilhelm Groener defended his action in dissolving Hitler's "storm troops."

"If it had not been for the storm troops we would have had peace long ago," he shouted.

He was immediately contested loudly by Hitlerites, who shouted that Gen. Groener was "not fit to head the defense ministry. The chairman was forced to suspend the meeting until order had been restored.

REVEALS ITALY WILL NOT TRY TO BALANCE BUDGET

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, May 10.—Confidence that public finances will eventually rectify themselves when the present world-wide economic crisis has been surmounted even though this fiscal year will end, and the next one will begin, with a substantial deficit, was expressed before the Fascist chamber of deputies this afternoon by Antonio Mosconi, finance minister, in his annual budget speech.

On the question of the budget balancing, Mosconi said that Benito Mussolini's government intended to steer a middle course between the theories that the state budget should be balanced at any cost and that balancing the budget need not be bothered about for the moment if strict attention is given to national economy in other respects.

Inflation Is Assailed.

The minister said that inflation would never be the method adopted to solve Italy's troubles which, he said, had grown more complex and more severe.

Mosconi expressed the opinion that economy and budget paring should not be pushed to the extent of disorganizing the essential state services, which he said would be the case in Italy if further reductions in expenses were made.

He announced that this year's budget would likely end with a higher deficit at the close of the fiscal year, June 30, than that existing at the end of March, when it was approximately $113,000,000, and that a deficit of $84,000,000 for next year is already staring Italy in the face.

Silent on Debt to United States.

Mosconi reviewed the world situation beginning with the Wall street collapse in analyzing the present financial status of Italy. He did not mention the German reparations due Italy after July 1, or Italy's debt to the United States and how they will figure in next year's budget.

The middle course which Mosconi said Italy would choose in handling this year's budget probably refers to a plan already announced to utilize 2,000,000,000 lire [about $100,000,000] of the amount oversubscribed in the treasury bond issue floated in April for the purpose of alleviating this year's deficit in state expenses.

Even after this, Mosconi said, there would be a deficit of about 1,000,000,000 lire [$50,000,000]. The main cause of the deficit, he revealed, was the mounting costs of local government and the failure of augmented customs duties and sales taxes to bring in the expected amount of revenue.

In any case, the minister said, the country would go in for no foreign borrowing.

Mass for President Doumer to Be Celebrated Tomorrow

A solemn requiem mass will be celebrated tomorrow at the Holy Name cathedral, State street and Chicago avenue, in memory of Paul Doumer, slain president of France. The mass will be sung by Fathers Darche, La Marre, and Pardis. Gov. Emmerson, Mayor Cermak, naval and military officials and delegates of American Legion and allied war veterans' organizations have been invited. The Rotary club yesterday honored the memory of President Doumer in a luncheon meeting at the Hotel Sherman.

UNITED STATES IS GIVEN BIG CHEER BY ROTHERMERE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 11 (Wednesday).—Under a streamer heading, "The United States Is All Right," Viscount Rothermere in his Daily Mail this morning signed an article optimistically forecasting that America will emerge victorious from the present depression.

"The American people have never failed in an emergency, and they will not fail now," he wrote. "I have reached the conclusion that the despondency now prevailing there has gone much too far. I believe that we may soon expect a fully justified return of that self-reliant spirit of enterprise which during the past century has raised the United States to the status of the greatest industrial nation in the world.

He described as folly the suggestion of "certain small financial coteries in London, Paris, and New York" that the United States will commit "the almost inconceivable blunder of abandoning the gold standard." Lord Rothermere asserted that "there is, fortunately, no likelihood of such a step. Its effect would be disastrous. By maintaining the value of the dollar the United States will be helping to hasten the day when Britain returns to the gold standard."

CLOSE SCHOOLS? CERMAK TAKES WALLOP AT IDEA

Trustees Also Criticize Strayer's Report.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The report of Dr. George D. Strayer of Columbia university on the Chicago public school system was criticized yesterday by Mayor Cermak and three of the school trustees. At the same time it was commended by representatives of teachers' organizations.

The report recommended a cut of $3,846,419 in annual operating expenses and the nonexpenditure of $11,757,086 for new buildings and sites. Dr. Strayer urged the closing of the schools to force property owners to pay the taxes levied rather than impose further economies than those he recommended.

Mayor Fights School Closing.

"I'm unalterably opposed to closing of the schools," said Mayor Cermak yesterday. "Had we followed the sort of advice Dr. Strayer gave the school trustees we would have closed the city hall months ago and discontinued or reduced the fire, police, health, and other essenetial services to a point where they would have been useless."

"Dr. Strayer exhibited a lack of knowledge of Chicago tax conditions, and then presumed to advise us upon a political course of action," commented Trustee Ernest Buehler. He recommended that we rob the children of an education because their parents cannot now pay their taxes. He is illogical.

"He outlined his ideas as the last word in education and the price we must pay for it. We must take it and pay for it, or else provide the public with no educational facilities whatsoever. He would have the school system declare a strike against the property owners."

Opposes Use of Club.

"While I think that the Strayer report is a start in the right direction," said Trustee Orville J. Taylor, "I'm much opposed to closing the schools. It is offensive to me to close the schools, as Dr. Strayer suggests, as a club to make property owners pay taxes which many cannot do."

"Dr. Strayer's determined recommendation—as he phrased it—to close the schools to force people without money to pay their taxes is an idea to which I cannot subscribe," said Trustee William D. McJunkin. "I certainly will never vote to close the schools. I do not know what Dr. Strayer and staff have done for the $100,000 which their survey is costing the school system, but I shall certainly insist that he give us the information the board has requested. It appears ridiculous to me for him to suggest that he will need another year of investigation and another $100,000 to tell us what educational facilities we should supply, if we must cut our budget $10,000,000, or $20,000,000, or $30,000,000.

Would Relieve Taxpayers.

"While our idea is to relieve the taxpayers, Dr. Strayer's plan is to give them more punishment. He assumes that the great bulk of taxes have not been paid because of cussedness on the part of the people. That assumption I believe is wrong. The great percentage of people haven't paid because they haven't the money.

"He is equally in error in assuming that every part of the educational system is of the same importance. That is not true in any other branch of the government, nor in any private business."

Miss Agnes Clohesy of the elementary teachers' union referred to the Strayer report as "fair and well prepared," and added: "I am glad Dr. Strayer recommended the closing of the schools before they are wrecked."

James A. Meade of the men teachers' union said that the report shows the excessive cost of the schools is on the business side of the system.

Price of Warrants Rises.

The advance in quotations on various Chicago tax warrants is an indication that the investing public realizes that efforts to reduce governmental expenses are genuine, Mayor Cermak said yesterday. He pointed out that the city's 1931 corporate warrants had risen ten points or better within a week. They were quoted at from 84 to 88 yesterday.

"Even the 1931 school board warrants have advanced since the board showed a disposition to economize," said Mayor Cermak. "I believe the Strayer report recommending a $15,000,000 slash over there will have a further beneficial effect on the board's outstanding warrants.

"It's been a tough pull, but we seem to be moving toward a restoration of the city's credit. And that, so far as Chicago is concerned, will be one long step toward prosperity."

Descendants Present

Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Vick celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary at their Carterville, Ill., home. At the celebration were all of their descendants, none having died. There are four children, six grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren.

Dr. Vick is 83 and Mrs. Vick 78. She is the last of a family of thirteen children.

One daughter came from South America for the anniversary.

WM. A. CUNNEA MAY ENTER RACE FOR PROSECUTOR

William A. Cunnea may be entered by the Farmer-Labor party of Cook county as a third candidate for state's attorney, against State's Attorney John A. Swanson, Republican, and Thomas J. Courtney, Democrat, according to an announcement yesterday. Cunnea's friends plan to put petitions in circulation to get a Farmer-Labor county ticket on the ballot for November.

Mr. Cunnea has been a Socialist candidate for state's attorney in three campaigns in the last twenty years. In 1912 he ran against Maclay Hoyne, Democrat, and Lewis Rinaker, Republican, and contested the election of Mr. Hoyne, alleging that the old Harrison-Hearst machine had counted him out. In 1916 he ran against Mr. Hoyne and Judge Harry B. Miller, the Republican candidate, and in 1920 he was a contender against Robert E. Crowe, Republican, and Michael L. Igoe, Democrat. In 1923 he was Socialist candidate for mayor.

Others on the Farmer-Labor ticket as announced yesterday are:

Clerk of the Appelate court, Karl Borders; recorder of deeds, George A. Meade; clerk of Circuit court, Stephen Skala; clerk of Superior court, Leo O. Brockhoven; sanitary district trustees, H. H. Emmons, Torger M. Torgersen and William Baily Waltmire; county commissioner, Bernard McMahon; surveyor, Thomas L. Slater; coroner, R. B. Green.

Olive Borden's Mate May Be Accused of Bigamy

White Plains, N. Y., May 10.—(AP)—Charges that Theodore Spector bigamously married Olive Borden, screen star, will be presented to the grand jury on Thursday if Mrs. Pearl Haworth Spector, Buffalo beauty operator, appears as a witness, Assistant District Attorney Walter Ferris said today. Mrs. Spector signed an affidavit which was forwarded her from Buffalo that she had never been divorced from Spector. She says he deserted her and that he is the same man who married the screen star in Arrison in March, 1931, declaring it was his first marriage.

Policeman, Burglars Fight Gun Battle in Wilmette

FRIENDS SEEK TO REUNITE GIBSON AND MISS EILERS

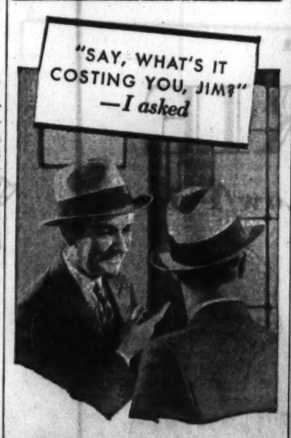
Los Angeles, Cal., May 10.—(AP)—Peace parleys between Sally Eilers, film actress, and her motion picture cowboy husband, Hoot Gibson, opened today about the same time that Mrs. Helen Gibson, the actor's divorced wife, filed an intention to marry again.

Mrs. Gibson, 29, and Robert A. Etie Jr., 31, a newspaper man, announced they would be married Friday. A financial settlement between Gibson and his divorced wife was reached last Saturday.

Meanwhile, at the beach home of Ben Lyon and Bebe Daniels, both film actors, where Miss Eilers recovered from minor injuries suffered Sunday in an automobile accident, Gibson met Miss Eilers and mutual friends in an attempt to patch up differences.

Out of the traffic accident came the announcement that Gibson and Miss Eilers had separated last Saturday because of Miss Eilers' successful career in motion pictures. Gibson said his wife "was another girl since her success in the movies."

Friends said they believed Gibson and Miss Eilers probably would not seek relief in the divorce courts.



$3.00 for this grand room—
I couldn't believe it!

JIM'S an old friend. I knew he wouldn't mind my blunt question. And, frankly, I was puzzled. Jim isn't one to spend money recklessly—can't afford to, these days. Yet here he was staying at the Book-Cadillac, Detroit's finest hotel. It must be costing him a pretty penny!

When he said, "$3.00 a day for this room. That's their new low rate," I thought he was joking. But it's a fact. Of the Book-Cadillac's 1200 rooms, five hundred are only $3.00 a day now. And what attractive, inviting rooms they are—soft, luxurious beds, private bath, circulating ice water, every convenience you can think of. Their four restaurants give equal value, too. Made me want to move right in, bag and baggage.

Testifies at Hearing on Barnett Petition.

Joseph Baum, one of the fake robbers in the conspiracy which sent Mrs. Laura B. Price, wife of a wealthy manufacturer, to jail for six months, took the witness stand in Chief Justice Harry B. Fisher's court yesterday and testified that an affidavit he had sworn to was false. The affidavit has been made the basis of a petition for a new trial in behalf of Maurice Barnett, loop jewelry dealer who was the leader in the fake robbery. Barnett was found guilty and sentenced to serve 1 to 5 years in the penitentiary for his part in the conspiracy.

The hearing was the first held on Barnett's petition, which was filed on the eve of his scheduled departure to prison. While arguments are being heard Barnett is at liberty on bond.

Calls Original Testimony True.

Baum testified that the affidavit was false and that his original testimony before the jury which convicted Barnett was true. He said he swore to the affidavit because he felt sorry for Barnett and that he was paid $50 for doing so. It was to be used only before the pardon board in a plea for clemency, he added.

The hearing was enlivened by an exchange between Attorney John L. Fogle of the bar association grievance committee, one of Barnett's lawyers, and Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, who opposed granting the petition. Prosecutor Mueller became aroused when Attorney Fogle attempted to prevent the state from showing that Mrs. Price had accused Barnett when she was first arrested.

Replies to Mueller.

"There apparently is some feeling in this matter," said Attorney Fogle when Mueller replied sharply to his objection.

"When people like you come in here and try to put something over on us there naturally is some feeling," shouted Mueller.

Judge Fisher stopped further bickering.

The prosecutor insisted that everything raised by Barnett's attorneys had been presented before the jury which convicted him. The jury was told that Baum, the state's star witness, had been granted immunity and paid some money by the insurance company swindled in the robbery, Mueller said.

The next hearing was set for May 20.

PATRICIDE SENTENCED.

Davenport, Ia., May 10.—[Special.]—Russell Hockenberry, 20, who killed his father, John Hockenberry, 56, with a board in a fit of anger on April 24, was sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment by District Judge C. L. Ely today. He pleaded guilty to second degree murder.

ALL JAPAN FEARS SHE MUST GO TO WAR WITH RUSSIA

Relations Are Strained by Events in Manchuria.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, May 11 (Wednesday).—(AP)—The government today decided to withdraw all Japanese troops from Shanghai within a month. The 14th division at Shanghai has been sent to Manchuria.

TOKIO, May 10.—Adherents of a policy of peace in the far east were alarmed today as additional symptoms of a widening of the breach between Japan and Russia made their appearance. It appears that the two nations are now perilously near an armed conflict in Manchuria. Clouds of ominous significance are gathering over the political horizon, and little is being done to relieve the tense situation.

Actual Russo-Japanese warfare, in the minds of students of history here, seems to be merely a matter of time. The collision may not occur for six months or a year, or it may even be two or more years away, but it will take place ultimately, is the view of more and more people.

Japanese Blame Soviets.

This is held to be largely due to the soviet refusing to accept the changes that have come over Manchuria—at least, the presumption in official Japanese circles is that Moscow is not likely willingly to reconcile herself to these changes.

For some time not alone the news agencies and newspapers of Japan, but also important government departments, such as the foreign office, the war office and the navy department, have been receiving reports of warlike preparations by the soviet along the Manchu-soviet frontier. They have been hearing stories of trenches being dug, of work being in progress for double tracking a portion of the trans-Siberian railway, of troops concentrating along the border, of men being deployed in such a manner that suggests hostilities, of massing of airplanes; even of day and night transportation of foodstuffs and ammunition and of the conversion of chemical factories in soviet Russia to war purposes, and of the fortification of Russian islands near Vladivostok.

Jap War Office Worried.

Hitherto, the Japanese evinced no particularly anxiety with regard to these reports, but as they grew in intensity and as, it is to be presumed, the truth of some of them became established, the war department here has sat up and taken notice. Whatever Russia's real intent, Japanese opinion is that the intent is warlike. Hitherto Russia regarded north Manchuria as her sphere of influence, but this has, to all intents and purposes, ceased as the result of Japan's recent military operations there and the creation of the new independent Manchurian republic, which embraces both north and south Manchuria and Inner Mongolia. And there have been other factors which have been productive of friction between Japan and Russia.

There was the closing of the Bank of Corea's Vladivistok branch, which was tantamount to excluding Japanese enterprises from the soviet union; there was the dispute over the value of the ruble; there was the row regarding the apportioning of fisheries in Kamchatka waters—to mention just a few.

Russia Wants a Port.

When Japan made her first move in Manchuria, the soviet ambassador in Tokio, Alexandre Troyanovsky, at a dinner given for him, told newspapermen that Russia did not covet one bit of whatever there was in Manchuria, on the ground that Siberia possessed all the natural resources Manchuria had and much more.

Why, then, he wanted to know, did people talk of Russia taking umbrage at Japan's action in that territory? He forgot to say that there was one thing that Russia does not possess and which has been the objective of Russia, both imperial and soviet, for generations—a warm water port with access to the outer world.

Russia of old, it should be remembered, tried to secure that at Constantinople, bringing about the Crimean war, and afterwards in the direction of the Persian gulf. This latter attempt was again checked by Great Britain with the tacit consent of France. It was then that Russia turned her eyes toward the far east and sought at Dalny [now Dairen] what she could not get in Europe or southern Asia.

Resulted in One War.

She commenced slowly to absorb Manchuria and pushed herself closer to the ocean's rim when Japan, realizing the peril that would confront her if Russia actually became impregnably entrenched on the coast, fought the Russo-Japanese war with results that are now history. But, though balked and thwarted, Russia's ambition for a warm water port has never been yet definitely abandoned, according to Japanese military observers.

Today the situation has undergone one even more serious change, insofar as Russia is concerned. The soviet practically sees herself shut off from Manchuria, both north and south, unless she enters commercially with the permission of the new Manchoukuo government, which is a mere euphemism for saying that the consent of Japan will be needed and that Japan will regulate the rate and the pace.

It is further pointed out here that the soviet itself is in reality expressing apprehension regarding the territorial integrity and administrative sovereignty of its own domains. Some of Russia's greatest spokesmen have recently been thundering about Russia not wanting an inch of any one's soil, but of her determination to defend to the last man the integrity of her own territory. And the inspired soviet press has been clamoring against the so-called imperialist nations, alleging that they have dread designs against Russian territory, with badly veiled allusions to Japan.

Think Soviets Want Showdown.

In Japan, on the other hand, the feeling is growing that the soviet is out for a showdown. Gen. Sadao Araki, Japanese war minister, speaking at Osaka recently, said he was at a loss to understand the "warlike preparations being made by the soviet on the Manchu-Russian border."

Gen. Araki also availed himself of the opportunity to declare that Japan would not permit the soviet, or any one else, to interfere with the changes that have come about in Manchuria. He declared that "nothing will prevent us from carrying on the aims and objectives we have set our heart on. We are prepared to thwart and frustrate any one or anything that stands in our way."

Various estimates are given here as to the number of troops Russia has concentrated in the far east. Some put the number at between 75,000 and 100,000. The Japanese war minister himself estimated them at nine divisions. It is also said soviet chemical factories have been put on such a basis that they can immediately begin the manufacture of poison gas.

Many Japanese hold that the Russo-Japanese war of 1904-5 was not fought to a logical conclusion and that a new conflict between these two countries will be necessary to clean up the slate in this part of the world. This was a view that Count Soyejima, a member of the house of peers, expressed as far back as 1922. Ever since then events have been shaping that way. Count Soyejima said then:

"If the soviet keeps nursing the same old dreams of aggrandizement as did czarist Russia war will come within the next ten years if Japan's position in Manchuria is endangered or contested."

China May Help Russia.

If Japan and Russia should clash, China will undoubtedly takes sides with Russia, if for no other reason than because the resentment of the Chinese against Japan has been stirred to fever point by the recent events in Manchuria and Shanghai. The Coreans will undoubtedly agitate for independence. Moreover, with world opinion antagonistic toward Japan, as it has been ever since the Shanghai outbreak, it is not unlikely that the Russians feel confident of winning world sympathy and support in any clash with Japan at present.

To support his contention that Russia is preparing for an armed conflict, ostensibly with Japan, Lieut. Gen. Hata, head of the intelligence bureau of the war office, points out that the major part of the five year plan is aimed at developing industries which have a direct bearing upon national defense.

Gen. Hata declares that Russia now has a total of 1,300,000 men in military service. Russia also has 1,600 planes and will have 2,000 by 1933.

SHANGHAI AGITATION FOR CONTINUATION OF JAP BOYCOTT GROWS

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

SHANGHAI, May 10.—While the Japanese troops are withdrawing from the occupied areas around Shanghai, the Chinese clamor against the armistice agreement recently signed is assuming alarming proportions. All the Chinese newspapers in Shanghai are printing large advertisements signed by eighty-nine unions and guilds declaring that they will not recognize the peace pact and that they intend to continue anti-Japanese movements "as long as the Japanese remain in Shanghai, Dairen, Port Arthur, and Manchurian cities."

Japs Evict Russian Workers.

HARBIN, Manchuria, May 10.—(AP)—Several hundred Russians employed by the Chinese-Russian owned Chinese Eastern railway workshops went on strike today because, the railroad authorities said, they and their families have been evicted from their homes by Japanese troops who took over the buildings as barracks. The Russian railway officials notified Moscow of the incident.

AUSTRIAN NAZIS RIOT AT RECITAL BY U. S. NEGRO

Aubrey Pankey Guarded by Police.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, May 10.—Austrian Fascisti went gunning not only for Jews but for Negroes last night. Outside the Mozart concert hall in Salzburg hundreds of Hitlerites staged a demonstration against Aubrey Pankey, American Negro baritone, who was giving a recital inside.

Under orders from the Vienna government to put down the Hitlerite Nazis at all costs, the state police charged the demonstrators and after severe fighting drove them off. Persons wishing to attend the concert were afforded police protection and Pankey was finally able to proceed with his recital.

Pankey Is Surprised.

The singer was frightened and surprised.

"I thought I was in some of the southern sections of the United States when I heard the mob," he said. "I never expected this in Europe."

Musical leaders declared this was the first time such an occurrence ever had happened in Austria. Paul Robeson has packed concert halls in Vienna and Salzburg often in recent years and always has received courteous treatment, they said.

Wreck Movie House.

At Graz last night the Nazis wrecked the Schubert movie house because they objected to a film by Magnus Hirschfield, well known German sexologist. Hirschfield is a Jew. About 100 Hitlerites invaded the cinema house, threw stench bombs and pelted the screen with ink bottles. Capturing the hall, they turned the occasion into a Nazi meeting. They broke up singing "Deutschland Uber Alles."

Nazi storm troops threatened today to break up the show of Josephine Baker, Negress, who is performing in vaudeville here. They called upon "misguided Austrians" to boycott the American star.

APPEAL FOR AUTOS TO CARRY VETS ON MEMORIAL DAY

An appeal for automobiles to carry veterans of the civil and world wars in the Memorial day parade was made yesterday by the Grand Army of the Republic Memorial association of Cook county.

More than 100 automobiles are needed to transport world war veterans from the Edward Hines, Great Lakes, and North Chicago hospitals in the parade, to a 6 o'clock dinner and back to the hospitals. Other cars are needed to take civil war veterans to cemeteries for services, through the parade and to their homes. Automobile owners willing to serve are asked to communicate with Thomas I. Breen, 917 West 77th street, or Edward F. McGinnis, 209 North La Salle street.

22 DIE, 100 HURT AS TORNADO HITS JAIL; 200 ESCAPE

CALCUTTA, India, May 10.—(AP)—Twenty-two guards and prisoners were killed and thirty-five seriously injured today in an outbreak which occurred at the jail at Mymensingh, Bengal, when a tornado blew the roof off the building.

Sixty-five others were less seriously hurt, and 200 convicts, including many political prisoners described as dangerous, escaped. Armed police are scouring the vicinity trying to round up the jail's fleeing population.

The tornado also played havoc in several nearby villages, causing several deaths and destroying many houses.

TATLER COLUMNIST QUIZZED IN CARLTON COMPANY HEARING

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—John C. Schemm, whose comments and ratings as the anonymous columnist "Audacious" of the Tatler and American Sketch caused many a heartache among the season's buds, testified today that he had received $34,000 from the magazine in the last three years for his services as editor and debutante classifier.

That salary was paid by the Carlton Publishing company, publishers of the Tatler. In addition he received a second salary from the Windsor Publishing company, the amount of which he did not disclose.

The officers of the Carlton company were examined by Frederick Fenster, an attorney, in a supplementary proceedings in connection with two judgments obtained by creditors.

The company, with Schemm as president, Albert W. Gardiner, general manager, and John H. Hade, vice president, was enjoined by the attorney general's office last January from further sales of stock of the Tatler.

Despite this blow to its prestige, the Tatler has continued to appear, although somewhat subdued in text. But it is no longer published by the Carlton company, a fact which has caused some concern among the Carlton's creditors.

Schemm was instructed to produce the Carlton's books and records today, but he failed to do so. He also appeared to be a bit vague about the company transactions, although he was president until quite recently.

The company had a capitalization of 100,000 common and 150,000 preferred shares, he said. He had no idea how much of this stock was sold.

The top circulation of the Tatler in its happier days was 6,000, and if any one had ever represented it to be higher—say 18,000 or 20,000—he didn't know about it, Schemm said. He, personally, made no such representations.

He didn't know whether or not the Carlton company had any outstanding accounts. As a matter of fact, he had resigned, he said, from the Carlton firm shortly after the attorney general completed his investigation which led to the injunctions.

LADY CHETWODE MAKES U. S. VISIT IN TOURIST CABIN

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—'Tis said my Lord Chetwode of Chetwode accompanied King Richard Cœur de Lion to the Holy Land and had a lot to write home to the folks thereof, particularly the hardships of his journey. But it remained for Hester Alice Camilla, the present Lady Chetwode, to embark from the manor of Chetwode and set forth on the perilous pilgrimage to New York in a tourist third class cabin.

"And I loved it, every minute," said Lady Chetwode today on her arrival from Southampton aboard the White Star liner Majestic. It was quite nice."

The wife of Gen. Sir Philip Chetwode, former chief of staff of the British forces in India, was asked why she had deserted the swank promenade deck for the shadowy depths usually frequented by such common creatures as college professors, students, and laborites.

She laughed right merrily.

"Why," Lady Chetwode cried, "should I pay all that money when I could travel third class for $99?"

The intrepid voyager said she came to New York to visit with her son, Roger Charles, who is studying banking with the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co.

German Editor Imprisoned; Printed Reichstag Reports

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 10.—Efforts to win a pardon for Carl von Ossietzki, who was sentenced to prison because he reprinted reichstag reports on aviation in his magazine, the Weltbuehne, failed today and the editor was imprisoned. To protest what they termed a violation of the freedom of the press many German writers accompanied Ossietzki to the gates of the prison. Albert Einstein, famous scientist, was among those who protested against the sentence.

COURT UPHOLDS CONVICTION OF BECK, OLEO FOE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., May 10.—[Special.]—Conviction of J. D. Beck, one of the state's farm commissioners, for contempt of court, which proved a fruitless issue in the recent campaign against Circuit Judge A. G. Zimmerman, was upheld by the Supreme court today.

Beck must pay the fine of $250 assessed against him in the lower court for his insistence on sending out lists of Wisconsin grocers who sold oleomargarine in spite of a court injunction against this practice.

The Supreme court, in its decision by Chief Justice M. B. Rosenberry, declared it was not concerned with the question whether Judge Zimmerman had valid reasons for granting the injunction and belittles the Beck defense that the injunction was a curb of free speech. The same constitution guarantees free speech also provides that courts have the power to determine the oleomargarine dispute, the decision says.

Denies Free Speech Perilled.

"Had the defendant wished a determination of whether or not the order was erroneous he should have appealed from that order instead of proceeding to violate its terms," Justice Rosenberry said. "His right of free speech would have been no more impaired or suspended than the right of the innocent defendant who has been erroneously convicted of a crime. "Even though he is deprived of his liberty he must await the orderly processes of the law. Any other theory would throw society into confusion."

DEAD AVIATOR'S FAMILY TARGET OF EXTORTIONIST

Threats Made Against Fargo Children.

An extortionist who sent threatening notes to Mrs. Gwendolyn Hart Fargo, demanding $1,000 under penalty of injury to her two small sons, was being sought last night by police and operatives of the Edward J. Hargrave Secret Service agency.

Mrs. Fargo is the widow of Lieut. Charles H. Fargo, an army reserve air corps officer, member of a prominent Chicago family, who was killed with a fellow reserve officer on April 30 when the airplane in which they were riding crashed into a house on the south side.

Gets Threat After Funeral.

The ruthlessness of the extortionist was demonstrated by the fact that his first note demanding money was received by Mrs. Fargo on the afternoon of May 3, the day after her husband's funeral. The note was delivered to her home, 1512 North Dearborn parkway.

The two children of Mrs. Fargo, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Russell Hart of Boston, are Charles H. Jr., 6 years old, and Bronson Fargo, 3 years old. Lieut. Fargo was the son of the late Edward A. Fargo, president of the Fargo-Hallowell Shoe company. Mrs. Fargo's father is vice chairman of the directorate of the Old Colony Trust company of Boston.

The first note received by Mrs. Fargo said her sons would be in danger unless the sum of $1,000 was paid. The note was signed "We."

Mrs. Fargo consulted Attorney William C. Boyden Jr. and officials of the Hargrave agency.

On Monday morning a letter was delivered to Mrs. Fargo. It said: "Send money at once, in 5, 10, and 20 dollars bills, to Leonard Mann, 125 South Leavitt street, Chicago."

Dummy Letter Delivered.

George Hargrave arranged to have a special delivery dummy letter delivered to the Leavitt street address by a messenger on Monday evening. Mr. Hargrave, with Lieut. Albert Hoffman and a detective bureau squad, entered the house a moment after the messenger.

They found the place to be a rooming house, operated by Mrs. Rose Henry. No man who might have sent the notes was there. Mrs. Henry said a man had come to her house several days ago and had asked for a room. He had no funds, she said, and she refused to admit him. Then, she related, the man told her he was expecting a special delivery letter with money and asked her to accept the letter. He promised to return later and then to engage a room.

Mrs. Henry was held in custody while the police lay in wait for the extortionist. He did not appear, however. Yesterday a writ of habeas corpus was filed in behalf of Mrs. Henry, and the police released her last night.

Seized as Girl's Kidnaper.

Raymond Foster, 26 years old, 1511 East 64th street, was held last night by Woodlawn police on a charge of kidnaping a 5 year old girl.

Shortly after noon yesterday Mrs. Samuel Zovetti of 1507 East 64th street, said she saw him lead her daughter, Sonia, out of the rear yard, and take her to his automobile parked in the alley. Mrs. Zovetti screamed, attracting the attention of her husband. As Zovetti ran out, Foster drove away with Sonia. The father pursued them for three blocks. Then Foster put the child out of his car and speed away.

Neighbors recognized Foster as a new resident of the neighborhood, and last night Policemen Milward Coughlan and John Deady found him in front of his home. He was talking to two little girls, they said. Foster denied he meant to kidnap or harm the Zovetti girl. He said he was only taking her for a ride. Zovetti later signed a kidnaping complaint against him.

Aviation Notes

The new overnight air mail service from Chicago to New England cities, over United Air lines, has resulted in an increased volume, according to officials. Mail deposited in the loop postoffice by 7:30 p. m. reaches Boston and cities in Connecticut, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and eastern New York for the early morning delivery. Deposits by 11:15 p. m. reach New York City in time for early morning delivery.

Refinement of engineering details in the valves and combustion chambers of Lycoming motors has resulted in reducing the cost of operating the new Stinson tri-motor plane by 25 per cent, L. B. Manning, vice president of Cord corporation, said yesterday. The power of the motors was increased by 25 horsepower, the consumption of gasoline reduced and the load carrying ability of the planes increased 600 pounds. The plane already is noted for its low operations cost.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Peoria, Ill., May 10.—[Special.]—The first panel of four jurors for the trial of ten men and two women charged with kidnaping Dr. James W. Parker for $50,000 ransom was sworn and locked up for the night at the close of the second day's session.

HARRY PRATT.

The panel was tendered by the defense and accepted by State's Attorney Henry Pratt just before 6 p. m., after a day's proceeding that resembled a volley ball game, with defense and prosecution tossing panels back and forth. In less than five minutes, the prosecutor examined and tendered another panel of four, but two of them immediately were excused by the defense and the others may be on further examination.

The four jurors are Walter Cusack, mine operator from Edwards; Russell Paris, Chillicothe painter; Edward Ott, Peoria radio repairman; Clyde Bocock, Peoria salesman. Both defense and prosecution were encouraged by the agreement on the first panel and expressed the hope that the jury would be completed in another day or two.

The defense attorneys, led by George Sprenger, are making no effort to conserve on their peremptory challenges, for a total of 240 is alloted for the twelve defendants. They have exercised 47 unexplained dismissals and 17 for cause. Mr. Pratt, on the other hand, has employed only one of his allotted 240 peremptory excuses and has excused only two for cause.

Public sentiment against kidnaping was shown in the jury box yesterday in Judge Philip L. Sullivan's court, where four men were placed on trial, charged with kidnaping Dr. Max Gecht. Of the twenty-one veniremen called into the jury box at the opening session of the trial only two of them said that they had scruples against the infliction of the death penalty in a kidnaping case.

"I certainly have not," was the usual reply of the veniremen when asked if they had any scruples against the death penalty "in a proper kidnaping case."

One Defendant Is a Lawyer.

The defendants are Attorney Ward Swalwell, who was an assistant prosecutor during the Robert E. Crowe regime; William Thomas, John Pingera, and Edward Finnen. Nell Montague, alias Russell, another defendant, escaped from jail when his brother substituted for him at a Sunday visit.

The defense attorneys, James Burke and Everett Jennings, seemed most concerned over whether the Lindbergh baby kidnaping case would react against their clients. They asked each veniremen if he would put anything he had read about kidnaping cases from his mind and try the present case only on the evidence produced in the courtroom.

Assistant State's Attorneys C. Wayland Brooks and Ross Lee Laird directed most of their questions along the line of accomplice testimony.

Turns State's Evidence.

Gus Sanger, owner of a bungalow where Dr. Gecht and Mrs. Gecht were held prisoner, has turned state's evidence and will be the chief prosecution witness. It was because Sanger became infatuated with Mrs. Gecht while she was a prisoner that the arrest of the gang was accomplished after the couple had been freed. It is said that Dr. Gecht paid $2,800 ransom.

When court adjourned last evening only two jurors had been accepted by both sides. They were George Broderick, 1551 West 86th street, and Harry Baker, 6404 South Morgan street.

FREED IN CHECK CASE.

A charge of passing a bad check against Arthur Freeman, 30 years old, son of a milk distributor in Flint, Mich., was freed yesterday by Municipal Judge Harold P. O'Connell at the request of the Hotel Sherman, which cashed the check. Freeman made it good.

SPURN OFFERS BY FACTOR TO REFUND MILLION

The latest offer of John [Jake the Barber] Factor, the former Halsted street barber, to refund money to British creditors whom he is alleged to have swindled out of almost $7,000,000, in return for the dropping of all prosecution, both civil and criminal, last night was spurned by attorneys for the investors and for the British crown.

FRANKLIN R. OVERMYER.

In the latter of two offers which were made when he was arraigned before United States Commissioner Walker in a preliminary to extradition proceedings Factor proposed to give back $30,000, approximately $1,100,000. This sum would be divided among 1,500 investors who are alleged to have lost almost $7,000,000 in stock transactions with the Bond Street Press, a British company through which Factor operated.

Fight to Finish Ordered.

"There is absolutely no truth in the reports that criminal proceedings will be stopped if Factor makes partial restitution," Franklin R. Overmyer, attorney for the British government in Chicago, said. "We are under standing orders to fight the case to the finish. We will not rest until he is extradited to England for trial. If he wants to make restitution to the people he swindled, that is up to him; but it will not affect extradition. He is a menace wherever he is."

Attorney John H. S. Lee of Chicago, representing the British investors in a suit to break Factor's $3,000,000 trust fund, also declared positively that no deal will be made with Factor. A hearing on the suit is scheduled before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward on Saturday.

"Before I could make any deal with Factor," he said, "I would have to present his offer to a general meeting of the British investors who lost money dealing with his company. I certainly would not compound a felony by trying to get criminal prosecution stopped in return for a settlement. Also, a settlement of only $1,100,000 in a suit involving almost $7,000,000 would be ridiculous."

Case Before Appeals Court.

The application of the British government to extradite Factor is before the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The brief for the crown already has been filed, Overmyer said, and the defense probably will file its brief next week. Within ten days a reply brief will be filed, and arguments probably will be heard in June.

According to Factor, negotiations for the settlement of all claims against him are being carried on by Attorney Sidney S. Stein. At Stein's office it was said he is in London "in connection with the business of Mr. Factor. He is attempting a settlement that will stop litigation both in England and in the United States." Stein is not expected back for three weeks.

OLDSMOBILE owners will tell you that their cars provide the one thing to be desired above all others in a motor car—genuine, deep-seated satisfaction. In fact, so stoutly do these owners champion Oldsmobile that it has earned the name of "the car that owners recommend to their friends." And therein lies the one sure guide to safe selection of your motor car. For the acid test of an automobile's worth is its record in owners' hands—its established capacity for giving satisfaction through months and miles of driving, over all roads and under all driving conditions. How well Oldsmobile passes this test is conclusively proved by the fact that an impressive proportion of Oldsmobile sales is definitely traceable to the enthusiasm of owners in recommending the car to their friends. The Oldsmobile Six and Straight Eight for 1932 bring you those modern features which are found on the finest motor cars . . . at appealingly moderate prices. Let us demonstrate Oldsmobile to you, at your convenience.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE STRAYER REPORT.

Dr. George Strayer of Columbia university has told the board of education of Chicago that it can cut the 90 million dollar budget, recently passed, to 75 million dollars without seriously impairing the educational value of the public schools. He would save something less than 4 million dollars chiefly by economies in business management and the remaining 11 million by postponing the purchase of sites and the erection of new buildings.

No one familiar with the personnel and political antecedents of the school board majority can doubt for a moment that the economies proposed can be made without injury to the children. The question remains whether Dr. Strayer has gone as far as he could or should have. A considerable acquaintance with local government finance in Chicago suggests that if 15 million can be saved without appreciable loss to the pupils, twice as much could be taken from the budget with little greater injury. Government services tend to acquire a thick coating of fat. A good deal of it can be removed, as Dr. Strayer testified, without coming even close to the lean meat, by the use of an instrument no more delicate than a cleaver. A sharp knife in a skillful hand might well strip off twice as much with the loss of little more of the lean.

Dr. Strayer and his staff are school men with the predispositions and prejudices of school men. It is entirely possible to agree with him that it would be better to close the schools for several months than to try to keep them open for the full year without enough money to support a well rounded educational program; but when that is said, the question remains whether, with many more savings than he has indicated, good schools cannot be provided.

In this connection it is to be regretted that he did not find it possible to tell the school board just what would have to be sacrificed if another 5 million or 10 million reduction were to be ordered. Quite possibly the well rounded program which he has in mind is merely a traditionally correct program containing all the accumulations and accretions of forty or fifty years of school management. Certainly a number of items in the conventional school program have proved themselves of more or less doubtful value and a critical examination of them might justify the conclusion that some could be dropped, experimentally at least. Dr. Strayer's interim report, unfortunately, has not pointed the way to such savings.

Dr. Strayer's report has clarified somewhat but it has not solved the problem confronting the board of education. The board is not going to get the 90 million dollars which it appropriated, but neither is it going to get the 75 million which Dr. Strayer took as the ultimate goal of retrenchment. The taxpayers cannot or will not provide that much money this year and for the purposes of the board of education that is the controlling fact in the situation.

Dr. Strayer has advised the board that further savings beyond the recommended 15 million dollars should be made at the expense of the school calendar rather than of the curriculum. That is a solution which may have to be accepted, but it ought not be adopted until parents and taxpayers know a good deal more definitely than they now do what courses of instruction would remain if the curriculum were trimmed to meet probable income.

VENGEANCE AND THE CRIMINAL.

Thomas Rice, associate editor of the Panel, publication of the New York Grand Jurors' association, contributes to the Brooklyn Eagle some remarks deserving attention as to the recent lynching in Kansas of a confessed rapist and murderer. Mr. Rice was a member of the New York state crime commission during its five years' existence and does not speak without information and reflection. He suggests that the Kansas lynching was given less newspaper attention than such events have received in the past because editors felt that probably 80 per cent of their readers thought the lynching was justifiable, in view of the Lindbergh case and other crimes of somewhat similar nature. And he points out that Kansas has no capital punishment, the only penalty that could satisfy the moral sense of the people in this case. Therefore the people took justice into their own hands, as they will do when lawful procedure is inadequate.

We believe Mr. Rice is sound in his opinion that lynching or private justice will increase, at least as to extreme crimes, if the penalties of law do not satisfy the moral sense of the community, as they often do not. And we share his dissatisfaction with the constant pressure of professional humanitarians to mitigate punishment even of violent crimes by one means or another.

This tendency is justified on the theory that the element of vengeance must be strictly excluded from the consideration of legal penalty. The theory regards the criminal and his restoration to lawful living as the object of our law. Humanitarians, so-called, are preoccupied with restoration and would have doubts resolved in favor of that happy outcome rather than in favor of the safety of possible victims. They are so concerned with the possibilities of salvage of offenders that they give little consideration to the salvage of communities from the consequences of mistaken judgment.

From this point of view indignation toward the criminal and pity for his victim are irrelevant and subversive. This indulges an inexpensive virtue for those who have not suffered at a criminal's hands. It is also a view that in Mr. Rice's opinion and in ours is subversive of security to an extent not compensated by gains in the direction of individual salvage among offenders. The latter objective is desirable but should be pursued with more regard for the former, which is or ought to be the prime consideration of penal procedure. Mr. Rice says:

"The statute law is a substitute accepted by the community in the place of the right of private vengeance. When a criminologist or penologist preaches that the element of vengeance must not enter into the enforcement of the criminal law he is going against human nature and he is encouraging lynch law and private vengeance.

"The sooner we throw aside the sanctimonious posing about administering the criminal law with no thought of giving the injured person a substitute for his private vengeance the longer we will preserve the community from an outbreak of lynch law that will be appalling."

SERRITELLA GUILTY.

Daniel Serritella and Harry Hochstein have been found guilty by a jury in Judge Kelly's court. Serritella, a state senator, was city sealer in the administration before Mayor Cermak's. Hochstein was his deputy. They were indicted, charged with operating a system of extortions by which they plundered food merchants and permitted short weight selling. Honest merchants submitted to avoid persecution and dishonest ones to practice deceits.

Serritella was, and in spite of changing fortunes may still be, a friend of Capone's. As such he had one arm linked in the big gangster's elbow and another around the shoulders of the city officials—an important person in city hall politics and an important one in the gangs—the link which is hardly ever missing although not always so visible in the big parade.

Capone's soup kitchens, the good works of a bad man, were supplied, it appears, by Serritella's raids upon the merchants. This and other charity was the ghost virtue of high grade banditry using city office as the gun. Citizens who find themselves looking into the muzzle of this gun feel peculiarly helpless. Government is on the trigger end and they seek peace, even if they do not seek profit, by caving in on demand. It was a rotten state of affairs and, in the administration which Capone's friend Serritella graced, the city sealer was not the only one of the kind. Nor was Hochstein the only other.

The jury did a good turn to honest business with its verdict of guilty. The immunity of the plunderers has ceased to be so formidable. Capone and his brother and several of their associates are doing time. They have been joined by their friends in official and political life. Timothy Crowe is under sentence. The state courts as well as the federal courts are getting results. Times are brightening for the honest man and getting tougher for the crooks.

BALTIMORE GETS OUT FROM UNDER.

Baltimore is at last rid of some repressive Sabbatarian laws which represented ideas of proper conduct two hundred years old. For the first time last Sunday recreations desired by the majority of the people were legally open to them. Manners and customs change, but legal moralities die hard when an insistent clericalism maintains that it would be impiety to change them. Rigid Sabbatarianism is particularly persistent in the south and no observer could say that social conditions are the better for it.

Recreations in themselves innocent and orderly are denied and the effect upon youth kept from the reasonable outlets for energy, outlets for the natural desire for entertainment, is not good. The repressions were thought to be necessary in a time when even happiness was doubtfully consistent with virtue and when the hereafter was a dreadful oppression upon the living day.

Even then the consequences were far from what the theory expected. Today the fallacy that personal character and public order are helped by repressions of activities in themselves beneficial or harmless is so apparent that the endurance of old codes is remarkable. Equally remarkable is the extent to which they do endure in many sections of the country.

Editorial of the Day

"COMMUTATION."

[N. Y. Evening Post.]

It does not yet appear why Gov. Judd commuted the sentences in the Massie case instead of issuing full pardons. We agree with the declaration of the Honolulu Advertiser that "Gov. Judd has been evasive and ungenerous." He also seems to us unwise for his own objective. The governor apparently wants quiet. About Hawaii he wants peace at home and abroad. Business is suffering. Yet already agitation has started to get a full pardon from President Hoover and thus remove the stigma which Judd's action may be said to leave upon the names of the four defendants. He won't have peace while that goes on. His only road to real reëstablishment of the islands in outside opinion was to give a full pardon to the four whites and a stern trial to the rapists. He has done neither. It is now said that there will be no trial of the Hawaiians who assaulted Mrs. Massie. If that is so, they will go absolutely free, while the four who avenged their crime stand under the technical disability of having served a term for felony. It seems to be out of Judd's character to do a clean and decisive act. Can't he understand the real issues in this case? Hawaii is held in low esteem on the American mainland because, in the first place, the wife of an American naval officer was assaulted by five Hawaiians who were given an easy trial with a weak prosecutor and a police force that aided the rapists. The next reason is that when the aggrieved family undertook the punishment which Hawaii denied, Hawaii gave them a judge that bullied the grand jury, a prosecutor who bullied and insulted the defendants and a jury which gave them the punishment which the rapists did not get. In his sullen, ungracious way the governor has partially righted the latter of these wrongs through his partial pardon. But the first offense against decent public opinion still stands. As long as the rapists go unpunished, so long will a bad name hang over Hawaii. Gov. Judd might as well learn that fact once and for all.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THERE IS GREAT EXCITEMENT in American newspapers over whether Uncle Andy Mellon will wear knee britches or long pantaloons at his first appearance at a royal court in London tonight. England doesn't seem to care a hoot whether the American ambassador wears regular trousers or panties, but Americans work up an awful fever over short pants. We've become a little more reasonable on the subject since golf became popular and plus fours became known. But it isn't many years since a farmer out in Iowa opened fire with a shotgun on the first golfer he ever saw wearing abbreviated pants. "Jedge, I hed ter shoot at him," the farmer told the court; "them things he was a wearin' on his legs was jest immoral an' a temptin' providence, that's all." But a glance at the gals' new styles in bathing suits for this year leads us to believe that the day will eventually come when the American ambassador can wear panties to the royal court at Buckingham palace without getting more than five lines on an inside page in any American newspaper.

CONSOLATE.

I bought this truth with all my first maturing,
This single thing, and not a fragment more;
That life is loneliness beyond the curing,
That all roads lead to some impassable door,
That not the closest clasp of loved and lover,
That not the surest bond from friend to friend
Has power to hide the thing mine eyes discover—
The barricade where all communions end.

Alone but for the song that dies in singing,
The lucent word that shines and disappears,
Bringer of gifts that perish with the bringing,
I shall go wandering through all my years;
While the night widens and the stars grow dim,
I must encounter that determined stranger
Whose name is Death, and come to grips with him.

Since it is so, so let the Furies shape it;
Since he will lay his hand on me at last,
Since by no strategy can I escape it,
Since I am soon a sliver of the past,
I have no hour to spend in fear and darkness
Though fear and darkness press upon my soul;
For me one thought in all its radiant starkness,
One single certainty, one blazing goal;

Though love may go, and come no more forever,
Though friends may tire of waiting and forsake,
Though children I have brought to birth may sever
Though I approach my end alone and bleeding
With wounds from hands I kissed in tender glee,
For me no other path, no other leading
Than this which binds, and sets forever free:

The lonely road, the wind that blows unresting,
The crystal moon set silent in the sky,
The light that lies beyond my farthest questing,
The secret that shall claim me till I die;
Dreams of today that will be dead tomorrow,
Will-o'-the-wisps that flee before the sun,
And the long quiet when the last song's done.

"PLAN ARMY MANEUVERS to Capture Chicago."—Headline. Well, well, so the army is going to take Chicago. And they're talking down in New York of selling Manhattan island back to the Indians. And Honolulu will be given to the navy and Henry Ford's got Detroit. Well, it may all be for the best after all.

A STORY COMES from Nebraska which seems to prove that hitch hikers are not as careless and indifferent as they have been pictured. A tourist from the east en route to California picked up a hitch hiker. It wasn't long before the sympathetic tourist was thrown bodily out of his car and the hitch hiker proceeded alone. After a few miles trudging across the plains the tourist was delighted to find his pajamas and his toothbrush and tube of tooth paste deposited by the side of the road. It was certainly very thoughtful and most gracious of the hitch hiker to do this, and therefore we must give credit where credit is due. As Henry the Eighth remarked to Catherine of Cleves. Catherine couldn't speak English, anyhow, so it was no matter.

The Motor Age.

Two New York gals, society gals, well rather, gayly clad in blue and pink jodhpurs, hied themselves to the riding stable to a riding go. They were asked by the groom as to whether they preferred a western or English saddle. The one in blue wanted to know the difference in the saddles and the groom explained, "Well, the western saddle has a horn," to which remark the pink garbed one replied, "I don't really think we will need it, as we are just learning to ride and won't be going where there is much traffic." BETTY ECKERSALL.

NOW SOMEBODY HAS INVENTED what they call the doughnut tire for autos. Fine, but somebody ought to invent some sort of device that automatically grasps the auto drivers' elbows when they are carried outside the car and push them back in again. The third time the machine should slap the extended wrist three times and say, "Now don't do that again." The point is that when a side swipe from another car happens—well, if the arms or elbows are sticking out of the side of a car it's just too bad.

PRACTICAL.

"Let us live as best we can,"
Said a sage for publication,
"We are not the gods, but man;
Let us live as best we can."
So he robbed a caravan
To relieve the situation.
"Let us live as best we can,"

IS TUBERCLE VACCINATION SAFE?

FIVE years ago the New York City health department commenced trying out the B. C. G. method of vaccinating children against consumption. This method was proposed by Dr. Calmette of the Pasteur institute in Paris, twelve years ago, based on work which was begun more than twenty years earlier. After satisfying himself, with his test tube specimens, the distinguished Frenchman extended his research to laboratory animals. After working for several seasons in this field he began vaccinating calves. Work in protecting children was the next step and, finally, work was begun with selected groups of adults. Up to the present time he reports that the number of children vaccinated in various parts of the world runs well above a million, and the number of cattle vaccinated is about as great.

The length of time since the first calves were injected has been long enough for the animals to have matured, gone to producing milk, and lived out the expected life of a cow at the pail. Some of the children vaccinated years ago are now grownups.

Dr. Calmette is firm in his belief that he is preventing consumption by the use of a simple, inexpensive, and safe method. Both of his claims have been disputed. A recent report by Drs. Kereszturi, W. H. Park, and B. Schick relate particularly to the question of safety. In 1927 they commenced the use of the vaccine given to young babies in milk by the mouth. This is the method that I saw on trial in Montreal several years ago. Since 1929, in New York City, they have been injecting vaccine under the skin in some cases, and into the skin in others. They have found no harm results of particular importance when the vaccination is done either way. The vaccinated children give a positive tuberculin test, and this capacity persists for several months.

No other evidence that they were tuberculous was given and this positive tuberculin test was taken as proving that the method was working successfully in so far as the test threw any light on that question. The percentage of success measured by this standard was eighty-seven. The vaccinated children had no fever and lost no weight. Some of the cases developed cold abscesses at the point of injection. This was regarded as unpleasant, but not as dangerous. The likelihood of a cold abscess following was least when the injection had been made into the skin.

Some of the children were in homes with open cases of consumption where exposure was inevitable. In fact, something like a year ago the New York City health department sent a letter to physicians asking them to notify the health authorities of children living at home with open cases of consumption, in order that the protective power of the vaccine might be put to a severe test.

Drs. Kereszturi, Park, and Schick are not ready to report their findings on the protective powers of the vaccine. This report deals solely with its safety.

LIMITING DIET HELPS.

Mrs. H. E. writes: What diet should I give my husband for jaundice caused from an operation for gallstones three years ago? He never seemed to recover after the drain tube was removed. The doctors who had charge of his case just gave him up, as he refused a second operation. They claim there is mechanical obstruction, but he does not get worse, and is very slowly improving. Of course, I feel if he has the proper diet that will help him much faster.

REPLY.

The probability is that his liver was considerably damaged before he was operated, and this damage the continued jaundice has made worse. Therefore, it is wise to give a diet that is easy on the liver.

He should never eat heavy meals nor rich foods. Above all, he should avoid spices, condiments, and alcoholic beverages. The amount of meats, eggs, fats, greases, and oils should be limited.

SODA IS TOOTH PASTE.

Miss M. L. V. writes:

1. What value has washing the teeth with baking soda?

2. I eat spaghetti four times a week. Is it harmful to any part of my body? I notice that my left side pains after eating it.

REPLY.

1. It is a good, smooth abrasive, and not all tooth powders are smooth abrasives. Soda solution is a pretty good solvent. Some claim that at times the saliva is not alkaline enough, or even that it is acid in areas and thus it causes erosions. That is speculative.

2. No. Spaghetti is a starch or carbohydrate food with the usual heat and energy values of that type of foods. However, it is generally prepared with fats and some proteins such as cheese, meat, or eggs. This makes it a better balanced food. The spaghetti eating nations eat cheeses and salads in addition and this custom tends to balance their diet.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 11, 1916.

EL PASO, Tex.—All Americans in northern Chihuahua have been ordered by American Consul Thomas D. Edwards of Juarez to leave Mexico at once. He said he acted on instructions of the state department and it is understood that American Consul Letcher of Chihuahua City received the same instructions. No reason was assigned for the warning at this time, but it is believed it was designed to avert attacks on Americans who might otherwise remain in Chihuahua, thus serving further to inflame the feeling on both sides of the border.

CHICAGO.—Chauncey J. Blair, vice president of the Corn Exchange National bank, died at his home, 4830 Drexel boulevard, after an illness of two weeks, at the age of 71. An acute case of shingles, a disease which indicates nervous derangement, took him from his desk in the bank building recently and this attack aggravated a heart trouble to which he had been subject for four years.

LONDON.—Ireland provided a number of sensations today. The first was the announcement of the resignation of Baron Wimborne, lord lieutenant, and the second was the appointment of a commission headed by Lord Hardinge to investigate the causes of the Irish outbreak. A third was the admission by the government of the truth of the report that F. Sheehy Skeffington, editor of the Irish Citizen, and two other journalists had been executed in the Porto Bello barracks in Dublin without the knowledge of military authorities and before martial law was actually in operation. Premier Asquith announced that Sir Roger Casement would be placed on trial on May 15.

LONDON.—The battle of Verdun continues with only slight moderation in its intensity. Paris and Berlin conflict on the result of the fighting. The Paris official report says the Germans were repulsed in an attack on hill 287 to the west of the Meuse and that the French captured enemy trenches west of Dead Man's hill. Berlin says the Germans made further progress on hill 304 and have driven French detachments southwest of the hill.

NATIONAL CONVENTIONS

REPUBLICAN—1860.

CHICAGO, May 19.—The convention reassembled at 10 o'clock in the Wigwam, agreeable to adjournment.

THE CHAIR—At the adjournment a motion was pending, made by Mr. Goodrich of Minnesota, that the convention do now proceed to ballot for a candidate for President of the United States.

MR. EVARTS of New York—I take the liberty to name as a candidate to be nominated by this convention William H. Seward. [Prolonged applause.]

MR. JUDD of Illinois—I desire, on behalf of the delegation from Illinois, to put in nomination as a candidate for President of the United States Abraham Lincoln of Illinois. [Immense applause, oft renewed.]

The convention then balloted. The result was announced by the secretary of the convention as follows: For Seward, 173½; for Lincoln, 102; for Cameron, 50½; for Chase, 49. [Others trailed.]

The chair announced that, no candidate having received a majority of the whole number of votes cast, the convention would proceed to a second ballot.

This ballot gave Seward 184½; Lincoln, 181. A third ballot gave Seward 180 and Lincoln 231½, only four votes short of nomination.

MR. CARTER of Ohio—I arise, Mr. Chairman, to announce the change of four votes from Ohio from Mr. Chase to Abraham Lincoln.

This announcement, giving Mr. Lincoln a majority, was greeted by the audience with the most enthusiastic and thundering applause. The entire crowd rose to their feet, applauding rapturously, the ladies waving their handkerchiefs, the men waving and throwing up their hats by thousands, cheering again and again. The applause was renewed and repeated for many minutes.

Every Man's University

Questions and answers prepared by members of the faculty of the University of Chicago outline what they consider a well educated person ought to know. Today's instructor, Arthur Pearson Scott, associate professor of history.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

What were the medieval scholastics trying to do?

YESTERDAY'S QUESTION:

What were the characteristics of Gothic architecture?

ANSWER:

Gothic architecture is based on the use of the pointed arch in place of the round arch and the use of buttresses to balance the tendency of a heavy vaulted roof to push the walls outwards. Thus buildings were made higher, with many vertical lines leading the eye upward. Between buttresses great windows were left in the walls, which came to be filled with magnificent stained glass. Decorative carving and statuary were lavishly used inside and out. Wherever these elements appear in a modern building it is safe to suspect that the architect has gone back to Gothic for inspiration.

TRUSTEE VS. WARRANTY DEED.

West Allis, Wis., May 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can you please advise me whether or not a trustee's deed is the same as a [2] warranty deed, and if not, what is the difference? 3. Has the holder the same rights as a warranty deed holder? J. B.

1. In the ordinary form of trustee deed the trustee recites the substance of the powers under which he acts and conveys in execution of those powers. He does not undertake to stand back of the title.

2. In a warranty deed the grantor conveys the title without qualifications and undertakes to stand back of it.

3. If the grantors have a good title, the rights of the grantee would be the same in both cases. If not, the rights will be different. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ABANDONED BUILDING.

Chicago, May 7. — [Friend of the People.]—In our neighborhood there is an abandoned two-story frame building. The windows are nearly all broken and the door at the rear stands open. It is a possible hiding place for footpads, holdup men and others. Many working women and girls must pass this building at various hours of the night. Is there no one to whom we may appeal to have the doors and windows nailed or boarded up so that this building will not be such a menace to the people in this vicinity? R. A. F.

You are advised that the owner has been notified to board up all openings, and to repair and make safe or wreck the building referred to. JOHN E. ERICSSON, Deputy, Dept. of Buildings.

CONGRESS INTERPRETED.

Winnetka, Ill., May 1.—In his admirable discussion of "The Crowd—A Study of the Popular Mind," Gustave Le Bon says:

"The decisions affecting matters of general interest come to by an assembly of men of distinction, but specialists in different walks of life, are not sensibly superior to the decisions that would be adopted by a gathering of imbeciles."

There is no question but that the present congress, having broken away from intelligent leadership, has degenerated into a crowd, as described by Le Bon, and are we not witnessing behavior and decisions that "are not sensibly superior to the decisions that would be adopted by a gathering of imbeciles "intrusted with our legislative responsibility?

This congress, if it continues to legislate as a crowd, may well be designated as a suicide congress. While proceeding along its customary and organized lines, the house promised real national relief through intelligent legislation. The revenue measure proposed by the ways and means committee, embodying a sensible sales tax, was logical, imposed no serious or striking hardships, and if speedily enacted would have started the country on its way to returned prosperity. But the house broke loose from intelligent leadership and has been since nothing but an emotional crowd in the Le Bon sense. Its haphazard revenue bill and now its economy mass decisions are nothing but crowd emotional results of a degree of intelligence not above the mental plane of its lowest member.

On what other basis than of crowd psychology can this congress be explained? It so little senses the real situation; so detaches itself from real responsibility; so ignores manifest national opinion; so runs wild on every aspect of rational economic procedure; so glories in its abandonment of responsible organization that there seems no explanation other than that sanity has given way to emotional crowd degeneration. A La Guardia—strange spectacle—springs to the fore with a trunk full of "documents" and proceeds to demonstrate that a number of newspaper men proved faithless to their employers, and lo, the business of the nation halts while congress applauds. But why attempt to specify these various evidences of a crowd degeneracy in congressional halls while the nation writhes in wrathful distress?

The question arises: "What is to be done about it?"

There seems to be but one answer: Set in motion the only action to which a politician gives heed—namely: an organized national movement to retire from congress practically the entire present house of representatives. Why not make this, in actuality, a suicide congress? They've deliberately drunk the poison of voluntary disorganization, and why not let them pay the penalty of political death? Why permit the return of this crowd to continue at the next session its orgy of emotional self-exaltation and disregard of public opinion? Perhaps a thorough house cleaning will impress upon the next congress that wise legislation, in such times as these, if ever, cannot be enacted from the floor, but must proceed from careful preparation behind closed doors where the intelligence of small groups of men of proven wisdom may quietly and without emotion sense the national need and respond to it with action based upon established economic and political principles?

"M" IS FOR MISERY.

Evanston, Ill., May 8.—Don't you think the radio stations rather overdo "Mother's Day"? If your dear mother is gone, to pass an entire day listening to sad songs and sadder addresses breaks one's heart and makes the day one of agony.

If your mother is with you and her life is not just what you would wish it to be the day becomes one of misery, also. You sympathize with her because she has to listen all day and perhaps has listened for the two previous days to what a mother is expected to be. Perhaps she has fallen short of such a standard, or failed to kindle in the hearts of her children the love she hears sung about and talked about all day. This causes great unhappiness to her and her children.

If you are separated from your mother the day is made utterly lonesome and your longing for her makes your heart ache so.

If in your life you have disappointed her the songs and talks bring such utter wretchedness to both and you long so to undo the past that you dread Mother's day from one year to the other.

If your mother is an invalid and is deprived of living her life as she longs to she spends the day crying her heart out and goes to bed at night exhausted from self-pity, while you sit by helpless to comfort her.

By noon on Mother's day we are all so sad from hearing nothing but sadness that no one can smile. I. B. JOHNSON.

FROM FRANCES PERKINS.

New York, April 29.—Thank you for calling the public's attention to the duplication by the federal government of work belonging properly to the states and local communities, as strikingly exemplified in the setting up of federal employment offices in New York state localities which already have very good state employment service. It is a certainty that the taxpayers are beginning to take their tax obligations more seriously. It is important for them to know that on some items they are being taxed twice, and in thus reminding them you are performing a very useful service.

A SLOGAN ANALYZED.

Chicago, May 2.—The very respectable and intelligent British psychologist, Mr. C. K. Ogden, says in his "The Meaning of Psychology" that it "would not, perhaps, be an exaggeration to say that half of what passes for current thought on general affairs is not thought at all, but language operated at a merely emotional level" [p. 159]. Thus does science lead us safely through such a labyrinth of words as "Back to Prosperity with Len Small"! E. S. JOHNSON.

GENERAL STAFF CRIPPLES ARMY, CHARGE IN HOUSE

Hinders Development of Modern Warcraft.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—Chairman Ross A. Collins [Dem., Miss.] of the subcommittee handling war department appropriations, charged on the floor of the house today that the army general staff had hindered rather than aided in the development of modern weapons of warfare during the last decade. He asserted that the American army was behind the times, adding that it would not be brought up to date until greater emphasis is placed on the development of aircraft, mechanized forces, gas, and machine guns.

The Collins attack on the general staff was made while the rotund subcommittee chairman was defending his action in reporting out an army appropriation bill calling for a reduction of 2,000 officers, the elimination of pay for officers attending the organized reserve camps, and the suspension of the R. O. T. C. and C. M. T. C. camps for the 1933 fiscal year.

Urge $25,000,000 Cuts.

The total cuts recommended by the house appropriations committee on Mr. Collins' recommendation was $25,000,000, bringing the total for purely national defense activities down to 281 millions dollars.

Both before and after Chairman Collins spoke, opponents of the army reduction attacked the move to slash 2,000 officers from the regular army and curtail training camp activities. The attack on the Collins originated economies was led by two Republicans, Representatives Henry E. Barbour [Cal.] and Carroll L. Beedy [Me.]. Mr. Barbour offered amendments restoring $9,608,909 to the bill to continue the training of civilian components and retain the officers.

Ask War Chiefs' Opinion.

While the move to wipe out the army economies was getting under way, the house military committee today invited Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, army chief of staff, to testify behind closed doors regarding the effect of the officer and civilian component cuts on national defense.

In his two hour address Chairman Collins asserted the money for army modernization through the purchase of tanks, aircraft, and other new weapons can only be obtained through slashing army man power and through eradicating what he termed obsolete items in the military establishment. He charged that American tank development has "been pitiful and slow."

HE MARRIED HER TWICE, BUT SUES TO BE FREE AGAIN

Oregon, Ill., May 10.—(AP)—Counsel for H. W. Thomasson has filed suit in Ogle county Circuit court here to annul his marriage to Grace Caroline Thomasson on the grounds that he was "mentally incapable" at the time of the marriage. The bill alleged Thomasson has since regained his mental faculties.

More than thirty lawyers have been connected with the moves and counter moves in various courts by Thomasson, aged 74; Mrs. Thomasson, 45 years his junior; Thomasson's heirs, relatives, and acquaintances.

Three weeks after Thomasson's first marriage to Mrs. Grace Carolyn Mahood in Waterloo, Ill., in July, 1930, the elderly real estate man published notices in the newspapers that he would not be responsible for debts contracted by any one other than himself.

In September of that year his attorney filed suit to annul the marriage, charging Thomasson was hoodwinked into marriage by the thrice married Mrs. Mahood. Then followed the entrance of Mrs. Thomasson's lawyers into the case, and suit followed suit.

The pair was reconciled and on Feb. 24, 1931, they were remarried at Joliet, Ill.

The Thomassons have had two marriages and three honeymoons, have parted and been reunited, have engaged in disappearances and property transfers, and recently Mrs. Thomasson averred she was kidnaped.

The elderly Mr. Thomasson has since been declared of unsound mind and a guardian was placed over his affairs by the St. Louis County court.

TIME WILL PROVE OIL LEASES RIGHT, DECLARES FALL

Three Rivers, N. M., May 10.—(AP)—Time will vindicate the naval oil reserve plans he made while secretary of the interior, Albert B. Fall declared at his ranch home here after his release yesterday from the New Mexico state penitentiary.

Propped up in an old-fashioned four post bed, he received a reporter and made his first public utterance in nearly a year. Smoking a cigar, which he used as a pointer to emphasize his remarks, he discussed his prison life with a tinge of humor and went over the past in great detail.

"If the Chinese and Japanese situation had continued and we had become involved we would have found out, damned soon, the value of the Honolulu oil base I championed," Fall said.

"We need something like that war scare to wake us up. We let everybody in ahead of us and then we act. My children and my grandchildren will live to see the day when my judgment will be vindicated."

He referred to his experience in the New Mexico prison, where he served nine months and 19 days of a year and a day sentence for accepting a bribe from Edward L. Doheny in connection with leases of the naval oil reserve.

"I'm weak and thin," he said. "I lost thirty pounds while I was up there. They treated me well—as well as a prisoner could be treated. I was not accorded any special privileges.

"There were many funny things about my stay there. I was to be treated like all other federal prisoners. There was only one other federal prisoner—a Navajo serving a sentence for horse stealing."

The rambling ranch house is nearly hidden by trees. Flowers and shrubbery abound. The dining room opens into a large greenhouse in which are orange, lemon, and avocado trees.

JURY INDICTS 3 FORMER BANKERS IN $49,000 FRAUD

True Bills Reveal Plot; Bank Is Sound.

True bills charging three former officials of the Division State bank, 2601 Division street, with a plot to swindle the institution of $49,000 were reported late yesterday afternoon to have been voted by the grand jury.

Herbert Venzke, former note teller, and Clemens K. Shapiro, one time vice president, were alleged to have forged two notes for a total of $4,000. The same pair and John S. Pawlikowski, until recently cashier of the bank, were charged with a conspiracy to obtain $45,000 by embezzlement.

The exact details of the procedure followed in obtaining the larger sum were not made public. The two notes, it was said, were signed with the purported signature of Ferdinand C. Hemelt, 1642 North Keystone avenue, a customer.

Exchanged for Cash.

Venzke asserted last night that Shapiro had taken poison several days ago and was now in a hospital. He declined to tell the name of the hospital. Pleading his own innocence, Venzke declared that two bootleggers turned over to Shapiro and Pawlikowski the stolen bonds and were to share the profits. He did not tell the police the names of the bootleggers.

According to Assistant State's Attorney Charles Lounsbury, the fictitious notes and several stolen bonds were put among the bank's assets while cash was taken out. A mistake by one of the alleged conspirators put some of the stolen bonds in the hands of a customer and he called attention to the fact.

Emil Jenisch, president of the bank, notified William B. Berger, attorney for the institution, and an investigation was started. The three officials were dismissed and the state's attorney was asked to take action.

Bank Is Sound, Says President.

According to Mr. Berger and President Jenisch, the Division State bank is in absolutely sound condition and is unaffected, so far as its assets are concerned, by any defalcations. They asserted that any loss incurred through the alleged dishonesty of the men named by the grand jury has already been paid by an indemnity company.

Only Venzke was in custody last night. He and Pawlikowski had been held in a room in a downtown hotel for nearly two weeks, but the latter evaded detectives guarding him on Monday night and fled. Pawlikowski is said to have made a confession implicating the others.

Shapiro, a native of Poland, was brought to Chicago about twenty years ago by the late John F. Smulski, who met him while on a visit to his native village. Although Venzke was dismissed from the bank in December and Pawlikowski in January, suspicion was not directed toward Shapiro until a few weeks ago.

G. O. P. STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE NAMES STRANSKY CHAIRMAN

Springfield, Ill., May 10.—[Special.]—The Republican state central committee organized today with the election of Franklin J. Stransky, Savanna, chairman; State Representative G. J. Johnson, Paxton, secretary, and Werner W. Schroeder, Chicago, treasurer. The selections were made by unanimous vote at a meeting which followed the luncheon given by retiring Chairman C. J. Doyle.

Mr. Doyle presided at the meeting, which was attended by the full membership of the committee with the exception of Joseph Zientek of the Fifth district and Edward R. Piszatowski of the Eighth district. Former Gov. Len Small, the nominee for governor; Harry Wright, candidate for auditor; Julius Klein, candidate for congressman at large, and Charles W. Vail, candidate for clerk of the Supreme court, were present.

Judge Stransky announced that his policy would be one of conciliation of Republican factions and unity for the success of the party. He designated Committeeman George Schwaner to arrange for the Republican state convention, which will meet May 27 at the arsenal in Springfield.

ELDERLY LONDON CABARET QUEEN CONVICTED AGAIN

Mother-in-Law of Two Peers in Court.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 10.—Mrs. Kate Meyrick, London's elderly night club queen, and mother-in-law of two British peers, whose repeated violations of the liquor licensing laws have kept her in and out of jail over a period of several years, was convicted in police court again today of doing business in the same old way at the same old stand.

The offense was selling liquor without a license at her notorious premises in the Soho district where she has operated a long succession of night clubs under various names. A license, according to police, is of no use to Mrs. Meyrick's clubs any how because all bottles must be corked up in London at midnight.

"There are a large number of people, of whom Mrs. Meyrick may be one, who consider that breaches of the licensing laws do not render a person a criminal in the ordinary sense," Magistrate Robert E. Dummett said in court. "I don't want to send an old woman to prison if I can help it. Of course, if she did it again she would get the most severe punishment possible."

Sentence was resedved until tomorrow, and in the meantime her lawyer will attempt to influence her to sign an agreement to quit the night club business, or if she opens another, to take new premises and leave them open at all times for police inspection.

Mrs. Meyrick's elder daughter, Dorothy [Dolly], was married in 1926 to Baron Edward de Clifford. The baron was 19 years old at the time, but swore he was 22 at the license bureau. He was fined $250, but the marriage was not annulled. In 1928, a younger daughter, May, was married to the earl of Kinnoull.

AFTER JIM HAM, WHO—TRAYLOR OR ROOSEVELT?

Democrat Chiefs Debate Illinois' 2d Choice.

A difference of opinion as to who is Illinois' second choice for the Democratic presidential nomination cropped up last night between Mayor Cermak and Thomas F. Donovan, state chairman.

The mayor held that the Illinois delegates to the national convention next month are solid for Senator James Hamilton Lewis, and that if a switch comes after a few ballots it is likely to be to Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, for whom a campaign is being conducted by Texas Democrats from Fort Worth.

The exchange of divergent opinions came about through a despatch from Warm Springs, Ga., where Roosevelt is taking a holiday, quoting a remark made at the spa by Mr. Donovan, as follows:

"Senator James Hamilton Lewis will get the 58 votes of Illinois in the Democratic national convention for a ballot or two. There likely will be a caucus then. If Gov. Roosevelt has come to the convention with real strength and holds it, Illinois will swing half its votes to him on the next ballot, and probably all of them."

Mayor Cermak, when shown the statement made by Mr. Donovan at Warm Springs, said he was "very much surprised."

"I don't know how all the delegates feel about it," the mayor said, "and neither does Donovan. I don't know how many ballots we will cast for Lewis and neither does Donovan. But if there is a switch I think it will be to Melvin Traylor."

See G. O. P. Headquarters Here.

Chicago is likely to be the main headquarters for the Republican presidential campaign this fall, with eastern headquarters holding secondary place, according to reports yesterday from some members of the national committee at the Congress hotel. This follows the idea advanced at the meeting of the arrangements committee here last month that Chicago is the logical center for activities, especially in view of the proposed concentration upon the agricultural states of the midwest.

In former campaigns western headquarters have been here, but the power house has been in the east. The new national committee will settle the point next month after the convention.

Police Threat Frees 24 Seized in Gambling Raid

Municipal Judge Frederick W. Elliott yesterday dismissed Edward Joyce, brother of the late State Senator John Joyce, and 23 men who were arrested in Joyce's gambling house at 808 North Wells street. Capt. Michael Grady of the Chicago avenue police, who led the raid, testified that he told one of his men he would break down the door if it wasn't opened for them. Joyce, who had been listening on the other side of the door, opened it and admitted them, the captain said. Judge Elliott ruled that the entrance was made by a threat of force and was therefore illegal.

• Keep Intestines Active and Clean, Doctors Say . . . . . If You Want to Enjoy a Good Digestion •

"I CERTAINLY AGREE with what the great doctors say Fleischmann's Yeast will do for you," says Mrs. G. R. Woods, of St. Louis, Mo. "I never have indigestion or a headache now, because I always keep yeast in the house. Constipation . . . vanished. My skin became clear."

"It's very easy to correct 'ACID STOMACH'"!

YOU know the symptoms. Sourness. Indigestion. Gas. That dull, bloated feeling after meals.

These troubles are very common. Yet—in the vast majority of cases—they are absolutely unnecessary, eminent physicians say!

For example—

"I have found that 'acid stomach,' heartburn, coated tongue, etc., are usually due to a stagnant condition of the intestines.

"It is really very easy to correct this trouble . . . The best way to do this is to eat fresh yeast."

In these words the celebrated stomach specialist, Dr. Robert Latzel, sums up the results of a lifetime of medical experience. Dr. Latzel is physician-in-chief of the clinic for internal diseases in Vienna's largest free hospital. He adds:—

Made a part of your regular diet, Fleischmann's Yeast stimulates and invigorates your whole digestive and intestinal tract. Accumulated food wastes are moistened and softened. Your body functions regularly again, eliminating poison-breeding residues in a normal way.

And as your system is gently cleansed and "toned," digestive secretions revive. Discomfort no longer follows eating. You really enjoy your meals once more!

So get rid of indigestion. Get back appetite, energy—a happy outlook on life. Every day, regularly, eat three cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast—just plain, or dissolved in a third of a glass of water—before meals, or between meals and when you go to bed.

And remember, Fleischmann's Yeast is the richest known food source of the group of three indispensable health-giving vitamins—vitamins B and G, and the remarkable "sunshine" vitamin D. These elements are often lacking in our ordinary diet.

So ask for Fleischmann's Yeast. At grocers, restaurants and soda fountains. Start eating it today!

*IMPORTANT—Fleischmann's Yeast for health comes only in the foil-wrapped cake with the yellow label. It is yeast in its fresh, effective form—the kind doctors advise.

SIMPSON SEEKS VOTE RECOUNT IN CONGRESS FIGHT

Charges Loose Tallying of Primary Ballots.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Ballots in the 10th congressional district were ordered impounded late yesterday by Judge Thomas J. Lynch following the filing of a petition for a recount of the votes by James Simpson Jr. In the canvass of the ballots Simpson was nosed out by 73 votes by Ralph E. Church of Evanston for the Republican nomination for congress after a neck and neck race in which Simpson had led by 200 to 300 votes on the basis of the unofficial police returns. Congressman Carl R. Chindblom ran in third place.

The petition for a recount filed yesterday in the Circuit court by Attorney Urban A. Lavery alleges that errors were made in the counting in many precincts. It declares that in ten precincts the judges did not count the votes cast for ward committeeman, and that indications are that in many precincts carelessness was displayed in counting the votes for Simpson, Church and Chindblom, the leading contenders for congressional nomination in the Republican primary.

Complete Recount Asked.

The court is asked to include the entire district in the recount. It stretches from North avenue to the Wisconsin boundary and it embraces the north shore suburbs in the towns of Evanston, New Trier, Niles and Northfield, and all of Lake county. A preliminary hearing on the petition is set for Saturday before Judge Lynch.

"Our contention," said Attorney Lavery," is that the district presents an unusual situation. Nearly 85,000 Republican votes were cast for congressman in the Republican primary, and the difference is only 73 votes between Mr. Church and Mr. Simpson, while there are ample indications that in many precincts the vote on congress was not carefully counted."

The ballots in the 344 Chicago precincts in the district were ordered impounded with John S. Rusch, chief clerk of the election board; those in the country towns of Cook county with County Clerk R. M. Sweitzer, and the Lake county ballots with Lew A. Hendee, county clerk at Waukegan.

The canvass showed that Simpson carried the Chicago precincts, Church carried the Cook county towns, and Chindblom led in Lake county.

The figures for the three leading candidates were: Church, 29,324; Simpson, 29,251; Chindblom, 23,783.

Klein Makes Statement.

Announcement by Stephen A. Day that he is considering asking a recount of the votes cast for Republican congressman at large, the canvass of which showed him defeated by Julius Klein for one of the two places, by 3,626 votes, was followed yesterday by a statement from Mr. Klein through his attorney, John F. Tyrrell.

"Mr. Klein," it read, "is convinced as shown by the state canvass figures that he is nominated by 3,626 votes, but he does not desire the nomination if there is any question concerning it or any cloud upon the title to it.

"Therefore, he is not opposed to any fair inquisition to determine any alleged discrepancies in the primary vote. He welcomes an inquiry, first to ascertain whether or not he was actually nominated, and also to throw light upon the mysterious manner in which he lost over 17,000 votes as indicated by the police returns."

Klein claimed a recount would increase his plurality to 25,000.

See Barrett or Busse.

Republican ward committeemen yesterday took the view that George F. Barrett or William Busse appear to have the best chance of being elected county chairman at the adjourned convention to be held May 18.

Several informal conferences were held during the day, at which the general feeling was expressed that a harmony agreement may be arranged among all the groups opposing the ex-city hall machine. This faction received the hardest trimming in its history Monday when it sought to elect a chairman in a "rump" convention, at which only 12 of the 50 ward committeemen responded.

ARTISTS TO RULE TINTING OF PARK FOUNTAIN MISTS

When the Buckingham Memorial fountain in Grant park starts to play again on May 20 the colored lights which tint the mists and sprays will not be run by unaesthetic operators, George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the South park system, announced yesterday that color combinations in the fountain display, which have been prearranged by artists, will be automatically controlled.

"Heretofore," Mr. Donoghue explained, "the operators have pulled the levers that suited their fancy and the effect was clashing colors and weird, futuristic designs. Now we will automatically turn on symphonies, if you please, of water and color."

The main fountain jet, which spurts 135 feet in the air, and the 133 smaller jets shine under a changing movie of red, green, orange, and purple lights. Workmen are repairing leaks and cleaning pipes preparatory to the opening night.

Nashville, Tenn, May 10.—(AP)—Tennessee's 24 votes in the Republican National convention were pledged today to President Hoover. REVEAL A CITY PRACTICING ITS ECONOMY STAND

Binghamton Seeks to Drop Projects.

One eastern city proposes to practice what it is preaching with respect to reduction of government expenditures by taking an action which may mean giving up two public buildings. That city is Binghamton, N. Y. J. Kennard Johnson, manager of the chamber of commerce there, has written George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, telling how his city is working to reduce the tax burden through reduction of governmental costs.

"A meeting has been held here, following your suggestion of last week, which brought forth a startling move on the question of governmental economy," Mr. Johnson says in his letter. "Appropriations had been passed for both a new federal building and a new armory for Binghamton.

"The sentiment expressed by Binghamton leaders at the meeting was that if we are to advocate the policy of the government stopping the spending of money, the only way it can be done is to stop spending money. We shall, therefore, late this week probably announce opposition of from 50 to 100 of the principal taxpayers of this city to erection of both the new postoffice and the new armory."

St. Louis Starts Action.

In St. Louis hundreds of citizens have subscribed to a statement directed at Washington in which W. B. Weisenberger, president of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, stated:

"The action of the house of representatives in slashing the economy bill by a mere pittance should arouse indignation and action. That this body should have the temerity to burden the already overburdened taxpayers with their billion dollar tax bill and then in the same breath refuse to sanction conservation of the taxpayers' dollar is almost unbelievable. Unless the taxpayers of the nation in every city, town and hamlet raise their voices in protest of the wild orgy of governmental spending, it will go on unabated, and the taxpayer must either pay or face prosecution or go into bankruptcy."

Other cities to advise Mr. Rossetter of their participation in the nation-wide campaign against high taxes include Pittsburgh, Pa., Duluth, Akron and Galveston.

Manufacturers Get Busy.

The Illinois Manufacturers' association yesterday reported that industrial organizations participating in the drive against high taxes are swamping senators and congressmen from every state in the Union with their protests. Industrial and trade associations were asked to have their members tell congress of the urgent need for lowering taxes and balancing the budget. Not only did company officials send letters to Washington, but they got their stockholders and employés to do likewise.

Warren F. Perry, executive secretary of the Ohio Manufacturers' association, wrote the Illinois organization, saying "The response to our letters and bulletins has been very gratifying. Senator Fess has stated that it has been necessary to employ two extra clerks to handle his correspondence."

U. S. Too Paternalistic.

Andrew Jackson, Kentucky congressman, stated to the Associated Industries of Kentucky that the only way to reduce governmental expenses was to eliminate unnecessary departments. "The truth is," he said "the government is becoming so paternalistic it is impossible to tell what are its activities."

W. W. Orr, secretary of the New York Credit Men's association, stated:

"I am happy to know of the determined way in which the Illinois Manufacturers' association is handling the subject of government taxation, and I hope that if there are any associations which have failed to take action on this subject that your recent letter will prompt them to do so at once. Our association has sent wires to senators and we shall do the same to congressmen."

MAKE NEW APPEAL

The Illinois Manufacturers association yesterday issued a new appeal to business men to telegraph their representatives in Washington and urge that they take a definite stand for a reduction in governmental expense.

"Leaders in congress," the association stated, "recently joined in an effort to cut governmental costs $300,000,000 a year. Although this proposed reduction was less than 5 per cent of the total budget, the house of representatives under the destructive influence of bureaucrats, insurgents and organized minorities mutilated the measure until only $42,000,000 reduction remained.

"Why do these small radical and selfish groups dominate congress? Probably because the majority of taxpayers have shirked their responsibilities. The average taxpaper has overlooked the fact that the representatives in congress are threatened with political extinction by the small but well organized groups which ignore the paralyzed condition of the great majority of taxpayers."

RICHBERG FEES O. K., HE CLAIMS; HITS TRIBUNE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 10.—[Special.]—In advocating the elevation of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to the Circuit bench THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has carried on a campaign of "terrorization," according to the charge made today by Donald R. Richberg, labor attorney, before the senate subcommittee which has the Wilkerson nomination under consideration.

Referring to articles in which THE TRIBUNE his disclosed Mr. Richberg's own record as a proponent of radical thought and a receiver of large "expert" fees from the city of Chicago, the labor lawyer told the committee membess that he had been subjected to a "most abominable attack," designed to discourage any one else from appearing in opposition to Judge Wilkerson's promotion.

Calls Attacks "Lies."

"Would the person responsible for these attacks be subject to sentence for contempt of court if this committee were a court?" asked Senator Thomas J. Walsh [radical Dem., Mont.], a member of the committee.

"The articles and editorials have lied about the facts; they have been most libelous," replied Mr. Richberg. "They would be wholly contemptuous if this were a court."

Richberg defended the huge fees he had received from the city of Chicago by asserting that he had acted in the public interest.

At the same time he reiterated and expanded his earlier charges, that Judge Wilkerson had permitted exorbitant and at times duplicative fees to be paid to the receivers and attorneys for the surface lines, the receivership proceedings for which are now pending in Judge Wilkerson's court.

Also Attacks Simpson.

Once more Mr. Richberg attacked James Simpson, chairman of Marshall Field & Co., who was appointed chairman of the citizens' committee in the traction case.

"The connection between Simpson and Insull is entirely too close for Simpson to have been appointed as a disinterested chairman to advise the citizens of Chicago," Richberg declared.

He again raised the question of Judge Wilkerson's former political connection with Edward J. Brundage.

Senator Long Misses Hearing "Chicago Tribune March"

New Orleans, La., May 10.—[Special.]—U. S. Senator Huey P. Long took a slap at THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE here today, and was publicly anubbed by Tulane university, where he studied law. The occasion was the dedication of the new two million dollar Louisiana State university medical center on the charity hospital grounds.

The state university cadet band, brilliant in old gold and purple uniforms, came from Baton Rouge to play. The third musical number on the printed program was "The Chicago Tribune March" by the band of the university which Senator Long had headed for four years as governor of the state and still dominates.

Chuckles spread through the large open air audience as the programs were given out, for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S front page cartoon of Senator Robinson under the American flag and Senator Long carrying the red flag of Russia's communists had been widely circulated here. Everybody waited to hear the number played, but it wasn't played—by Senator Long's order, the report spread.

"It's a good march, too," grinned the cadet band leader.

Senator Long, when asked if he had ordered the march dropped because of the newspaper cartoon, said: "What newspaper? I never read the newspapers. Why should I? I've entered every office I ever ran for by licking newspapers."

Senator Long's battle with Tulane university, his own alma mater, dates from his political and personal enmity for Esmond Phelps, New Orleans attorney, head of the Tulane board of administrators. Long has boasted he would make Louisiana State university greater than Tulane, because of political opposition from Phelps and his friends. Yet today he held out the olive branch offer of coöperation between the two universities' medical schools "for the benefit of my people." He made the offer to empty air, as far as Tulane was officially concerned. Dr. A. B. Dinwiddie, president of Tulane; Dr. C. C. Bass, dean of the Tulane medical school, and Mr. Phelps, president of the Tulane board, were conspicuous by their absence from the platform. They had been invited, it was learned, but hadn't come.

TINY TENDER LEAVES of "spicy" fragrance

...Turkish tobacco is very different from Domestic. The leaf is much smaller. But the greatest difference is in the taste—the aromatic richness and spicy fragrance that no other tobacco in the world can supply.

In Chesterfields we use the four Turkish types which tobacco men value most—Xanthi, Cavalla, Smyrna and Samsoun.

And we use just the right amount of each. Turkish tobacco, you perhaps know, must be blended with Domestic to get the best results.

If you smoke Chesterfields, no doubt you've noticed an extra richness of aroma ... an added delicacy of taste. This is due in part to just the right amount of Turkish leaf. It is what seasoning is to food—the spice, the sauce. It is just another reason why Chesterfields taste better. And why They Satisfy.

"Oh, to have bought this new car at those 1932 prices"

"How they sold automobiles at such low prices . . . I'll never be able to understand! And the best part of those low prices . . . was the type of car they were producing . . . putting the finest quality into them and creating models that were as mechanically perfect as they were beautiful.

"Tires, too, if you remember, were down to rock bottom. No excuse for a fellow piloting his car around on tires that represented a liability when a complete new set could have been purchased at a mere fraction of their value. There's no substitute for the confidence of riding on good tires.

"All sorts of auto accessories were available at very little cost. No reason in those days for a family to deprive itself of the 'extras' that make the ownership of an automobile a real pleasure. Motor robes, auto radios, clocks, and a host of other items that actually increase the comforts of an automobile.

"I'm sorry I didn't take advantage of more of the bargain prices of 1932. I distinctly remember the tremendous values in luggage. I could have secured a complete assortment of all sorts of traveling needs . . . sufficient to have served me for a long time, and saved heaps of money.

"Do you recall the prices of watches in 1932? Buying opportunities that will probably never occur again. Dependable, nationally advertised makes—all types, that sold for a song . . . and should have encouraged folks to buy for future as well as present needs.

"As I think back . . . I wonder why so many of us failed to put our money to work for us in such a profitable manner. You know, Mildred, we only live once . . . and those 1932 bargains that we then falsely considered extravagances were in reality common-sense economies."

LIBERTIES UNION GROUP OFF FOR KENTUCKY TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—A group of persons affiliated with the American Civil Liberties union and headed by Arthur Garfield Hays and Dudley Field Malone will leave New York tomorrow afternoon for Kentucky, where they plan to visit the striking coal miners in Harlan and Bell counties.

Mr. Hays and Mr. Malone are nationally known lawyers with radical leanings and the organization which they will represent has acted in the defense of communists frequently in the past. The eastern delegation is planning a "legal" invasion of the strike area, but its leaders declare they will go into Harlan and Bell counties regardless of whether or not they receive federal protection.

In case they carry out their plans, conflict with county authorities is expected, as the authorities in the Kentucky strike area previously have turned back several delegations made up of authors, organizers and radical minded students.

Will Await Court Action.

The delegation will appear before Federal Judge A. M. J. Cochran of the eastern Kentucky district at London, Ky., Thursday afternoon for a hearing on an injunction restraining interference by county authorities. The trip originally was set for April but was postponed to await court action.

Walter B. Smith, prosecuting attorney of Bell county has been quoted as threatening to "suppress the Civil Liberties union like a mad dog" if its members appear there. The county officials have been summoned to appear before Judge Cochran to show cause why the injunction should not be granted.

"The union's party," Mr. Hays said today, "plans to go into the coal area even if the injunction is not granted, for the purpose of consulting with defense counsel in preparing scores of cases set for trial this month."

Liberties Union Tells Object.

Mr. Hays said the delegation also would endeavor to "aid in securing the rights of miners to hold union meetings without interference. In announcing the trip the union gave out the following statement:

". . . For almost a year Harlan and Bell counties have been the scene of mob violence, lawlessness by public officials, gunman rule, shootings, deportations, and baseless prosecutions, all in an effort to prevent the miners from organizing unions. The union is sponsoring a trip to these counties to aid in reëstablishing civil rights for the coal miners. . . . "

The same memorandum made it plain that the Civil Liberties union had received information that the present situation centers about the activities of two communist led organizations. These were described as the National Mine Workers' union and the Workers' Intern tional relief.

Calls Them Outsiders.

In the past the Kentucky county officials have explained that their objection to visits by eastern groups was that they merely were outsiders meddling in local affairs and that they did considerably more harm than good. The officials have consistently refused to admit communists and radicals into the territory.

Besides Mr. Hays and Mr. Malone, it was announced the party will include Dr. Ernest Southerland Bates, editor; Robert S. Keebler, Memphis, Tenn., lawyer; Dr. John R. Neal, attorney of Knoxville, Tenn., who was active in the Gastonia, N. C., communist trials; Jesse C. Duke, attorney; the Rev. Charles C. Webber, director of the field work for Union Theological seminary, and Grover G. Sales, former Circuit judge in Kentucky.

Assails Liberties Union.

Louisville, Ky., May 10.—(AP)—Jefferson Post, American Legion of Louisville, in resolutions made public today, charged the American Civil Liberties union with communism and praised the Americanism of Harlan, Bell and Knox county citizens. Denouncing the union, which proposes to conduct an investigation into Kentucky coal fields conditions, the resolutions said "fully half of its efforts are on behalf of communists who have come into conflict with the law.

JUDGE ASSAILS DRY AGENTS WHO OFFER IMMUNITY

Federal Judge George A. Carpenter yesterday scored prohibition agents who promise immunity to prohibition violators who inform on other violators. The judge opened fire on the dry agents when he fined Peter Doukezas of La Salle $25 on each of two indictments after Doukezas testified that the agents told him they would do what they could for him in return for information.

"Although the agents had no right to make such a bargain," Judge Carpenter said, "I am going to carry out the contract. There must be no more communication between the agents and the accused after an indictment has been returned."

Doukeza's attorney said his client, after the agents had promised leniency, thought he was immune and had set up another still. The still was raided and he was indicted a second time.

Hyacin Grubich, Doukezas' bartender, was sentenced to 10 days in jail and fined $25.

RACY TESTIMONY SUPPRESSED

Helene Costello Awarded Divorce from Sherman

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., May 10.—[Special.]—Helene Costello today obtained a divorce from Lowell Sherman, on a cross bill, without any further snappy disclosures such as those of yesterday. Some one higher up in the film industry apparently took the situation in hand overnight and called a halt on the sensational accusations hurled by Sherman at his wife.

LOWELL SHERMAN.

Instead there was a conference between opposing attorneys which lasted nearly all morning and which caused Superior Judge Thomas Ambrose to postpone the hearing until this afternoon.

When the lawyers had everything pleasantly ironed out Miss Costello went into court at 2 p. m., testified briefly in general terms as to her husband's asserted cruelty, obtained the brief corroborating testimony of Mrs. J. Walter Ruben, and walked out eight minutes later with an interlocutory decree clutched in her black gloved hand.

Sherman Hears From Industry.

Sherman had been advised of the movie industry's chagrin at some of yesterday's disclosures, in which he accused Miss Costello of beating him, drinking to excess, overdrawing her $1,250 a month allowance, striking his mother, reading erotic books, using profanity, and other charges, so he did not attend the session at 2 p. m., when Judge Ambrose denied his application for a decree.

Miss Costello's charges, told briefly to Judge Ambrose in a pleasant voice, differed considerably from the more sensational accusations included in her cross-complaint filed last autumn.

She merely complained to the court in general terms that her husband was unloving, hurt her feelings, quarreled with her, and drank. Mrs. Ruben, wife of a film executive, a fetchingly attired blond gave the necessary legal corroboration in three sentences.

A property settlement had been effected by the couple's attorneys several months ago, under which Miss Costello is understood to receive between $40,000 and $50,000.

Naughty Books Disappear.

Judge Ambrose never was able to find who took two of the erotic books which were put into exhibit by Sherman yesterday as samples of the sort of literature which, he said, his wife insisted on having in the house, to his distress. The two books which disappeared from the courtroom were "Memoirs of Fanny Hill" and "The Lustful Turk."

Miss Costello married Sherman in Hollywood in March, 1930. She was formerly the wife of John Y. Reagan of New York and Washington, whom she wed here in September, 1927, and from whom she secured a Los Angeles divorce in June, 1928.

Sherman formerly had been married to Evelyn Booth and to Pauline Garon, film actress. Miss Booth won a divorce in Rhode Island in 1922 and the actor was granted a divorce from Miss Garon here in 1929 after one year of matrimony.

HERE'S SCOTCH RAT TRAP THAT RECOVERS BAIT

Pinless Diaper, Nonskid Soap, New Inventions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—The answer to what a lot of people do with their spare time was placed on exhibition here today at the Grand Central palace in the form of 5,000 inventions. Virtually every gadget you ever dreamed about after a duck dinner was on display at the big hall.

Whistling Egg Cookers.

One walks into the building and enters a new world of whistling egg cookers, anti-crooning devices, pinless diapers, self-smoking pipes, and nonskid soap bars. There are entries from every country in the world except Uruguay and El Salvador. Brooklyn leads the list, and scores of ingenious contraptions have been sent across the ocean from the brush country of Australia. California inventors occupy a place of honor, and the boys at Sing Sing prison have thirty exhibits on the tables.

This is what you see when you stroll through the hall, and some of the gadgets represent years of heartbreaking effort.

A baseball game, with a real pitcher and a real batter, the brain child of a bedridden lady of sixty; a reversible hat for women, contributed by a western cattleman; an automatic baby feeder that does everything except put the baby to bed; a "Scotch" mousetrap that recovers the bait; a fishing rod that rings a bell as soon as a fish nibbles; a slick surface necktie equipped with a sponge for soup eaters; a nonskid banana peel, and a perfume atomizer attached to a fork for the eating of certain cheeses.

Nonskid Soap Idea.

The nonskid soap idea is the property of 10 year old Kathryn Fleibusch of Brooklyn, who already has several other inventions to her credit. Kathryn made the model herself which, upon close inspection, appears to be a sort of sponge rubber mitten with ventilated palm inside of which the elusive soap is imprisoned.

Taking the five thousand devices by classification, visitors to the exhibition find:

Automobile appliances ranging from bumpers that surround the car like a ring around a bathtub; front and rear wheel steering from the driver's seat and scores of little gadgets that might or might not come in handy on a country road.

Automatic Potato Peeler.

Household "labor saving" devices include percolator roasting pans, automatic potato peelers, double action fly swatters operating with a scissors movement and a meat platter equipped with hitching posts to which the chicken or turkey may be tied for safety first carving purposes.

The realm of aeronautics is represented by a mystery plane for which a speed of 3,000 miles an hour is claimed—although it has yet to take the air; a combination dirigible and airplane, representing three years work by V. E. Edwards, traveling salesman from Springfield, Ill., and a helicopter designed by a Pullman porter during his moments of relaxation.

Storm Making Machine.

Other devices even more serious in nature include the smallest radio broadcasting set in the world, a storm making machine, numerous television apparatuses, a folding waterproof paper umbrella and a toothpaste tube collapser guaranteed to squeeze the last drop of paste from the container.

The exhibition will run until May 26 and Maj. Gen. George O. Squier, patron of the show and an inventor himself; Dudley Field Malone, and possibly Vice President Charles Curtis will mingle with the exhibitors.

"WHEN I DRIVE I GO PLACES"

Chicago Daily News Reporter

"IN the Rockies," said Owen Lodge of Butte, "the difference between a car and a mountain goat is that you don't have to lubricate the goat."

Mr. Lodge is a dental technician who in two years has driven a 1930 Chevrolet over 32,201 miles of canyon roads and high passes.

"Out here you can't afford to experiment with engine oil," he said as he took a steep grade to demonstrate the performance of his engine. "When Paul Bunyan was designing the Rockies he must have figured on shaking automobiles to pieces as soon as possible.

"So, as soon as I got this car, I filled it up with Iso-Vis and I've been using Iso-Vis ever since.

"Driving other cars and using whatever oil was handy, I had all the usual troubles of mountain driving. I got to know almost as much about engines as I knew about teeth." He listened appraisingly as the engine picked up and lifted the car in high gear to the crest above Butte.

"Have you seen the inside of this engine?" his passenger asked.

"No," he said fervently, "and I'm beginning to hope I never will. You may have noticed that I haven't even a carbon knock, and I believe the oil has plenty to do with that. I've never had the head off the engine and I've never had to grind valves.

"I don't do much driving in connection with my work but when I do drive I want to go places. I went from here to Eugene, Ore., last year in just over thirty hours—crossed two mountain ranges and ran through weather that varied from freezing to 119 degrees in the shade. I added one quart of oil for the trip."

Mr. Lodge's 32,201 trouble-free miles prove again what Iso-Vis has demonstrated in laboratory tests and in A. A. A. tests on the Indianapolis Speedway—Positive Lubrication Protection. THE WHISPERER

By ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

The "Whisperer" crimes have held London terrorized for month. Numerous wealthy persons have been kidnaped and held for ransom. The ransom victim is sent a small wireless receiving set, by means of which the Whisperer speaks, using his own short wave, and gives directions for delivering the ransom demanded. Police dare not interfere, because death results for the captive if instructions are not carried out.

Roland Blatch joins the Whisperer's band in order to try to recover jewels he was forced to steal from his employer, Sir Henry Glazeborough, M. P., a leading philanthropist, in order to insure the safe return of his fiancée, Joyce Merrow, who was kidnaped by the bandit. Roland carries out the tasks assigned to him by the bandit and is involved in the killing of an unransomed victim, although the Whisperer has remained hidden from his view. Roland trails him, however, to his hideout and makes the startling discovery that the arch criminal is Sir Henry. The Whisperer takes Roland captive, but Roland escapes and returns to see Joyce. Chief Inspector Larpent is with her. Roland agrees to give himself up to the Whisperer to gain proof of Sir Henry's guilt.

INSTALLMENT XXVII.

A TRUMPHANT RETURN.

As Sir Henry finished his little speech there was an impromptu chorus of approval as if the party had been a public meeting.

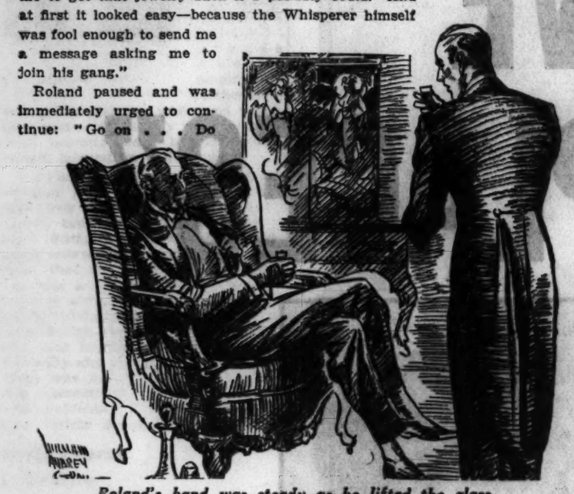
"I say—I say, did you say your name was Roland Blatch?" asked a young man with a monocle. "Aren't you the fellow that was in the papers this morning? You were locked up in a dungeon or something, starving to death, and you were calling the police on the wireless last night and the Whisperer had wangled it again and the police couldn't get it at all.

"Oo! I've never had such a thrill in all my life!" cried Lady Renthorpe. "Do tell us all about it, Mr. Blatch!"

"O, it's very simple, really," said Roland, while they all listened breathlessly. "When the Whisperer made me take the jewels out of the safe here I knew that Sir Henry would be personally liable for the loss."

"But he wasn't!" said a distinguished lawyer. "You were nominally a servant of the league, weren't you, Glazeborough? There was no negligence, so it was the league's loss."

"I didn't know that," said Roland awkwardly, momentarily put out of his stride. "I—I knew that Sir Henry wouldn't blame me, but all the same I thought that after all he had been to me it was up to me to get that jewelry back if I possibly could. And at first it looked easy—because the Whisperer himself was fool enough to send me a message asking me to join his gang."



Roland's hand was steady as he lifted the glass.

Roland paused and was immediately urged to continue: "Go on . . . Do go on . . . We're simply dying to hear it all."

"I'm afraid I'm no good at telling a story," said Roland. "I accepted the invitation, intending to shoot the Whisperer down the moment I came opposite him. I never did come opposite him—but I got pretty near it. I got as far as the room in which he used to lock his victims—and it was there I met Miss Harner. You've read all about that in the papers. I thought the fellow who came to the door was the Whisperer—that's why I shot him. As a matter of fact, I was trying to be too clever and the Whisperer caught me—and that was the end of my little venture."

Sir Henry had shifted his position. He now stood with his hand on Roland's arm, as if he was sponsoring him to the company.

"The last we heard of you you were in some kind of prison," said Sir Henry.

"Set it on fire, sir. The walls happened to burn thin—so I broke through."

At these words something like pandemonium broke out. The men cheered and the women clapped. Roland blushed and felt extremely awkward. The others saw his embarrassment and liked him all the better for it.

"Tell us some more!" cried somebody. "You haven't said what the Whisperer's like."

"I never saw his face," answered Roland, "but I heard his voice a good deal. And the voice was a bit of a shock. When he's doing his horrible stunts he puts that husky note into his voice—which is why he's called the Whisperer—to disguise his real voice, which—well, to put it mildly—is not that of an educated man."

"That's amusing!" said some one. "I thought he was a sort of highly cultured gentleman crook."

"O, nothing of the kind!" laughed Roland. "The truth is that he is extremely clever at this abominable kind of murder, and, of course, he's a first class amateur scientist. But—I should think he probably learned his science in a garage. I'll swear he's never been anywhere near a university."

The audience laughed with delight at this tid-bit of information and Roland went on:

"Of course the Whisperer is a grim social problem, if you look at it one way. But—if you forget that for the moment, he's rather a comic sort of bounder. The gang consists of one rather pathetic woman and a number of rough neck men. They all have to be fearfully respectful of the Whisperer. He makes them call him 'Chief' when he talks to them on his telephones."

"How does he speak to the gang? How did he speak to you if you never saw him?"

Roland told them, and added: "They're a rough lot, but even they laugh at the Chief. He talks like a general holding a review. 'You have done well, Number Six'—and that kind of thing. It's frightfully funny."

In spite of the tremendous issues at stake, Roland was enjoying himself. He drew freely on his imagination and turned every little incident he could think of into ridicule. The guests were delighted and no one laughed more loudly than Sir Henry Glazeborough himself.

Time was getting on. Roland chose his moment when the laughs had subsided for the critical point in his daring pantomime.

"I certainly got a laugh out of it," he remarked to the company in general, then changed his tone. But it isn't wholly funny for me. I came back here tonight because I can't fool the Whisperer any more—it was my only chance to say good-by to Sir Henry. You see, the police are looking for me for stealing that jewelry, and, of course, I shall give myself up, now that I know I can't be of any more use."

Larpent had based everything on the belief that Sir Henry Glazeborough would not let Roland go. And Larpent was immediately proved right.

"But, my dear fellow, I simply cannot bear to think of it!" exclaimed Sir Henry. "The theft was a technical one. I think I may say that not one of my friends present here—any more than myself—considers you in the least degree blameworthy for taking that jewelry."

There was an immediate chorus of approval.

"It seems to me a dreadful thing that this young man, who undoubtedly saved Miss Harner's life in circumstances that I can only call heroic—that this young man, I say, owing to a legal technicality, is liable to arrest as a felon. I venture to say that no one regrets this—ah—legal anomaly more than the police. But the police cannot help themselves."

Sir Henry paused to allow his audience to envisage the difficulty, then: "I am sure that every one in this room feels as I do. Very well, my friends, I am going to make what I fear you will regard as a very bold proposal. The police, I have said, cannot help themselves. I propose that we help the police—by keeping this young man in hiding until the Whisperer has been caught and this miserable affair has blown over."

"Rather! . . . Yes . . . He can come and stay with us . . . We'll all help." Simultaneous cries of approval and offers of support came from every side.

"O, thank you, everybody! Thank you! Thank you!" gushed Old Glassy. "But the plan is mine and I will gladly see it through at my own peril. I ask of you no more than a loyal but tacit acquiescence in a technical breach of the law. I ask you all—and I know you will not misunderstand me—I ask you all to go away now and to say nothing to any one of what has occurred and leave me to arrange for the safety of our young friend."

Roland was elated. So far he had successfully carried our Chief Inspector Larpent's plan for the snaring of the Whisperer.

Ten minutes later he was alone with Sir Henry Glazeborough in the study, sipping whisky. The whisky, he knew, would be safe—for Glazeborough was too great an artist in crime to allow anything untoward to occur in that flat.

Roland's hand was steady as he lifted his glass. Yet he could not help feeling conscious of a strain. In the chair opposite, a few feet away, sat the Whisperer. He knew well that the other was utterly determined to murder him before dawn.

"When I think of what you must have suffered, my dear Blatch! But there! I feel sure you would rather I did not dwell on it. We must just put our two heads together and find a safe way of keeping you out of the reach of Scotland Yard. As a temporary expedient only! A temporary expedient! Remember—the darkest hour is before the dawn."

Roland did not find it hard to talk as if he were still Old Glassy's secretary.

"Very good of you to interest yourself like this, sir! I really don't see why you should. It'll give you no end of trouble."

"Fiddlesticks, my dear fellow! Fiddlesticks! It will give me no more trouble than a short drive—as soon as you've finished your whisky."

"The fact is, fortune has played into our hands," continued Sir Henry Glazeborough. "Positively! There is a young couple—distant relatives of mine—who have just gone out of town for a fortnight. They have left me the keys of their house, as they want me to examine a Gainsborough.

Tattermen Are a Smart Organization.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

There is a type of playgoer, somewhat rare and found chiefly around studios and art colonies, into whose eyes comes a wild and feverish glare at the mere mention of a marionette show. They are true "fans," and they would walk a mile any night to see a few puppets dangling on strings. They have a strong fixation for dolls, pygmy stages, squeaky voices from behind the scenes, and Punch-and-Judy stories; and in the pursuit of their hobby they devour massive volumes of soggy lore about the puppet plays of prehistoric Crete and the marionette dramas of the extinct Tasmanians.

The members of the Chicago chapter of this cult are making pilgrimages to the Goodman theater this week to clap hands and sigh with ecstasy over the Tatterman Marionettes, a smart little organization that has prospered for several years on tour over the women's club circuit. The Tattermen, led by William Duncan and Edward Mabley, are offering what they call a revue for adults under the title of "Stringing Broadway," and I have no doubt that it is exactly the thing to give a marionette "fan" the time of his life.

The technique of Tatterman puppeteering is skillful, and the dolls jiggle about amusingly, with an illusion of grotesque animation. The reading of the dialogue is clear, brisk and well-timed; and the wisps of song-and-dance material are effectively treated. However, except in the theme song—a cabaret ditty which carries the title of the show—I found that the program did not fulfill its promise of adult entertainment. It is merely a clever, bright-minded frolic of educated juvenilia.

"A Church Mouse," now at the Adelphi, will move to the Playhouse next Sunday evening. Louise Groody and Ernest Glendinning will continue as the stars of this engaging comedy.

"Too True to Be Good," the new Shaw play, will end its New York engagement May 21. The Theater Guild has not yet replied to the rumors that this production would be sent to Chicago, and the local subscribers to that organization's interrupted season at the Blackstone are still pining for information.

"Clowns in Clover," Lew Leslie's new revue, will be placed in rehearsal next Monday, with Walter Woolf and Miss Verree Teasdale in the leading rôles. This production will have a première in Chicago, late in June.

Engaged

Miss Helen King of Evanston, daughter of Mrs. Robert King of Peoria, is to be married on May 20 to Jonathan Mayo Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Mitchell of Evanston.

Student Winners in Music Fields Give Joint Recital

Among the annual burgeonings of spring come the appearances of the younger musicians who, having made a good record during the time of studious labor, become thereby entitled to concert performances. Emily Adams, violinist, and Robert Long, tenor, classify with these. Standing first in the list of their respective classes with the Society of American Musicians, they qualify under the Chicago Symphony orchestral award, but failing orchestral appearances they gave a joint recital in Kimball hall last night.

They are both highly talented and they obviously have been good students. Mr. Long has a voice and the ability to project words from which considerable may be expected. That he sang in only three instead of the customary four languages of song recital was probably due to the fact that he had only half the program. That half, however, showed that he has made admirable progress in the art of singing.

Miss Adams has gone in for the best tone of which the violin is capable and has done well in her researches. Her part of the list consisted of two ancient works by Veracini and Pugniani, the Saint-Saëns "Havanaise," and two movements from Lalo's "Symphonie Espagnole." She is sure of pitch, safe, if not overwhelming in technical development, and plays with the feeling of a true musician.

Colleen Moore Signs Contract to Make Talkie

Film Express Big Item for Air Lines.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., May 10.—Colleen Moore made her film comeback a certainty by signing an MGM contract today. She has been making tests with John Miljan for a story called "The Skyscraper."

No one will recommend others doing this, but the story is relayed that Judith Wood, finding that airplane companies would refuse to take her Scotty dog on her recent flight to New York, had a dog specialist put the puppy under an anesthetic, after which she placed the Scotty in a suitcase and took him without incident to her New York hotel, where the puppy was awakened.

The Great Garbo will shoot final scenes of her American film career tomorrow and Thursday in MGM's "As You Desire Me." Her contract is up in three weeks, and unless she decides to cancel her passport to Sweden and stay here, it is problematical if [or when] she ever will come back to Hollywood.

The old Selig zoo in eastern Los Angeles, part of the original Selig park and studios where may thrillers were filmed 15 years ago, is making a public bow as an amusement place under the name "California Zoological garden" on June 1.

The biggest item in income of the passenger air line to the east from Los Angeles is said to be shipments of completed motion picture film to the eastern movie distributing headquarters. Most ordinary studio program pictures cost from $100,000 to $225,000 to make, and the studios have it all figured that interest on $100,000 amounts to $16.44 a day. Thus they figure that saving three or four days in getting completed film to New York, and thus on its way into the country's theaters, equals quite an item in saving when aggregated for thirty or forty films in the course of a year.

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Accessories play an important part in this life—they can either make you or break you, sartorially speaking. The right gloves, scarf, etc., can completely transform last year's suit so that it wouldn't recognize itself. And the wrong gloves, scarf, etc. can mar even the latest and most fascinating Paris creation. Far reaching in their influence are these little gadgets, and, accordingly, not to be taken lightly.

To achieve the distinction of being called well groomed, you must choose your accessories as carefully as you do the rest of your wardrobe. They must be in perfect harmony with their accompanying ensemble and attuned to the occasion. For morning accessories, the keynote is tailored simplicity, with no frills and furbelows.

The drawing today shows you the kind of accessories that are superchic and correct this spring. The vagabond sailor hat, from Rose Descat, in a fine white paper straw, has just the right amount of smart jauntiness. Its tailored band, like the simple scarf, is in navy blue printed crêpe de chine, with the motif in white polka dots.

The six button length gloves are straight slipons in white suede. They have hand-sewn seams which give them just the little bit of bulkiness that characterizes the correct sports glove. The oxfords, from Sandalari, are in dark navy blue kid and have stitched encrustations, also in navy. A rather large navy blue handbag, in kid, would be the appropriate one to complete this ensemble.

The corps then passed in review before the women.

"Heavens! —another Run!"

Don't wash out ELASTICITY* if you want stockings to wear and fit

For careless washing can destroy the very secret of stocking life—ELASTICITY. That's the "live" quality that makes stockings give, instead of break, under strain—stretch and spring back into shape.

Lux is made to preserve this precious elasticity. That's why stockings washed the Lux way keep their flattering fit—give so much longer WEAR.

STOCKING S-T-R-A-I-N comes when you climb stairs, bend, stretch, put on your garters! If elasticity has been destroyed, silk threads break, starting ruinous runs.

*The Lux Way to preserve ELASTICITY

Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali which weakens threads, fades colors. Lux has no harmful alkali—if it's safe in water it's safe in Lux.

Fuess Writes a Good Book on Carl Schurz

CLAUDE M. FUESS, author of the distinguished and scholarly biography of Daniel Webster, presents us with the first complete life of Carl Schurz, the most notable of German-Americans. This biography has been carefully put together, with an ample and discriminating bibliography and many illuminating notes [which appear in the traditional manner at the bottom of the page]. Claude Fuess' biographical method does not fall in with the new trend which emphasizes psychology and perhaps even sensationalism, but is serious, sound, interesting, and accurate.

"No one who ever saw Carl Schurz walking jauntily down Fifth avenue was likely to forget that slender, erect figure, usually a little cramped in a tight fitting frock coat; that noble head, crowned with a mass of grizzled hair; that mustache and beard, giving him a foreign appearance in a land of smooth shaven males; those sharp, twinkling, sometimes whimsical eyes, behind steel rimmed spectacles; and that bearing of conscious intellectuality and power which befits only those who have matched their abilities successfully against potentates and presidents." Thus is this amazing man vividly described.

Early Interest in Politics.

Carl Schurz, a middle class German, born in Prussia, was in his early youth a thoughtful boy interested in books and culture. When he went to college he soon became interested in politics in his native land and allied himself, as most youthful Germans at that time did, with the revolutionary forces. He effected a striking rescue of a revolutionary leader and was for many Germans a romantic hero. He was practically exiled from his native land, found himself unpopular in France where Napoleon the Third was trying to effect the change from republicanism to monarchy, and landed in England where he joined many of his friends in the German colony. Though he soon came to America, he never lost his passionate enthusiasm for a united Germany.

Arriving in America with his bride at the age of 23, he, within six months, learned to speak and write fluently the English language. With this amazing accomplishment he began the career that was to lead him to the highest places ever reached by a German-American. His gift as an orator, his vital interest in politics and his passion for justice and honesty soon put him before the eyes of the public. His zeal and efforts undoubtedly helped to elect Abraham Lincoln, who upon attaining office appointed him as minister to Spain. He soon returned, however, to this country and took an active part in the civil war.

Perhaps the only discreditable phase of his career, discreditable only in that it was unwise and short sighted, was his attitude toward Andrew Johnson and his reconstruction policy. In his lifetime Carl Schurz became a senator and a secretary of the interior, and adviser, friend or enemy to every President from Lincoln to Roosevelt, always advocating the honest and the just in politics even to the extent of changing parties often and organizing a third party. His main doctrines were anti-slavery, sound money, civil service reform, anti-imperialism, international peace, conservation of natural resources and clean government.

Respected by Good Citizens.

Though he was not always successful, he was a person forever to be feared by the corrupt and vascillating and respected by the good citizen no matter where he lived or to what party he belonged.

Carl Schurz's career was perhaps one of the noblest in the history of American public life. Furthermore, it was one of the most astonishing, considering the enormous handicaps under which he attained distinction. He became, in a few short years after his arrival in this country, an Americanized German of the highest order and never once did his allegiance to the United States waver. Carl Schurz was a not altogether attractive personality however. His dogmatism and his oftentimes childlike but nevertheless annoying egotism, his reforming zeal that many times antagonized the presidents he took upon himself to advise were not traits that endeared him universally to the public. There has never been a doubt, however, of his consistent honesty in times of the most flagrant corruption and his invaluable contribution to the public life of America.

Claude Fuess writes disinterestedly of his hero. He is not blind to the repellent features of this German-American reformer, but he gives him his due in a biography that is interesting, well written and stimulating.

Obey King's Edict to Aid English Industry.

BY ANN WHITTINGHAM.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 10.—Although the court circle is in mourning for a week out of respect to the late French president, their Brittanic majesties will hold the first of the diplomatic courts at Buckingham palace tomorrow as planned and social London is all set for the occasion.

Diplomatic uniforms will wear a touch of black, but the ladies who swarm through the crimson walled rooms of the palace will wear their most beautiful court gowns. In honor of the American ladies who will be presented at the first two courts there was a tea at the American embassy today presided over by Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon's daughter, Mrs. David K. E. Bruce.

This was her first appearance as the embassy hostess. She was by far the youngest the American embassy has had as long as any one can remember. All twenty of the presentees were at the tea. Since Mrs. Bruce herself has not yet been presented at court she cannot present any one according to official etiquette and this function would normally fall to the doyenne of the diplomatic corps, Mme. A. de Fluerlau. Such was the original plan, but since the French embassy is in deep mourning, the wife of the Brazilian ambassador, Senora Raul Regis de Oliveira has become acting doyenne and will present Mrs. Bruce and other American ladies to the king and queen.

One of the most beautiful of all the women to be presented at these courts is Mrs. Claude Leigh who was Miss Myrtle Johnson of Chicago, the daughter of Mrs. Augusta Johnson. She will not, however, be presented as an American, but as an Englishwoman since she is married to an Englishman. Her sponsor is Countess Londesborough, mother of the Marchioness of Carisbrooke.

Mrs. Leigh's gown is a delicate hand embroidered sequin dress in which one can distinguish the pattern of marguerites outlined with innumerable tiny sequins, the petal flowers being left open. It fits her tall lissome figure like a glove to below the knees where by means of tulle edged godets it flares in a mass of white tulle at her feet. The train is of white tulle bordered with embroidery and silver marguerites and lace. Her shimmering golden hair will be held in place by a diamond tiarra which also fastens three prince of Wales feathers. Her jewels are a diamond and ruby necklace and a brooch. To complete her perfect white ensemble she will wear an ermine evening cloak.

This is a real "all British" court so thousands of pounds that would hitherto have been spent in other luxury purveying centers this year will find their way into British industry. Attached to each of the gilt-edged invitations sent out by the Lord Chamberlain was a printed note announcing that the king and queen expressly wished that all ladies wear dresses of British materials. Americans all complied with the request. The most popular are dresses of Devonshire net and tulle in lovely pastel shades, Nottingham lace in all degrees of filminess and soft clinging satins from the midlands. White, pink and pale lettuce green are the first choice of colors for debutantes and silver, deep rose and blue for matrons and sponsors.

Century of Progress officials yesterday accepted two pictures for display. One, an oil painting by Morton R. Addy, gives the artist's conception of how the fair will look when completed. The other is a sketch of the Kimberley diamond mines of which fair officials plan a replica for the fair. A trio of dancers who will interpret the spirit of the fair buildings in a recital Sunday at the Goodman theater yesterday visited the hall of science and the administration buildings.

Chicago Has a Collector of Epitaphs

Hobby Offers Elements of Humor.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

WHEN Frenchman Max O'Rell visited America almost a century ago he recorded among his impressions the amazing titles given those three important columns in the daily press—births, marriages, deaths.

"One paper has gone so far as to label them 'Cradle, Altar, Grave,'" he wrote. "But this can't compare with the indiscretion of the sheet that speaks of 'Hatches, Matches, and Dispatches.'"

A guest of the William F. Babcocks of Winnetka recalled this story one evening recently when Mr. Babcock [after due persuasion] consented to talk about his hobby—collecting epitaphs. Incidentally all of the guests agreed afterward it was one of the most entertaining evenings spent in many a day.

For Mr. Babcock, along with Homer Croy, the author, has spent some years gathering the quaint and amusing bits of homemade verse fond relatives have written about their "departed"—rhymed eulogies, warnings to the survivors, bits of biography and sentimental reflections on life and death. Suggest to either of these men an old English churchyard or a New England burial ground and you will recall more interesting sidelights on "dispatches" of two or three centuries back than a month of study might afford.

"Epitaphy is what I call it," remarked Mr. Babcock. "The frankness of these old verses sometimes achieved a pathos, sometimes humor, sometimes even a ferocity completely absent from modern epitaphs in which discretion has effaced differences. We write 'In loving memory' and leave it at that. The idea of deliberate waggery on the tombstone of a friend or acquaintance appalls us."

Particularly amusing is the tradition associated with one epitaph Mr. Babcock ran across some years ago in the famous Copp's Hill burying ground in Boston:

"Stop here, my friends, and cast an eye,
As you are now, so once was I;
As I am now, so you must be,
Prepare for death and follow me."

To this a young wag is said to have added in chalk:

"To follow you I'm not content
Unless I know which way you went."

"Here's another," Mr. Babcock went on, "that came, I believe, from some place in England. A man whose wife died wrote on her tombstone, 'The light of my life has gone out.' Two or three years later, when marrying a second time, he returned to the graveyard and had inscribed under this line, 'But I have struck another match.' The country is full of these punning epitaphs and other curiosities worked out with men's names and occupations.

"It was once common, for example, to give a person a fictitious name so that it would rhyme with another word," he continued. "One verse explains that a girl called 'Jones' is really 'Smith,' but 'Jones' was used to form a couplet with 'bones.'"

The oldest epitaphs known—those found on ancient Egyptian coffins—are surprisingly like those of the present day, simply a statement of the name and family of the deceased. In a few cases a prayer to the gods was also included, but never was an attempt made to praise the character of the dead or express the feelings of the survivors.

The Greeks excelled in the composition of memorial inscriptions, those written by Simonides in honor of heroes who perished at the Pass of Thermopylæ being especially famous. There is also the well known Latin epitaph in honor of Alexander the Great. "Here a mound suffices for one for whom the world was not large enough."

Shakespeare, Robert Louis Stevenson, and Benjamin Franklin are all known to have written their own epitaphs, though it has frequently been pointed out that the lines on Shakespeare's tomb at Stratford are poetically unworthy of him. Most interesting of the three, without doubt, is that written by Franklin:

"The body of
Benjamin Franklin, Printer,
Like the cover of an old book,
Its contents worn out
And strip of the lettering and gilding,
Lies here food for the worms,
Yet the work itself shall not be lost,
For it shall, as he believes, appear once more
In a new and more beautified edition
Corrected and amended

Model Sports Clothes at Benefit

Sports clothes that will be seen this summer at the beaches, golf links, country clubs and race tracks were among the most interesting models displayed at the fashion show given yesterday afternoon and evening by the "Tuesday Nighters" of St. Chrysostom's church for the benefit of Oronoko camp for children. Mrs. Louis C. Sudler (left) modeled red jersey beach pajamas polka-dotted in white with a bolero jacket and white woolen sweater. The hat accompanying the costume has a small white crown and a blue straw brim of shoulder width.

WOTTA LIFE! WOTTA LIFE!

How Shopping for Husbands Is Made Easy

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The millennium must be marking time just around the corner for the most welcome news to feminine shoppers will be the information that a certain shop in town has, with a grand gesture, recognized the much advertised fact that we are the great 70 per cent buyers of merchandise for the home as well as the various gentlemen who graciously let us buy for them.

With the aid of expert statisticians a few adding machines, innumerable charts and a mass of irrefutable data this shop has bowed gallantly, and calmly but perspicaciously faced the inescapable proof that only 30 per cent of the buyers in their men's shop were masculine voters. Having been convinced that this state of affairs was beyond changing, this shop proceeded to install a special service for these feminine purchasing agents, a service, that if used, precludes any sartorial mistakes by the any not quite sure female who wants to please the masculine contingent.

It's a chance of a lifetime for you shoppers to correct a few masculine absurdities in dressing. Now you can buy cravats, shirts, socks and handkerchiefs with authority. Aided and abetted by this service you can at last, sigh with relief, knowing that a certain gentleman you know will not sally forth any morning with a tie that shrieks madly at his socks. You can agree with others of the opposite sex that dotted things are as correct as they are good looking. In fact, before you will realize it, you will be a voice of authority even for scoffing brothers. You can buy for any occasion. You can outfit vacation going males in the shortest shopping time on record, for this shop also has installed a most efficient shopping bureau. There is no guesswork about clothes selected for a yachting trip. You are firmly but courteously informed that anything but rubber soled footwear is taboo on any kind of a sea going ship or boat.

If your men folk plan to scale mountains or to travel westward to lustily embrace the outdoor rough and tumble sports of dude ranching, you will be carefully restrained from squandering your shekels on anything but strictly utilitarian and wear-wearing denims and sweaters and well toughened shirts with a lot of gaudy ties and silk handkerchiefs included to properly enhance the virility of the swaggering male.

It is the most comforting thing to know that here the harassed and rather unsure female may buy and depart with ties, shirts, socks, handkerchiefs and all the small but indispensable what-nots of the masculine wardrobe, secure in the knowledge that what she has selected is neither gaudy nor giddy, that the nonshopping male will probably roar, not the derisive defiant and displeased hootings of days gone by, but the generous, surprised and utterly satisfied smiling roar of hearty approval."

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Lighthouse Volunteer Aids are giving a supper dance in the Bal Tabarin of the Hotel Sherman Saturday night for the benefit of the Chicago Lighthouse for the Blind. How many times we society editors have written those words during the twelve years the Lighthouse has been in existence, and how many times our readers have read them!

And yet I wonder how many of us have anything but the vaguest idea of what the Lighthouse is or what the Aids do for it? Until yesterday, when I paid a visit to the Lighthouse out on West 22d street, I knew very little more about it than that it was an industrial training school for the adult blind, and that the Aids helped raise money for its support.

But now I know much more, so much more than I can write, for no one could go through the Lighthouse and hear about its inception and the founder's dream of what can be done to help blind people help themselves from that "shiningest" light of the Lighthouse, Miss Edith Swift, without becoming full of enthusiasm for the work the institution is doing and for Miss Swift.

She really is the founder of the Lighthouse, and it is through her sagacity and vision of what might be accomplished, as well as her skill at inventing several instruments that have made it possible for blind men to do certain work, that the institution is so successful.

It was quite by accident that she became interested in a training school for the blind, but when she did she became interested with a vengeance and interested all her former school friends from Miss Porter's school at Farmington. And so the Aids were born, and although now the Aids aren't limited to girls who have been finished at Farmington, it really was the members of the Farmington Society of Chicago who were the original Aids.

The Aids not only give an annual party to help raise funds to carry on the training school—it is partly self-supporting, for all the work done by the men in training is sold to a big company—but they arrange monthly lectures for the blind workers and their blind friends, and they do some of the work which cannot be done by people without sight. They do very little work, however, for all of the switchboard equipment, 31 kinds, ranging from simple ones of 25 pieces to complicated affairs composed of 377 pieces, are assembled by the blind workers, and it is making this switchboard equipment that is the principal industry at the school nowadays. Miss Swift told me yesterday that out of $22,556 worth of work done for the Western Electric company last year, only $21 worth was returned to be remade.

It was an amazing sight to see the men who were working in the Lighthouse yesterday working so skillfully and quickly and I hardly could believe that some of them were blind, so rapidly and precisely did their hands move about their work. But they were blind—that was seen when they got up to go upstairs to their luncheon, for although there are ramps instead of stairs in the building, the men had to feel their way to the ramps and up them. The main part of their luncheon is furnished them by the Lighthouse for 15 cents apiece, but each man brings his own bread from his home, for there are 22 nationalities in the group and Miss Swift said that each man wanted his own particular kind of bread.

Old Radios Are Repaired.

A radio was going full tilt while I was there and Miss Swift told me that every man there has a radio in his home, for a certain radio company gives all the old radios which it takes in on the purchase of new ones to the Lighthouse, and a troop of blind Boy Scouts has been trained to repair them and keep them in condition. Miss Swift thinks the radio has done more for the blind than any other one thing.

Among those who are giving dinner parties Saturday night before the supper dance are Mrs. Franklin G. Clement, president of the Aids; Mrs. John K. Notz, who is having a party of friends come down from Milwaukee for the event; Mrs. George Silverthorne Jr., Mrs. J. Allen Newton, Mrs. Austin Young, Mrs. Clifford Templeton, Mrs. Robert F. Babcock, Miss Mary Gardner, Talcott Griswold, and William A. Moore.

"The Breadline Frolics" company, which gave the closing performance of a two weeks' run at the Majestic theater last Saturday night, has not disbanded, we are glad to hear, but may be seen again in Evanston next Monday night.

The Evanston board of the Northwestern university settlement has taken the show intact and will bring it to the Haven school at Lincoln and Prairie streets in Evanston for one performance only.

Proceeds will be divided between the settlement and the men of the shelters for whom this show by unemployed men was originally organized by Mrs. Waller Borden and her committee.

Mrs. John E. Wilder is chairman of the university settlement board.

Many Attend Arts Club Opening.

Almost 200 guests—a large crowd, considering the lateness of the season—attended the Arts club tea yesterday afternoon to open the exhibitions of Charles Desplau's sculpture from Frank Crowninshield's collection, and drawings by sculptors from private collections of Chicagoans.

Encourage Him, Instead, Says Doris.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Trying, trying days for marriage, these! and for some couples hit by the depression! Not trying days for all, it is true. Some people can overnight adapt themselves to a reduced mode of living without a single martyr groan. Some seem not to have the morale for the change. When toll is taken later, the old rule of the survival of the fittest will be found to serve marriage in times of strife.

Scarcely a day goes by but some injured mate, the wife usually, writes of his or her personal wrongs in the face of this economic catastrophe of ours. No thought of the big events outside of his or her small world that are bearing down the pressure! No thought of the people who would be glad to have the roof under which complainant resides, the food, the clothing he or she enjoys.

It's no time to nurse petty grudges. It's no time to cry for things out of financial reach. It's no time to try to keep up with the Joneses, if the Joneses are still in existence. It's no time to pick on a husband's moods and depressions. He may be going through a terrible time, courage ebbing, morale slipping. You, the woman who keeps on nagging, are the one woman in the world he'd provide well for if he could manage it.

We're addressing this plea to you, "Mrs. J. V.," whose letter reveals your unreasonableness, more than the man's. He needs every bit of courage you can extend him. He needs your faith. Debts piled high, a half time job—what do you think men are made of not to have moods of despondency under such circumstances? Be human, woman! Get out and try your own hand at locating a job, as you threaten. You may learn a lesson about the need of an encouraging friend in times of distress.

And you working wives—what if your entire pay envelope does go into the upkeep of the home? It's your home, isn't it? You want a home, don't you? You married a man who was working, willing to work, wanted to work. If he is out of luck, temporarily, if he has lost his nerve, it isn't the light he wants to be seen in, is it?

Doesn't it occur to you women that about the most hated position a man finds himself in is accepting support from the woman he married? If he acts ugly, even, be tolerant, for the position of indebtedness he is in goes woefully against the grain, turning his disposition into something foreign to the man's true nature.

Give the discouraged boy a hand! If you must kick, kick yourself for a piker who can't see a national crisis for a few little personal discomforts.

Fall Garden Plans Should Be Laid Now

BY PAUL POTTER.

Plans should be made now for the succession of bloom which will carry color in the garden through until as late as November. Most helpful in such a preparation is the hardy chrysanthemum, one of the loveliest of late blooming flowers, which offers a wide range of colors at a time when good blooms are scarce.

The hardy garden types consist chiefly of the Pompons, which include the small button forms, singles, doubles, and decorative varieties. Mrs. G. F. Korf of 26 North Harlem avenue, Freeport, has found that of these types the safest to plant in the Chicago region are such early blooming varieties as Frances Whittlesay, Jean Cumming, R. Marion Holton, October Dawn, October Girl, Ruth Holton, Ruth Cumming, and Barbara Cumming.

Whether the pompons are started from cuttings or from root divisions, no delay should be encountered this month in getting them under way. Mrs. Korf points out that chrysanthemum growers emphasize good drainage, especially in keeping them free from ice coverings in winter.

"More chrysanthemums are smothered in winter, either by ice or heavy covering, than are winter killed," says Mrs. Kopf.

These flowers should also have loose, friable soil, deeply prepared and rich in plant food. During the growing season up to the time color shows in the buds, they appreciate weekly applications of fertilizer.

Chrysanthemums should be lifted and reset at least every two years, she adds, using only the new strongest shoots. Among the early blooming varieties one of the most interesting this season is the Aladin, which is credited with sometimes blooming as early as July.

This morning we're answering an S O S from Mrs. A. B., who wants plans and specifications for a good old fashioned vegetable pickle to be put up in vinegar and oil. I suspect from her letter that Mrs. A. B. already has such a recipe and is mostly concerned with the correct method of sterilization and preservation, but since I'll risk a wager that there are a good many of you who could make use of a few suggestions for this interesting type of pickle, I'm going to kill the proverbial two birds this morning and give you recipe and method together.

Of course, if you wish to have green tomatoes or cucumbers in your pickles you will want to slip this recipe away for a few months until prices come down, or you can supply these vegetables from your own garden. However, for those who can get along without these old standbys, this recipe will give a delightful and really different kind of a relish.

OIL AND VINEGAR PICKLES.

2 quarts tender string beans, cut.
1 quart chopped carrots, parboiled.
4 tablespoons salt.
1 quart vinegar.
1 pound brown sugar.
1 tablespoon mustard.
1 tablespoon cinnamon.

Put the vegetables through a food chopper and sprinkle over them one-half cup of salt. Mix well and let stand over night. Drain and mix thoroughly with the rest of the ingredients except the oil. Let stand several hours, bring to a boil, and allow to cool. Add olive oil and pack in sterilized jars [without heating] and seal.

And while we're talking pickles, here is a recipe for a vegetable chow-chow which, while it doesn't have the vinegar and oil combination, will please many of us just as much.

VEGETABLE CHOW-CHOW.

Brine together two cups of small white onions, sliced, two cups of cut cauliflower, three cups of cut string beans, seven cut green peppers, and one cut red pepper. For the brining use the following method. Cover the mixed vegetables with 10 per cent brine [two cups salt to one gallon water] and store in kegs or jars, with the vegetables weighted down by a heavy plate and the jar covered with cheese cloth. On the second day add two cups of salt for every ten pounds of vegetables, to maintain the salt concentration. At the end of each succeeding week for six weeks add one-half cup of salt, placing it each time on top of the plate, so that it will not sink to the bottom. Skim off the scum occasionally, but do not stir the pickles. At the end of the brining let the vegetables freshen by soaking for two days in clear water. Put all together through a meat chopper, large cutter, and mix thoroughly with a solution made of two cups of vinegar, one cup of sugar, two tablespoons horseradish, four teaspoons celery seed, and three teaspoons mustard seed. Allow the mixture to stand overnight, stir, pack, and seal.

And by the way, if you have in your family any other pet pickle recipes you'd be doing us a real favor by sending them in. Will you? Then here's a pudding for your file:

BAKED DATE PUDDING.

2 teaspoons baking powder.
1 cup sliced dates.
½ cup chopped peanuts.
1 egg.
1 teaspoon lemon extract.

Sift the dry ingredients together and blend thoroughly with the dates and nuts. Add the sugar gradually to the well-beaten egg, then stir in the milk and flavoring and finally the dry ingredients, nut, and dates. Bake in a shallow pan in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] one hour. When done, chill, cut in squares, and serve with whipped cream, or serve hot with hard sauce.

Prince and Princess Visit City

Prince and Princess Vassili are being entertained extensively in an informal manner by their relatives and friends here during their two weeks' visit with his brother and sister-in-law, Prince and Princess Rostislav. Princess Vassili is the former Natacha Galitzine and Princess Rostislav is the former Aleka Galitzine, but it is not a case of brothers having married sisters, as one might suppose, for the two young women are only very distantly related. This picture of the visitors was taken in the Rostilav's apartment at 1311 Astor street.

Swimming Is Grand Exercise for Everybody

Start Practice Now for the Summer Season.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Why don't more of you women sign up now with a swimming school so that when the season comes around you'll get some real good out of it? We should have more good swimmers among our sex. I don't mean professionally bent. And I don't mean just the young women, either.

When you see the vast crowds that haunt the summer beaches in bathing suits and looking for all the world like good human swimming material, you do wonder why more of our feminine element hasn't learned to swim. Just running into the water, getting wet, and paddling around for a few minutes, running out and lying on the sand again, doesn't do such a powerful lot of good. I'll grant it is better than not going near a beach. The sunning has value and the relaxed play spirit of the beach has its advantages.

But I would like to see more actual swimmers among those women who loll and paddle. It's only a comparatively few women who can go a hundred yards without tiring. Yet, it is in actual distance swimming that lies the secret of a rejuvenated body and spirit at the end of a bathing season.

Of course, women loll on the shore and paddle around at the water's edge because they do not know how to swim, or because they don't like to appear back seasonish with the old fashioned breast stroke. (The latter has been admitted by some of the older women.)

But here is one of the exercises a woman can keep up until she is 70 and she might just as well learn the uptodate strokes and swim for all there is in it. There is so much in swimming, that it is a shame our sex doesn't go in for it in a more practical way. The amount of healthy reducing you can do with a daily swim during the brief summer months is amazing. The weight gaining advantages are incalculable.

The ailments that are cleared up with the new breathing style are many. Complexion improvement is an almost guaranteed conclusion, due to the improved circulation.

Medical Association Rejects Project to Study Birth Control

New Orleans, La., May 10.—(AP)—In secret session the house of delegates of the American Medical association today voted unanimously against investigating birth control.

The vote was taken on a resolution presented yesterday by J. D. Brook, M. D., of Grandville, Mich. None of the discussion today was made public.

The resolution proposed appointment of a committee to spend one year considering whether the American Medical association should attempt to make birth control standard, legalized practice. It summarized the recent spread of birth control methods and suggested that the situation warrants action by the medical profession.

Dr. Mary O'Malley, a clinical director of St. Elizabeth's hospital, Washington, D. C., was named president elect of the Medical Women's National association. The association adopted resolutions requesting the removal of sex restrictions by scientific medical organizations that do not admit women and calling upon all hospitals to admit women internes.

Parents Should Help Victim of School Teasing

Indifference Is the Best Armour.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Question: "My little girl is 7, in her second grade at school and is teased so much by her playmates because she responds to it so beautifully. I have talked to her—told her to laugh at their teasing, but she told me tearfully that she didn't know when they were teasing.

"She is a very quick tempered, high strung child. Have you any suggestions for the easily teased child?"

Answer: This letter gives the whole picture of teasing that I see and hear so often. This is about the usual age at which children are so much teased and it is usually this type of child who is so defenseless against its torture. It is probably not possible to spare them entirely, but you can help them to meet teasing and so lessen it.

Keep insisting to your little girl that the children don't mean to hurt her but think it's fun or a game, and that if she would pretend not to mind it they would stop. One mother I know used to give "practice teasing" lessons with her little boy and herself as participants and it helped him to get the idea.

Then, tell her about the boy who came home and said, "Had a new boy at school today, and didn't get any fun out of it 'tall. We had to quit teasing him because he wouldn't be teased. No fun in teasing a guy that won't be teased.

Also, a quiet word to the teacher might help—that is, if she's a clever manager. Being easily teased is often outgrown—but more slowly by some than by others. But children can be helped.

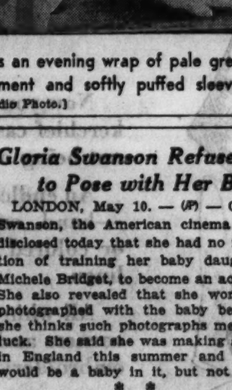
WHEN TEETHING makes HIM FUSSY



Teething time brings its troubles! For so often teeth cut through the tender gums in hot weather, when there is danger of digestive upsets anyway.

One of the most important things you can do to make a teething baby comfortable, is to see that waste matter is carried off promptly and regularly.

For this, there's nothing like Castoria. It is made specially for the delicate needs of babies and children. It acts so gently, you can give it to young infants to relieve colic pains. Yet it is always effective—keeps older children well regulated.

When your baby is fretful and feverish with teething or a stomach disturbance, give a cleansing dose of Castoria to make him comfortable and happy. Children like the taste of genuine Castoria—never object to taking it. Be sure you get it with the name Chas. H. Fletcher on the package.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 10. — Lefty Grove and associate Philadelphia Athletics may have been softened up by the Cardinals and several American league outfits, but they still are terrifying ogres to our White Sox. Lefty just breezed along this afternoon to shut out the Chicagoans, while his partners pounded away at Sam Jones. The final score was 9 to 0.

Grove, who now has four victories to three defeats, was in one of his generous moods, and bore down only when the Sox showed signs of life. This wasn't often, as the Sox made only six hits, all singles. As a consequence Lefty was called upon to strike out only five batsmen.

There isn't much to be said today as a cover up for the Sox. The pitching was quite the worst Sam Jones has done to date and two singles by Blue represented the very best in the hitting department. Kress and Hodapp got to third in the second inning following a two base error by Cramer, but no one got there later on.

Well, Tracy Stopped Al.

The hits that showered around Jones during the six innings he struggled, included a double by Dykes, which figured in the production of three runs in the second inning, and a homer by the same gent with two on in the sixth.

Jimmy Foxx resumed leadership among the leading batsmen of the majors after giving way to Carl Reynolds of Washington for a day. Jimmy made two singles and a double in four times at bat. The double was a gift of Hodapp's inability to bend over on a simple ground ball.

The only satisfaction the Sox possibly could have derived from the afternoon spectacle was the stopping of Al Simmons with one single. And everybody has been doing that, for Al has been hovering around the .300 mark for days, a good mark for lots of fellows we know, but pretty skimpy for the batting champ of 1930 and 1931.

The ball did not get on the ground in either half of the first inning. Rothrock, Seeds and Blue flying out to the A's outfield and Bishop, Haas and Cochrane flying out to Sox infielders.

Then Things Opened Up.

The second inning was nothing like the first, however. Kress reached second on Cramer's error and went to third on Fothergill's out. Red was out by yards when he attempted to score on Hodapp's tap to McNair. Appling's single to right put Hodapp on third, but Berry was an easy strike out victim.

Simmons led off the A's second with a single to center and took second on a passed ball, whence he scored on Foxx's single to center. Rothrock made a fine catch of Cramer's drive. Then McNair singled to center, Foxx stopping at third. Dykes doubled to left, scoring Foxx and McNair stopped at third. Grove fanned, but Bishop walked, filling the bases. Haas doubled to left, scoring McNair and Dykes, but Bishop was out, Fothergill to Appling to Berry when he, too, sought to score.

The Philadelphians added one in the third. Cochrane led off with the third double off Jones, went to third while Kress was throwing out Simmons, paused while Foxx popped to Kress and came home as Cramer got credit for a single when he caromed a grounder off Hodapp's fragile shins. Hodapp threw out McNair.

Sad Sam Goes Away.

The sixth inning was Sam's farewell. The inning opened with Foxx trickling a double between Hodapp's heels. Jimmy stopped at third on Cramer's infield scratch and both runners paused while Seeds made a good catch of McNair's liner. Three runs tromped across the plate when Dykes drove his homer into the left field stands. Grove fanned and Hodapp threw out Bishop.

Gregory pitched the seventh. Haas and Cochrane grounded to Hodapp and Simmons fanned, which was good enough for a rookie baptism against the league champs. Paul didn't fare so well in the eighth. The A's picked him for a run on singles by Foxx and McNair.

BURGOO KING'S victory in the Kentucky Derby will not establish him indisputably as 3 year old champion of 1932 in the minds of most turf followers until he has met again some of those which finished behind him, and perhaps several others. Such statement does not detract anything from Saturday's performance nor imply that the colt will not repeat.

DICK THOMPSON.

There are several reasons. In the first place, the Kentucky Derby, first test of the year, was earlier than usual. Several notable performers were absentees because of injuries or lack of condition. Possibly some of those behind the Bradley colt were not as ready as he. Trained at Lexington, of the same climate as Louisville, skillfully prepared by Trainer Dick Thompson, an old hand in conditioning Derby colts—Burgoo King was his third winner—the son of Bubbling Over was right for the occasion and proved it.

Those turfmen who belittle the caliber of this year's field are those who ask to be further convinced. Even Owner Bradley says Burgoo King is not the greatest colt which ever came from Idle Hour farm, but that he's a real good one. Time for the race, 2:05 1-5 on a fast track, compared to Twenty Grand's 2:01 4-5 in 1931, causes part of the doubt. Yet Twenty Grand later lost in the Arlington Classic to Mate, which had finished third to him in the Derby.

Burgoo King's race was of the type we like—able to stay in the first flight and then go on to triumph. Slow beginners like Tick On are more handicapped in big fields than later in the season, when there are fewer aspirants. The Mrs. John Hay Whitney pair of Stepenfetchit and Over Time looked as if they might do better when unhampered by interference.

Public interest always is whetted by appearance of an established champion. From the viewpoint of contention and speculation, however, more interest attaches where there is doubt. That's what makes the Kentucky Derby. So the mere fact that Burgoo King's right to the title remains to be proved definitely adds rather than detracts from the Preakness, Belmont stakes, American Derby at Washington Park, Arlington Classic, Lawrence Realization, and others.

Any colt which runs down that line with a string of brackets will be entitled to unanimous honors. If there be varying results we'll have the arguments of some previous years. By fall, however, these arguments usually are pretty well settled.

Supreme Sweet Captures Momence, But She's Lucky

BY FRENCH LANE.

Paul Bunyan is the nominee. He showed yesterday he is just about ready to step out with the topnotchers when he ran in the Momence purse at Aurora.

Old Paul didn't win. The fleet filly Supreme Sweet was in front at the finish. Paul Bunyan was back in fifth place. But remember this was a 5½ furlong race—far too short for a route runner of the Paul Bunyan type.

He Was Advancing.

He was moving up on the leaders in such stride and determination in the last furlong, the crowd had to quit looking at Supreme Sweet, winging it along in front, and give old Paul a cheer. He was fifth but beaten for all the money by only two and one-half lengths. In another half furlong he most likely would have been in front.

Portmanteau, another Chicago horse, one which Ben Rosenheim got ready for the races on the bridle paths in Jackson park, also was coming like a nonstop express. He ate up about an acre of ground as he passed one horse after another to lose the decision to Supreme Sweet by little more than a head. Blue Day hung on to be third and the easterner, Capacity, after making the early pace, was soundly beaten.

Supreme Sweet Pays $4.40.

Supreme Sweet had been backed with great confidence and paid $4.40. Portmanteau and Blue Day were long shots. The time was 1:06 1-5, only a second off the track record.

There were too many smart handicappers in the crowd to let the daily double pot mount up. It was the second largest pool of the meeting, going above $5,000. However, 221 of the customers hooked up Thomas Seth and Alamae, the winners in the second and third races.

Thomas Seth had no trouble at all winning, and Alamae won fairly easily from Gypsy Chief, which had some bad luck at the head of the stretch. Hence the daily double paid only $22.86, which was a new low.

The Aurora spring season hits the half way mark this afternoon, and General Manager E. F. Carruthers says there is no reason to sing the blues.

"Our business has been better than we expected," Carruthers said. "We have operated at a profit so far, and that's something very few of the race tracks in the country can brag about."

The competition the Aurora track encountered from the new Sportsman's Park in Chicago has been a healthy stimulant to the sport in Aurora. The racing has been more interesting than ever before. Better horses have been running. Nobody has been loafing. The riding has been way above the jockey performances of other seasons.

From out of the east came War Saint yesterday to win the mile and seventy yards fourth race and enable his backers to stage a right merry cleanup. He came here fresh from two victories at Havre de Grace. Yet the Aurora regulars didn't have much confidence in him and they made Come On, always popular at Aurora, the short priced favorite.

War Saint led by a wide margin most of the way. Come On didn't start running until the stretch. He closed an enormous gap and was near victory right at the end, but lost by a head. General Court also came from way back and was third.

The easterners, who expected to get about six to five or even money on War Saint, collected a little better than 3 to 1. War Saint's race was the best of the season at Aurora. He ran the first six furlongs in 1:12 3-5 and the mile in 1:39 2-5. He covered the mile and a sixteenth in 1:43¾, very fast time.

Albie Booth Back in Yale Uniform After 5 Months

New Haven, Conn., May 10.—(AP)—Albie Booth returned to Yale athletic competition today after five months' inactivity because of a lung infection, taking his old place as shortstop on the Eli baseball team in its game against Rikkio university of Japan. Booth, who was given permission to play after a physical examination, was greeted with a cheer by the surprised spectators when he came on the diamond.

Benge Limits Slugger to One Single.

Cincinnati, O., May 10.—[Special.]—The Cincinnati Reds' winning streak was halted at five straight today when Ray Benge of the Phillies held them to five hits and shut them out, 4 to 0. Chick Hafey was the only Red to connect for more than one base. He turned a hit into a double by some fast running to beat the throw to second by inches.

The chief reason for Benge's success was the fact that he checked the bat of big Ernest Lombardi, Cincinnati catcher, a feat no opposing pitcher has been able to do for the last five days. After breaking up several games with doubles, triples, and home runs, Lombardi could get only one single today and that came with the bases empty and two out.

Philadelphia clinched the decision with a two run spurt in the third inning. Harry McCurdy singled and took second as Ray Kolp took Mallon's grounder and threw to second for an attempted forceout. The play would have been a success except for the fact that Morrisey failed to cover and the ball traveled into the outfield. Bartell singled to center and was forced at second, McCurdy scoring on the play.

Lombardi's day became a complete failure when one of Kolp's pitches eluded him for a passed ball, permitting Mallon to speed home with the second run. Both clubs played errorless ball. Score:

IOWA CAPTAIN, 3 OTHERS DROPPED FROM BALL TEAM

Iowa City, Ia., May 10.—[Special.]—Capt. Elmo Nelson, catcher, and three other University of Iowa baseball players were dropped from the squad today by Coach Otto Vogel. The other athletes are Wesley Fiala, regular right fielder; Leo Frigo of Chicago, utility outfielder and a major letter veteran, and Edgar Groepper, utility infielder.

Frank Drager, Monroe Center, Ill., shortstop, was suspended indefinitely. Coach Vogel refused to say whether he will be permitted to play in the two game series against Wisconsin Friday and Saturday.

It is understood that the four players were dropped for violation of training rules.

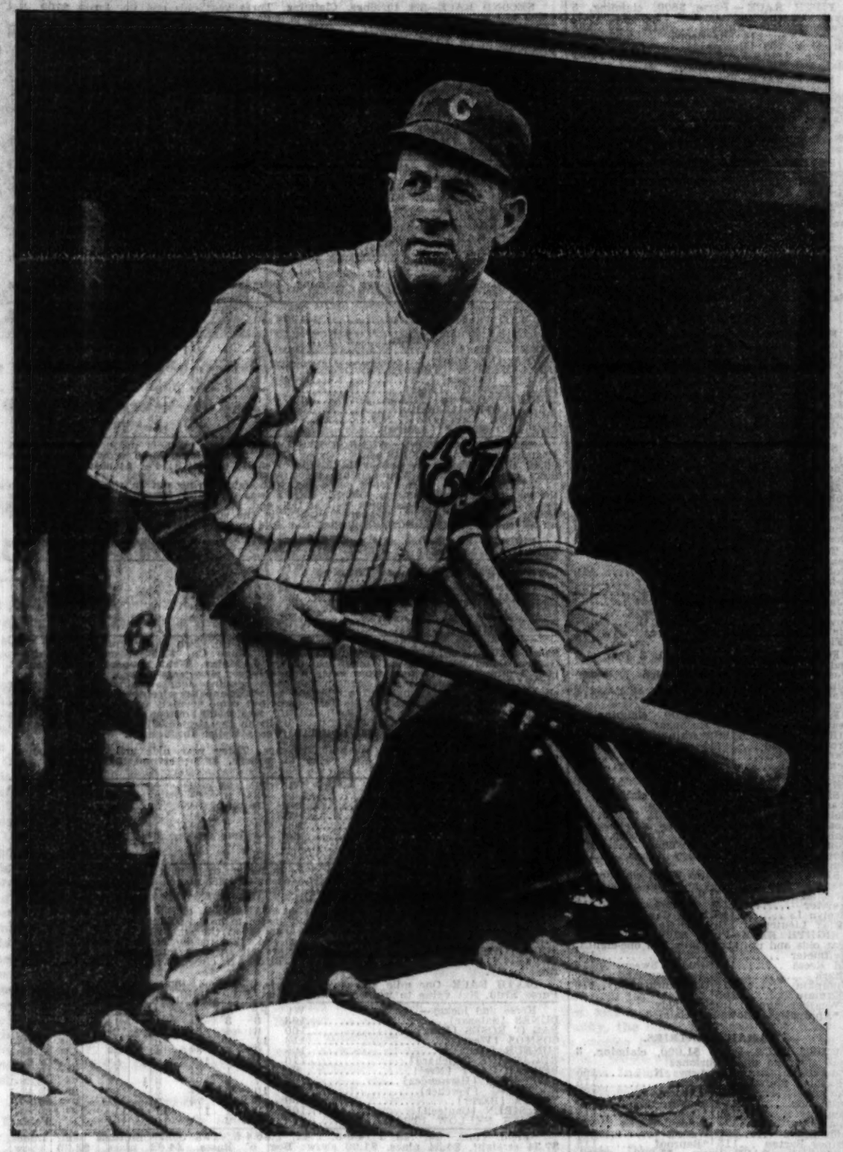
SURE ENOUGH, HE PICKS RIGHT ONE



Charley Grimm deliberates in the Cubs' dugout, trying to decide which bat he'll use in the second inning. He picks the right one. A few minutes later he smashed a single off Pitcher Gibson's leg and two runs followed. Charley, with another single, also figured in the five run explosion in the fourth inning.

How I Got My Start in Baseball

[As told to Irving Vaughan.]

There was no high school or college baseball to give me my start. I had to grow up on a corner lot. The idea of making a living at the game never entered my head. I simply liked to play. Once in it, however, I just drifted along.

JOHNNY MOORE.

The corner lot career was followed by the usual step to a semi-pro team. That was in 1924 in my home town of Waterville, Conn. At the time I thought I was a first baseman, but the idea didn't last more than a couple of seasons. I played that position with a factory team in 1925 at Bristol, Conn.

During 1925 Neal Ball, the man who made an unassisted triple play while with the Cleveland club, called at Bristol with the idea of looking for suitable material for the New Haven, Conn., Eastern league team. I went to New Haven for the last two weeks of that season and Clyde Milan, the manager, promptly dropped me into an outfield berth.

When the 1926 season got under way the New Haven club decided I wasn't quite ripe for that company, so passed me along to Waterbury. Inside another year I was back at New Haven and at the end of the 1927 season was purchased either by the Cubs or by Reading, which the Cubs owned. Anyway, I went to work for Reading in 1928 and then was promoted to the Cubs.

Hockey Heads Adopt $7,500 Salary Limit

New York, May 10.—(AP)—The National Hockey league voted at its semi-annual meeting today to enforce hereafter a salary limit of $70,000 for each of the eight clubs and an individual limit of $7,500.

Some of the stars, President Frank Calder explained, have been drawing as high as $11,000 a season. Traveling and other expenses also will be held to a minimum next year, Calder said.

In drawing up next season's schedule, the hockey officials will not consult the rinks in the various cities on available dates, as in the past. The playing dates will be assigned and it will be up to the rinks to make their open dates conform.

No players were drafted from the minor leagues and no changes made in the rules.

Total attendance in the eight cities was 1,627,702, a decrease of more than 100,000 from the 1931 season, Calder said. Boston led with 295,548 paid admissions.

A. Pfleiderer was appointed to succeed Charles A. Hughes as the Detroit member of the board of governors. All other members were reelected.

Western Amateur Date Is Moved Up to Aug. 22

Rockford, Ill., May 10.—[Special.]—The Western amateur golf championship tournament will start on Aug. 22 instead of Aug. 29, it was announced today. The change in the dates was made to avoid conflict with the Walker cup tournament.

It's Root Against Fitzsimmons for Giant Farewell

Charley Root, who lost his last start to the Dodgers, 2 to 1, because of errors, will be elected to tackle the Giants in the last of the abbreviated series today. Freddy Fitzsimmons, the California poultry raiser, probably will be Mr. McGraw's pitcher.

When Burleigh Grimes walked from the mound to the dugout in the second inning of Sunday's game it was as much through error as a desire to get a fresh mouthful of slippery elm. Capt. Grimm called for time and Grimes accepted this as a sign that he was through. When he reached the bench Hornsby asked what was wrong. Grimes replied that Grimm had waved him out. When told that Grimm was merely trying to give him a breathing spell Grimes grabbed his slippery elm and trotted back to work.

Mr. James Francis Hogan, Giants' backstop, is having trouble keeping his weight below the 250 pound mark. He is dieting on slabs of well buttered bread, creamed potatoes, pie, ice cream, and cream puffs and plenty of them. McGraw keeps track of the boy's feeding by scanning the dining room checks, but the espionage system doesn't discourage the portly Francis.

The cold weather didn't discourage the women holding free tickets. There were 5,000 of them present. They were augmented by about 7,500 paying customers.

The infielders took care of all except 6 of the Giants' 27 putouts. Thirteen of them went into the hands of the agile Grimm, who also contributed 2 assists.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Giants, like the Reds, Cardinals, and Pirates, now are enrolled as full fledged members of the club being organized by Lon Warneke, the Arkansas pitching phenom. The New Yorkers joined up yesterday almost without protest and to make sure Warneke's fifth straight triumph would be properly garnished the Cubs put on a hitting and fielding exhibition which bowled over their ancient enemy, 9 to 2. It was the fourth in a row for the first place tenants.

Warneke, with allowance for the aid given him by his infielders, fast balled and curved his foes down to five hits. He started off at such a dizzy pace that three of the first four men to face him struck out. He didn't surrender a hit until the fifth, when two of them followed a walk and gave New York a run. The next Giant hit didn't appear until the eighth. Then a pair of safeties occurred in the ninth to furnish another New York run and make Warneke's record for the season nine tallies in 48 innings of pitching.

Steal Hits from Giants.

Here are just a few of the hair raisers with which Warneke was helped on his way: English stole a hit from Vergez by a stop far back of third base. Herman with a one handed running stop, and Grimm with one of his rubbery, falling catches of the throw caused Koenecke some disappointment. The same batter suffered later on another sensation in which Grimm featured. Another theft was perpetrated on Ott by Jurges' pickup and throw on a slow bounder. And there were a few other worthy defensive deeds, notably two double plays perpetrated just when the Giants thought they were cooking up some runs for themselves.

In his anxiety to get his men started out of their uncomfortable second division berth, Mr. McGraw elected Sam Gibson for his starting pitcher. The Cubs dusted him off in a hurry, causing McGraw to wish he had back the $17,500 he gave to San Francisco for the tall right hander. Gibson took one jolt in the second, two runs scoring. He took another in the fourth and was hurriedly banished when Warneke added a triple to a series of singles by Stephenson, Hemsley, and Grimm. Five runs were across the plate before rescuer Hal Schumacher could induce the Cubs to quiet down. They broke out only once after this, that being in the sixth when Richbourg, Herman, and English collaborated.

Jurges' Hit Scores Two.

As soon as the second inning opened Mr. McGraw had reason to remember that $17,500 he paid for Gibson. Moore was given a pass. A pop foul eliminated Stephenson, but Hemsley survived on Critz's muff of a short fly which the wind carried. Grimm resorted to violence by almost knocking a leg off Gibson with a drive which caromed off toward third. This filled the bases. Jurges drove two of the waiters home by doubling to left. That was all the excitement for a few minutes.

The heavy firing in the satisfactory fourth opened with Stephenson's one base drive to left. Hemsley bunted, but before the large Mr. Hogan could bend down, turn around and throw, Hemsley was across first base. Grimm singled to right, Stephenson scoring, and when Ott threw wild to the plate, Grimm strolled down to second. Ott made a lucky one-handed stab of Jurges' liner and Hemsley registered after the catch. Warneke then tossed an insult at Gibson in the shape of a three-bagger to left center, Grimm scoring.

Work Squeeze Play.

Schumacher appeared at this point and by way of variety Richbourg flashed the squeeze play sign to Warneke, who started for the plate with the pitch. Richbourg did his share by bunting perfectly. He was thrown out, but Warneke counted. Herman coaxed a pass from Schu-

OLD MARES STILL CAN STEP; FIGHT IT OUT FOR PURSE

Sweep Net Beats Bernice Van at Sportsman's Park.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Six horses went to the post in the Lake Forest purse, the feature race at Sportsman's Park yesterday, but half way through the backstretch two old mares, Sweep Net and Bernice Van, decided to take it over for themselves. By the time they began the run for home, the rest of the field might as well have dropped out.

Bernice Van, second choice in the betting, dashed out in front as if she were going to stay there for the entire mile and 70 yards. She had Southland Belle and Miss Peggy for company the first time around the half mile oval, while Jockey Mel Knight was holding Sweep Net in fourth place. He gave her the word in the middle of the back stretch, and she ran over Southland Belle and Miss Peggy before they knew what had happened. She was on Bernice Van's heels in no time, but that lady was not to be headed yet.

Eight Lengths in Front.

They began such a sprinting duel on the turn that by the time they entered the stretch they were eight lengths ahead of the rest of the field. Mickey Harrison was holding Bernice Van's head in front but half way to the judges' stand, Knight gave Sweep Net a couple of taps with his whip and she moved on past Bernice Van as if the latter were standing still. Sweep Net had been made a slight favorite over Bernice Van and paid $6.14 in the mutuels. Bernice Van was at $2.92 to place, while Broad A, which came up for the show, paid $5.04.

George Collins' gelding Thistle Dee, which had failed in two previous efforts at Sportsman's Park, finally rewarded his followers in the fourth event, in which he lasted just long enough to nose out Martha Long, holder of the track record at the distance, a mile and a sixteenth. West Point finished third. Jockey Dye took Thistle Dee to the front as soon as they left the barrier and kept him there all the way, although Martha Long probably would have caught him in another ten yards. He paid $6.46 to win in the $2 mutuels.

Nardo, Orkin Finally Win.

Nardo and Orkin, both of which have been on the Cicero premises since the opening of the meeting, also entered the winners' circle. Nardo won the first, a maiden race for three year olds, by a neck from Princella with Red Note third. He returned $15.88 to his $2 followers. Orkin, ridden by McLaren, took the second from Flying Ambassador and Hypoluxo, the latter making his second appearance as a favorite in two days. Orkin brought his followers $12.84.

The bettors couldn't seem to make up their minds about choosing a favorite in the third, for five horses, Polly's Folly, Solus, Martha Mae, Ada Epinard and Take Off, went to the post at odds of approximately 4 to 1 each. Polly's Folly already had her mind made up and when they came into the stretch she was two lengths in front of Martha Mae. Solus took the show money. Polly's Folly paid $10.12 to win.

Bracken Rides Winner.

Jockey H. Bracken fooled the fans when he brought H. C. Rumage's Preferred home in the five furlong sixth. Bracken, an apprentice who has done very little riding, is a stranger to the winner's circle, but he made no mistake about booting Preferred into it. The winner paid $15.82. Itso took the place, while Jalpur, a leader in the early running, came in third.

Green Knight rode his second winner of the day in the seventh when he sent Little Coventry to the front after Satin Spinner, well played, had set the pace the first time around. Greenwald followed up second and Satin Spinner was third. Little Coventry paid $14.38 in the $2 mutuels.

FOUR WILDCAT TEAMS IN ACTION THIS WEEK-END

The baseball team meets Illinois at Roycemore field Saturday. The game is the second of a two game series, the first of which the Wildcats won, 8 to 5.

Coach Paul Stewart probably will send Lefty Harris against the Illini again. Harris lost, 5 to 2, to Minnesota last week, but the defeat was due principally to spotty hitting and fielding behind him.

Other contests scheduled for Saturday include a tennis match with Minnesota at Evanston, a golf match with Iowa at Iowa City, and the triangular track meet at the Midway against Chicago and Wisconsin.

BURGOO KING IN PREAKNESS SURE, BARRING MISHAP

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—Burgoo King, winner of the Kentucky Derby, is being groomed for the Preakness next Saturday, it developed today. Formal entry will depend on the colt's owner, Col. E. R. Bradley, but Trainer Dick Thompson said there was little doubt that "we'll be in on the Preakness."

The horse was put through a light gallop at Belmont Park today, and Thompson said there would be another round of such exercise tomorrow preliminary to the proposed trip to Pimlico.

Burgoo King appeared in fine condition, and Thompson said he thought nothing short of an accident would keep him out of the Preakness.

ALAMAE went to the front early and, although bearing out in the stretch, led to the end to win under urging. GYPSY CHIEF was never far from the pace and, saving ground in the stretch, was going well at the end. KNOCKABOUT was a forward contender from the start, but weakened slightly in the run home. LENNY also raced well up in the way. MRS. FOSTER trailed the FIELD most of the way.

FOURTH RACE—One mile and seventy yards. Three year olds and up. Claiming. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $675; second, $125; third, $75; fourth, $25.

Winner trained by J. Dolan. Went to post at 3:45¼. At post 4 minutes. Start good from gate. Won driving; place same.

WAR SAINT took a good lead in the early running and, showing the way under slight restraint, had enough left in the end to withstand the closing rush of COME ON. Latter raced wide around the final turn, but came strongly in the stretch and was wearing the winner down. GENERAL COURT was badly outrun to the stretch, then made up much ground. DARK AYR tired badly in the stretch. JEANNE WACHS eased up and badly beaten in the last furlong. Titus was a trailer throughout.

SUPREME SWEET, pulled the pace of CAPACITY closely to the stretch, then forged to the front and, under hard riding, lasted to hold PORTMANTEAU. Latter came fast through the stretch and was gaining rapidly at the end. BLUE DAY was running evenly in the stretch, but was not threatening. CAPACITY and SUPREME SWEET and was in close quarters all through most of the final furlong. CAPACITY tired in the last eighth. PAUL BUNYAN closed with a rush. HOT SHOT tired badly.

BAG O' ROSES saved all possible ground under good handling and made several attempts to get through on the inside of the winner, but was run out good enough. COSMOS closed fast. SUNEUR made a brief bid in the stretch, but weakened near the end. SEA SIREN, RUGARTINE, and SANTERNO were off slowly. BEGGAR LADY and SOOTHING tired.

CESARE was taken back rounding the first turn and, raining steadily after going a half mile, finished fast to win going away. WOODGAIN was close to the pace all the way and bested LAURIE in the final drive. LAURIE weakened in the run home. MOZART, weakly handled, was all over the track and finished fast on his own course. MURMURING PINES tired in the run home. EBONY PRINCE stopped badly. SOLICITOR raced very wide on the back stretch.

Rhyne Gets Only Two Safeties Off Vic.

Boston, Mass., May 10.—[Special.]—The Detroit Tigers made 14 hits off three Red Sox pitchers today while Vic Sorrell tossed a two hit game to win the series opener, 11 to 0. Hal Rhyne, Red Sox shortstop, annexed the only hits off Sorrell and spoiled his chances for a no hit game. The Detroit attack was led by Bill Rogell, formerly of the Red Sox, who collected four hits out of five times at bat and scored four runs.

YANKEES WHIP BROWNS, 10-3.

New York, May 10.—(AP)—The wildness of two St. Louis pitchers, Irving [Bump] Hadley and Walter Stewart, combined with a few timely hits, a couple of errors, and good mound work by Southpaw Vernon Gomes enabled the Yankees to defeat the Browns, 10 to 3, today in the delayed series opener.

Between them, Hadley and Stewart gave 11 walks and literally tossed away the game. In the 6th inning after the Browns had gained a 3 to 3 tie, Hadley walked in a run that might have been the deciding one. In the next frame the two pitchers gave five passes, three of which forced runs across the plate in the Yanks' six run rally.

Gomez, winning his fourth victory of the season, came close to a shutout and might have had it but for some weak fielding by Tony Lazzeri in the fifth. Lazzeri made up for a misplay by driving two doubles and two singles in five times at bat and knocking in two runs.

Harrison Nine RoutsM'Kinley for Fifth Win

Harrison Tech, one of the qualifiers for the semi-finals of the Chicago Public High School league baseball championship series, scored its fifth victory of the season yesterday by defeating McKinley, 9 to 0, at McKinley park. Lefty Lesniak of Harrison allowed only four hits.

Four errors paved the way for the Harrison victory. Leroy Haynes, McKinley's pitcher, yielded only six hits. It was McKinley's fifth consecutive defeat.

Englewood and Parker were victors in other league games yesterday. Englewood won from Hyde Park, 8 to 4, at Jackson park, while Parker triumphed over Fenger, 10 to 9, at Hamilton park.

Seven games today will end the regular sectional schedules for the season, but there probably will be several contests, postponed because of rain, played on Friday. The semi-final round play will begin next week.

Morton defeated Proviso, 6 to 0, at Cicero in a Suburban league game. It was Morton's third straight triumph. Evanston handed Deerfield a 10 to 7 setback in another league game at Evanston's field. The scores:

'SHE BROKE IT UP,' SAYS BERLENBACH IN GIRL'S SUIT

New York, May 10.—[Special.]—When Paul Berlenbach, former light heavyweight champion, wrote Claire Feidner, attractive Astoria, Long Island, woman, he was her "loving hotsy totsy" he meant it. He became engaged to her, and meant that. He testified to it today before Supreme Court Justice Alfred V. Norton in defending himself against Miss Feidner's breach of promise suit for $50,000.

She just wasn't willing to wait, he said. He owed a note for $10,000 which he wanted to pay before taking a wife.

"She came to my apartment with her sister and demanded that I set a wedding day," he testified. "I told her I needed more time to pay off the note. Her sister said that if I did not set a date I would have to suffer the consequences. I tilted Claire's head back until she looked at me and asked her if she really meant that, after all these years, and she said yes, that it had to be settled. So I said I'd have to suffer the consequences then."

Canzoneri and Dublinsky Box on West Side June 16

Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, and Harry Dublinsky of Chicago were signed yesterday to meet at the West Side Boxing club, 21st street and Kostner avenue, June 16. The match was made by Al Miller for ten rounds at 136 pounds, one pound over the title limit.

Canzoneri is in New York, where he and his manager, Sammy Goldman, will open a haberdashery store, the Kronheim Continental, Inc., at 1450 Broadway, on Friday. The champion then will resume training for a non-title bout with Bat Gizzy at Pittsburgh May 23. He will do no other fighting until he meets Dublinsky.

Although Sidney Strotz, president of the Chicago Stadium, is secretary and treasurer of the newly incorporated West Side club, and Joe Triner, a director of the Stadium, is president, they have denied that the new organization is connected with the Chicago Stadium.

George Trafton, proprietor of the gymnasium at 180 West Randolph street, said yesterday that Bat Battalino will start training at his gymnasium Friday or Saturday for his bout against Billy Petrolle of Duluth, Minn., at the Chicago Stadium one week from Friday. Sammy Levine, west side featherweight, will seek to avenge a defeat by Paul Dazzo when they meet in a six round supporing bout. Levine, Golden Gloves flyweight runner-up in 1929, has lost only two matches in thirty-seven professional bouts.

Joe Merhar, Butte, Mont., heavyweight, had an X-ray picture taken of his left arm yesterday. It was injured in the third round against Pete Wistort Monday. The accident may keep him out of the ring for several weeks. The injury is an old one. Almost two years ago, Merhar had twenty-six bone chips removed from the arm after a match against Babe Hunt of Ponca City, Okla., at Wichita, Kas.

Jack Kilbourne, South Chicago middleweight, will headline the show at White City next Monday, Mique Malloy has announced. . . . His opponent will be picked today. . . . Jack Roper and Andy Kellett were matched last night for a ten rounder at Terre Haute, Ind., June 6. . . . King Tut boxed with Solly Dukelsky at the Arcade gymnasium yesterday and then left for New York where he fights Morris Sherman of Detroit ten rounds Friday.

Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, returns tomorrow morning from West Baden, Ind., where he has been resting since Sunday. . . . Watch Renwick, Big Ten! He's Dash Man with 9.8 Mark

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Perhaps it's just as well for nine of the Big Ten universities, that the shortest sprint in the outdoor track meet, which will be held at Northwestern May 20 and 21, is 100 yards. If there was a 60 yard sprint, for instance, it would be mighty difficult to keep Michigan from taking that title.

DON RENWICK.

Michigan lost Eddie Tolan by graduation last year, and Tolan, as you know, holds the accepted world's record for 100 yards. But this year the Wolverines popped back with another star sprinter, Don Renwick of Grand Rapids, Mich., who won the 60 yard dash in the Big Ten indoor meet and has been timed in 9 8-10 seconds for the 100 yards outdoors.

Renwick has speed, lots of it, but he has difficulty keeping up the pace much beyond 70 yards. He's rather frail, and might be called runty. Certainly he doesn't have the physique of a Simpson or a Tolan.

Runs in World Record Time.

But indoors, Renwick's a streak. He won the 60 yard championship last February in the world record time of 6 2-10 seconds, which mark also represents the conference record. Quite a few have equaled this mark, but for a score of years 6 2-10 seconds has represented perfection.

Hal Thompton of Minnesota gave Renwick a great race for the indoor title, but Renwick got away more rapidly [he usually does] and while Thompton was coming at the finish, he was second by inches.

Other indoor achievements of Renwick were a 7 2-10 seconds race for 70 yards at the West Virginia relays and a 7 5-10 seconds dash for 75 yards at Cornell.

Unfortunatly, this is Renwick's first and last year of competition in the Big Ten. Born in Seattle in 1910, Renwick soon came to Michigan, living, respectively, at Mount Pleasant, Detroit, Grand Rapids. This last stop, where Don completed his high school education, also included two years at the local junior college. Finishing there, Renwick matriculated at Michigan in the egineering college. Last year because of the transfer rule, Renwick could not take part in athletics although he was a junior in the university, and this spring, his first in competition, is his last at Ann Arbor.

Has Improved Steadily.

Renwick's career has shown steady improvement. Track didn't amount to much until his last year in high school. In the Michigan State High school meet Renwick finished fourth in both the low hurdles and the 100 yard dash. Then while attending junior college Renwick cut his time for the 100 yards to 10 1-0 seconds. Last year, at Michigan, he was down to 10 seconds. And now, only last Saturday, Renwick was timed in 9 8-10 seconds in the Michigan-Illinois track meet.

If Renwick is that fast in the conference meet he's going to make Thompton and Bennett of Ohio State step out if they expect to outdistance him.

macher, stole second and continued to third on Hogan's inaccurate throw. He scored the fifth and last run of the inning when English singled to right.

The Giants' entry into the scoring ranks in the fifth started with a pass to Ott. Jackson then broke Warneke's string of hitless innings by clubbing a line two bagger to the fence in right center, Ott scoring. English staged one of his snappy pickups to waylay Verges, but Hogan dribbled a hit over second. Jurges knocked it down behind the bag and held Jackson at third. Schumacher then grounded to English and a double play by way of second base was completed.

Two More Cub Runs.

Two were out in the Cub sixth before they revealed a plot to score two more runs. Richbourg gave the signal by blasting a two bagger to right center. Herman assisted with a single to left and as Koenecke, the Giants' high priced recruit, doesn't throw very well, Richbourg didn't hesitate about going home. The throw to get him wasn't even close. English lined over first base and Ott did a Hack Wilson dive into the soft turf. The ball hopped to the fence, English hopped to third, and Herman scored. Moore's grounder to Critz closed the flurry.

The Giants' second attempt of the afternoon to get tough with Warneke came in the eighth. Verges led off with a single to deep short and the cumbersome Hogan wasn't able to get his large frame out of the path of a wide pitch. This entitled him to base. Leslie was hustled forth to bat for Schumacher and sailed a fly into Stephenson's hands. Critz then bounced to Jurges and another one of those lightning double plays cleaned up the situation.

The first two Giants in the ninth were set down, one because of Grimm's bare handed grab of a grounder behind first. Terry followed with a single to right and ran home on Ott's double to the bleacher in left. Jackson then flied to Richbourg and the party broke up.

MICHIGAN MEETS OHIO FIVE TIMES OVER WEEK-END

Columbus, O., May 10.—[Special.]—Michigan and Ohio State athletic teams will meet this week-end in five contests. The Michigan track and golf teams play here, while the tennis and baseball teams meet at Ann Arbor.

The outstanding competition will be the dual track meet Saturday. Ohio State, which finished second to Indiana in the annual Big Ten indoor meet, now is better fortified, especially with the addition of sprinter Don Bennett.

The undefeated Ohio golf team will meet Michigan at the Wyandotte Golf club Saturday. The baseball team will be playing the present conference leader, the Wolverines being undefeated in two Big Ten games. Games are to be played on Friday and Saturday.

Riding Club Ends Indoor Polo Season with Win, 9-8

The indoor polo season was closed last night with the Chicago Riding club team defeating the Rovers 9 to 8 at the Chicago Riding club. The winning trio was composed of John Bowers, No. 1; Capt. Maxwell Corpening, No. 2, and Leonard Florsheim, No. 3. Corpening scored seven goals. Prentiss Porter, No. 2 for the Rovers, made five.

Thomas to Pitch Mack Final Today; Sox at N. Y. Next

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 10.—The Athletics and White Sox will play the second and final game of their series tomorrow, after which the Chicagoans will move on to New York. Thomas is scheduled to pitch against Mahaffey in tomorrow's affair.

Carey Selph hadn't missed an inning up till today. He was out this afternoon because his trick knee was acting up as a result of a twist suffered in the last inning of the Washington final.

Sam Jones, losing pitcher today, gave Grove the first of his four 1931 defeats. Lew Fonseca, who gave Grove defeat No. 2 with an extra inning homer, was present, but didn't even try to knock another homer.

It was another overcoat day here. Things were made more shivery than ever for the Sox because of 91 degree temperature they enjoyed in Washington.

No moth eaten world championship flags were in evidence here. But the 1931 American league pennant, raised last Saturday, waved proudly in a stiff wind.

Casters Battle for National Title Tonight

Five Chicago casting clubs will take part tonight in the national indoor fishermen's contest at the outdoor show at the Coliseum. The contest is open to any one, rules calling for a twelve pound test line and five-eighths ounce plug.

Capt. P. S. Gilbertson will be in charge of the casting. F. J. Lane, assistant superintendent of schools, will be announcer.

Among those who will take part in the contest is Charles Zeisler of the Lincoln Park Casting club, who will defend the title of all-around baitcasting champion of the United States, won at a similar contest at the outdoor show three years ago.

According to fishing experts, the rules for equipment will make the contest a real fishermen's event rather than a tournament for experts.

The clubs whose members will enter the contest are Lincoln Park, Illinois, Chicago Fly, Ogden Park, and California Park. The Northwest club recently was merged with the last named.

Between demonstrations the young campers try their hands at bait casting and archery; make friends with Teddy, the black bear cub, and listen to stories told by Chief De Caro and Chief Go-ge-we-osh of the group of Ojibwa Indians which is staging war dances and ceremonials at the show.

Log rolling contests are on the afternoon and evening programs. Billy Gerard, world's champion roller; George Glazier, former champion, and Agnes Hare, 18 year old high school girl, are competing.

SPRING'S FASHION PARADE OF BIRDS OUTDOES US ALL

BY BOB BECKER.

When the warm sunlight of a spring day has lured one into the woods and he finds the combination of a scarlet tanager [like a bird of paradise with his vivid scarlet and black plumage] and two Baltimore orioles within a few feet of each other the day can go down as memorable. The clash of colors in these birds is striking.

When we were hunting with our binoculars a few days ago in the woods along Lake Michigan, some 32 miles north of Chicago, we were fortunate enough to get the tanager and the orioles in the same picture. As if to complete this dazzling spring display of color a bluejay flashed his blue while on the ground just a few feet away. He was busy turning over the dead leaves and didn't see us.

Tanager Illuminates Forest.

When one is out to watch birds, especially at this time of the year, there are certain experiences, certain species of warblers, or certain songs which stand out. The sight of a scarlet tanager comes in this list of memorable experiences. With his bright scarlet body and black wings and tail the tanager fairly illuminates the forest. The other day the male bird we saw was perched about 12 feet above the ground in a tree that showed the first cool, pale green flush of spring. Against this background the brilliant scarlet of the tanager stood out like a bright flame. When a pair of quarrelsome Baltimore orioles dashed across our front and stopped within a few feet of the tanager spring had given us the final dash of color.

The scarlet tanager comes to us from South America. It winters from Colombia southward into Peru. During the nesting season the birds may choose a home from Manitoba and Saskatchewan down through the central states into Tennessee or Georgia and the mountains of Virginia.

Finds Graceful Ovenbird.

On our hike the other day we noted cat birds, black and white warblers, brown thrashers, white throated sparrows and other species but as soon as out attention was caught by a bird fussing around the base of an old stump the glasses revealed a migrant we had wanted to find. This quiet, shy bird with an olive green back was an ovenbird whose graceful movements were a joy to watch.

It was easy to identify the ovenbird [yes, it makes a roofed nest in the manner of an old fashion oven] by the broad stripe of yellowish brown feathers running from the bill to the back of the head. It is margined by a stripe of black.

MAROONS START INTENSIVE WEEK WITH IRISH TODAY

Maroon teams, which have engaged in five contests since last Saturday, continue on the busy schedule for the remainder of the week, with the tennis team meeting Notre Dame on the Midway this afternoon and the golf, track, and baseball teams facing week-end engagements.

The Chicago golf team plays De Paul at Olympia Fields Friday afternoon and the baseball team goes to Minnesota for a two game series on Friday and Saturday.

J. W. SCOTT WILL GIVES MILLION TO 2 DAUGHTERS

Loop Merchant Leaves $25,000 to Charity.

The late John W. Scott, vice president of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., left the major portion of his $1,150,000 estate in trust to his two daughters, it was disclosed yesterday when his will was admitted to probate by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Horner. Mr. Scott also provided an annuity for his mother, Mrs. Harriet Emma Scott of Pasadena, Cal., who also was bequeathed $25,000. The amount of the annuity was not revealed.

The trust, which amounts almost to $1,000,000, according to Mr. Scott's brothers, Robert L. Scott of 144 Greenwood boulevard, Evanston, and Frederick H. Scott of Hubbard Woods, the trustees, was created after a number of specific bequests were designated in the will.

$100 a Month for Cousin.

Also from this source Miss Isabella Hossack, a cousin who resides with Mrs. Scott, will receive $100 a month during the remainder of Mrs. Scott's life. After her death Miss Hossack will receive $250 a month.

The remaining income, according to the will, is to be divided by Mr. Scott's daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Scott Welles of 321 Ahwahnee road, Lake Forest, and Mrs. Barbara Scott Welles, 361 Ahwahnee road, Lake Forest. They will divide the principal after Miss Hossack's death.

The trustees were given $50,000 each, and Mr. Scott's sons-in-law, Edward Kenneth Welles, whose wife is Elizabeth, and Donald Phelps Welles, whose wife is Barbara, each was willed $25,000. Six grandchildren were given $10,000 each. They are Edward K. Welles Jr., 7 years old; John W. S. Welles, 5 years old, and David Keith Welles, 3 years old, children of Mrs. Elizabeth Welles; and Donald Phelps Welles Jr., 5 years old; Robert Cluett Welles, 3 years old, and Fred Lawrence Welles, 2 months old, sons of Mrs. Barbara Welles.

Hospital Given $25,000.

The only charitable bequest was to the Presbyterian hospital, which was given $25,000. Mr. Scott's godson, John Elting, 20 year old son of Attorney Victor Elting, who filed the will and for many years was Mr. Scott's personal counsel, was given $500.

Mr. Scott was 62 years old when he died last Wednesday at his home, 153 Sheridan road, Glencoe. He had been under a physician's care for several weeks prior to his death. Mr. Scott was a native Chicagoan, and succeeded to the business of which his father was a co-founder. He was a widower, Mrs. Scott having died in October, 1930.

GOVERNOR RETIRES AS MRS. CARAWAY'S ARKANSAS OPPONENT

Little Rock, Ark., May 10.—(AP)—Gov. Harvey Parnell, faced with the opposition of Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway in his desire to succeed her in the United States senate, today announced his retirement from politics at the end of his present term.

His decision left Mrs. Caraway, whom he appointed last November to succeed her husband, the late Senator T. H. Caraway, to battle it out with six other candidates for the Democratic nomination. The entry list for the Aug. 9 primary, in which nominations are equivalent to election, closed tonight.

In announcing his plans to retire next January Gov. Parnell gave financial reasons. He has been governor since 1927. This afternoon he held conferences with political advisers, and it is generally believed Mrs. Caraway's surprise announcement last night influenced his action.

Gov. Parnell appointed Mrs. Caraway pending a special election. Later he supported her before the Democratic state central committee for the nomination for the unexpired term.

CHAUFFEUR TRIES TO END LIFE IN EX-WIFE'S CABIN

He was found unconscious on the floor of the cabin late Monday night, the gas jets open and his dog by his side. A note he had written said: "This is no reflection on my ex-wife. She was the best pal I ever had, but I did not appreciate her." A second note outlined the disposal of $500 war insurance.

Police said that Mrs. Koenig was the wife of Herman Koenig, Chicago furniture dealer, until his death in 1916. She then married Stencel, who was the family chauffeur, and divorced him nine year later. He was allowed to retain his position as chauffeur following the divorce, police said, but after working a short time departed. He returned lately and went to visit Mrs. Koenig, who employed him on part time jobs.

THUNDERCLOUDS TOLD TO GATHER AND ARBITRATE

Chief Lorenzo Thundercloud, 2504 West Huron street, appeared yesterday before Judge Joseph A. Graber in the domestic relations court. His wife, Marie, insisted that the chief arrived home intoxicated, executed a war dance and cast the family alarm clock in her direction.

"I wouldn't act that way," the chief said. "I'm a duly ordained minister of the Presbyterian church, educated at Carlisle college."

Mrs. Thundercloud urged that a charge of non-support be lodged against her husband. He said the law entitled him, as an Indian to be tried in the federal court. Judge Graber told the Thundercloud to gather in his court May 25 if arbitration fails.

10 CHICAGOANS HURT AS TRUCK UPSETS IN DITCH

Hinsdale Resident Is Killed in Collision.

Ten Chicagoans were injured yesterday when the motor truck in which they were riding overturned in a ditch on U. S. highway No. 12, near Bridgman, Mich. Clarence Bondstra, 10624 Wentworth avenue, was the driver. His son, Clarence Jr., 5 years old, who was the most seriously hurt, sustained severe lacerations about the head.

Bondstra, with his wife and son and seven other men and women, left Chicago last Monday to tour southwestern Michigan, the blossom country, which now is in full bloom.

Collides with Truck; Killed.

Warren A. Laubenstein, 43 years old, 51 4th street, Hinsdale, was killed last night when his sedan collided headon with a Commonwealth Edison electric truck at Archer avenue and Richmond street. The sedan was demolished.

Several witnesses told police Laubenstein's automobile was moving rapidly in Richmond street. When he turned southwest into Archer avenue the car swung to the left traffic lane and struck the truck, witnesses said. The truck driver, Harold Hardyman, 5520 Quincy street, was held for the inquest.

Death Toll for Year 387.

This death and two others in Cook county yesterday increased the auto toll since Jan. 1 to 387. The other victims:

S. J. Clark, 83 years old, 6106 Princeton avenue. Killed when he was run down at 59th street and Jackson Park drive by the car of Mervin W. Booth, 6945 Cornell avenue. Booth was not held.

Annuncio Cocomate, 9 years old, 2850 West Chicago avenue, asked James Quinlivan, a driver for an afternoon newspaper, for a ride yesterday when Quinlivan stopped at California and Chicago avenues. Backing to pick up the boy, Quinlivan's truck knocked him down and ran over him. The boy died at the Norwegian Deaconess hospital. The driver was not held.

Bruno Zaborski, 20 years old, of Stickney, was killed, and Rudolph Krenik, 18, also of Stickney, was injured when their coupé sideswiped a stalled sheep truck in Roosevelt road, one-half mile west of Wheaton, last night. Ralph Gilbert of Franklin Grove, Ill., the truck driver, tried to flag the coupé to one side with a flashlight, but was unsuccessful, and had to leap away to avoid being hit. The tail light of the truck was burning.

Dorothy Stiles, 4 years old, 804 Elmwood avenue, Wilmette, was seriously injured last night when she was struck by an automobile at Lake and Wilmette avenues, Wilmette. Victor Joyce, 15 years old, 1011 Chestnut avenue, Wilmette, was the driver. The child was taken to the Evanston hospital, where it was said she appeared to have suffered a skull fracture

RADIO RESEARCH COST $9,600,000, SAYS A.T.&T. CHIEF

From 1923 to 1931 the Bell Telephone laboratories expended $9,600,000 for radio research, 90 per cent of which was charged up to the American Telephone and Telegraph company and related companies, according to testimony yesterday at the hearing on telephone rates before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

Dr. Frank B. Jewett, president of the laboratories and the vice president in charge of such research, testified that the telephone company discovered that its growth and possibly its very existence was tied up in outside patents. Developments of outside patents, he said, might jeopardize the entire telephone industry. As a result of this condition, he said, it was necessary for the telephone company to concentrate on radio and telephone research.

The hearing is in connection with the Illinois Bell Telephone company's application for a permanent injunction restraining the Illinois commerce commission from enforcing its order lowering rates on certain types of coin boxes. The injunction was granted by the District court and the case sent back by the Supreme court with instructions that a distinction be drawn between interstate and intrastate income of the telephone company.

COURT ACTS TO OUST WAUKEGAN BANK RECEIVER

Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff at Waukegan yesterday ordered Fred Brown Whitney, receiver for the closed Waukegan State bank, to show cause by noon today why he should not be removed as receiver. Whitney is a prominent attorney and son of a former judge.

Judge Shurtleff asked Whitney if he ever had asked a court order directing the Central Republic Bank and Trust company of Chicago to return $841,000 in securities. Whitney said he had not and added the securities were collateral for a loan of $450,000. The court then said Whitney was negligent in not recovering that collateral and putting the Chicago bank in the classification of an unpreferred creditor.

Whitney also was asked why he had not taken action against directors of the bank on the ground they were negligent and therefore liable to the depositors. Whitney said he had never heard of such action by a receiver. He told the court he was ready to resign then, but was told to wait until today.

It was brought out that Whitney had refused to consent to sale of the assets of the bank for 35 cents on the dollar to a reorganization committee which has been seeking to open a new bank.

JOHN M. KELLY, SECRETARY TO MAYORS, DEAD

John Murray Kelly, secretary to Chicago's mayors for the last twelve years and for 13 years before that a stenographer in the mayor's office, died yesterday at the Alexian Brothers' hospital of a heart ailment. He was 56 years old and lived at 6441 Newgard avenue.

Mr. Kelly was well known to politicians of both parties and to all city hall employés. His desk in the mayor's office was a stopping place for politicians, reporters, and those with any business in the office. Usually there was a new joke and always some repartee which he enjoyed.

JOHN MURRAY KELLY.

Surviving him is one sister, Mrs. Sarsfield Byrne, 6641 North Oakley avenue, from whose home the funeral will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m.

OPEN VIADUCT TO TRAFFIC ON MILWAUKEE AV.

Laborers yesterday were putting the finishing touches on the new Milwaukee avenue viaduct over the Chicago and North Western railroad tracks near the intersection with Glenview road. The old and narrow viaduct, torn out last fall, was the scene of long traffic blockades since the highway was widened in 1929.

While workmen are finishing the earth shoulders the viaduct is open to "travel at your own risk." This eliminates the long detour over Central road and River road, which was used all winter. THE TRIBUNE on Saturday published a statement that Milwaukee road was closed between River and Central roads. This was an error. The misinformation was issued by the central traffic bureau, an agency of the Cook county highway department.

JAMIE QUIZZES MIDWEST AGENT ON OCEAN TOUR

Investigation of the elaborate world cruise being promoted here and in New York discolsed a number of contradictions yesterday. K. P. Alrich, post-office inspector in charge of Chicago, ridiculed the idea that his office was investigating the project.

Alexander Jamie, chief investigator of the Secret Six, questioned Emil E. Rose, who has an office at 203 South Dearborn street. Rose said he was the middle western agent for the cruise. He admitted that Chicago gangsters had sought gambling and liquor concessions on the vessel, but denied that their proposals had been accepted.

Dispatches from New York said that J. Vasconcellon, "directing genuis" of the Ocean Tour corporation, is serving on a jury and that in his absence employés in his office refused to discuss the world cruise.

WORLD BANK CHIEF OPPOSES TARIFF WARS

As Britain Plans Drastic Economy.

BY JAY ALLEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASLE, Switzerland, May 10.—Where prosperity is concerned, Gates W. McGarrah, American president of the Bank of International Settlements, said at the annual meeting of the bank today, the nations of the world are in the same boat.

"All the evidence available leads to the conclusion that any hope that a single country may achieve prosperity apart from the rest of the world would indeed be based on insecure foundation," he declared. He repeated the bank's warning of last year against tariff barriers.

Representatives of the 21 banks of issue and banking groups, which are shareholders in the bank, who approved the president's report acclaimed it to be an authoritative survey.

Profits for World Bank.

McGarrah reported that there were profits for his unique bank, but for the rest of the world something quite different at the end of a year which, as he asserted, had seen "dramatic occurrences" in the whole field of international finance, credit, monetary stability, and capital movements, both public and private, and generally "unparalleled world-wide disturbance." He warned that if high and continually changing tariffs and restrictions on capital continued the monetary system of the world cannot continue to function.

McGarrah spoke also of the menace of international short term indebtedness, that form of financing which, he revealed, totaled 10 billion dollars in 1931, but during the last year has been reduced by about six billion dollars.

As to the bank itself, created primarily to handle reparations payments, its usefulness in the struggle "to hold together the fabric of the international credit system," McGarrah declared, is such that even after the Hoover moratorium and in the face of more action on reparations at the Lausanne conference, the bank's activities had been expanded. This is shown by its profit of close to a million dollars above the first year. He added that it is prepared to serve with proved effectiveness in the "monetary reconstruction, which will be as indispensable after the world crisis as it was after the world war."

Needs More than Credit.

The president of the "world bank" then touched on the tumble of sterling, "which further shattered what was left of confidence." With its fall it had become clear, he said, "that credit giving alone was not insurance to bridge the economic difficulties nor to maintain currencies against the swift current of capital withdrawals then in flight." He spoke of the "crisis of confidence almost in panic proportions.

"Events this year," he said, "have shown to what extent our monetary systems, both great and small, have become interdependent and how internationalization in monetary matters is not merely a theory or desirable evolution, but an accomplished fact.

The tidal wave of uncertainty and fear which in the end had endangered several national currencies and some banking systems originated in Austria, swept quickly on to Hungary and Germany, and after devastating these areas had flowed onward to Great Britain and the Scandinavian countries, sweeping down their currencies and then backwashing into the United States, carrying with it unusual demands upon the American gold supply and credit system. No such widespread effect, which soon spread to Japan also, could have occurred except by the already existing essential unity of international finance and monetary relationships which ignored political and geographical frontiers."

Opposes Short Term Loans.

Short term indebtedness, according to McGarrah, with vast movements of liquid funds creates havoc and stagnation as results from the magnitude of the sums involved. "They have contributed their part to the persistent fall of prices and have accentuated the deflationary forces which are oppressing world economy," McGarrah added. "It is a remarkable thing that the economic system has been able to withstand such dislocating forces—a fact that has clearly indicated its inherent power of resistance."

The bankers assembled here show a vast interest in the American political situation. They report that a growing number of European banks do not want dollars. Dollars are being sold, not bought, they say, and francs, Swiss and French, are preferred in international dealings.

Of the total sight and short term deposits held by the bank at the end of March 67.6 per cent were effected in dollars and 15 per cent in French francs. Last year it was 71 per cent in dollars. Sterling, which last year figured at 9 per cent, does not figure at all this year, French francs having more than absorbed that percentage. Dollar figures for the last month were not given.

MORE DRASTIC STEPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 11 [Wednesday].—Hints that the British government may have to take steps to raise sterling prices to a level at which they will make trade pay, and a direct warning that further drastic economies may have to be made to balance this year's budget were thrown out by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer. He spoke at a British bankers' banquet in London last night.

He declared the primary cause for the troubles affecting the world is to be found in the catastrophic decline

Business Crisis Called Result of Trade Strife

"The industrial revolution" ran wild and thus causing vast overproduction has combined with high tariffs to bring about the present depression, according to Dr. William E. Dodd, professor of American history at the University of Chicago. He spoke last night at Fullerton hall of the Art institute.

Economic depressions have followed great wars in the past, Prof. Dodd pointed out. Conditions similar to the present followed the Napoleonic wars, the American civil war, and the Franco-Prussian war of 1871. Those, however, were national rather than international in scope.

"The first of all causes," said Prof. Dodd, "is the free and uncontrolled sweep of the industrial revolution, above all in the United States, where the instinct of gain has been too powerful for social control. A little over a hundred years ago the government of the United States undertook to give unprecedented aid to what was called infant industry.

Basis of Tariff Theories.

"This was given under the assumption that a monopoly of the home market would inspire manufacturers to employ labor at high wages, build cities for the incoming hordes of Europeans, and create markets for agriculture. Labor was employed, immigrants came, and cities were built."

The high tariff system failed to accomplish its original objectives, Prof. Dodd asserted, because open markets were not maintained. Price fixing arose, too many distributors fastened themselves on urban populations, agriculture had to accept prices fixed in the world market.

"The concentration of industries in narrow limits and the focusing of all the great transportation systems at points like New York and Chicago led to the multiplication of land values beyond anything ever known in history," he added. "Upon this industry must pay insurance and interest and taxes, not to mention the levies of political machines.

Delighted by Progress.

"Such is the structure which we have seen rise in our midst, and we have boasted of the show. Its ramifications run into every town and village of the country; its securities make the reserves of every bank and insurance company; its masters talk to Presidents and congressional committees as masters of plantations talked seventy years ago to any and all who criticized their social and economic structure."

A similar industrial development in Europe brought the commercial rivalries which caused the world war, Prof. Dodd declared. The war left Europe deeply in debt to America.

"It was the occasion for immediate European resentment; and since hypernationalism had been the tone and talk of half a century, the cheapest of politicians could readily make headway in any country," he charged.

"When it proved impossible to discover gold equal to American demands Europeans tried in every possible way to sell industrial goods. The reply in Washington was a higher tariff in 1922 than the country had known before. The other turn was for Europeans to borrow gold in New York to pay their obligations to the American government and then to borrow more gold in New York to revamp their industries in order to compete with mass production in Detroit and Chicago.

Still Higher Tariff.

"When the dilemma had reached the crisis stage a second time congress enacted a still more prohibitive tariff and the President signed the bill against the protest of nearly all the informed economists in the country and violent demonstrations all over the world.

"With the great American domestic market borne down with an overhead too great to be carried without foreign markets, there was nothing else but catastrophe in 1929 if the European countries retaliated; and retaliation was prompt and decisive. Every country now had its markets closed, as nearly as possible, against every other country. Agriculture was the first to feel the blow, and the lot of the farmer was merging into peasantry.

"When Europe closed its market and great American industries could not quickly transfer their plants to other countries, and when farmers simply could not buy, the first great judgment day of big business was at hand."

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, May 10.—The appointment of Emil Lederer, New York director of the Hamburg-American line, as executive chairman with "broad dictatorial powers" was "virtually agreed upon" at today's session here of the North Atlantic Shipping conference.

This was announced tonight by H. A. Roper, permanent secretary of the conference. He added that the scope of Mr. Lederer's duties and responsibilities as the new shipping dictator would be decided tomorrow.

A special meeting of the conference had been called to consider the proposal to choose a dictator for the various passenger steamship companies operating in the north Atlantic.

It is proposed to allow Mr. Lederer free access to the books of all the shipping companies at all times.

PUBLIX SHARES GIVEN PAR VALUE OF TEN DOLLARS

New York, May 10.—(AP)—After a series of adjournments because of insufficient proxies stockholders of the Paramount-Publix corporation today ironed out their difficulties and voted to change the par value of the concern's stock from "no par" to $10 a share.

Approval of the change was voted by 2,309,459 shares, while only 46 shares opposed. The revaluation gives the corporation's outstanding stock a par value of approximately $23,000,000. On Dec. 31 last the outstanding 3,160,596 shares had a stated book value of $123,383,984.

The capital surplus of the corporation will be increased by the difference between the new par and the present stated value. No other business was transacted at today's meeting. Action on the new valuation was originally scheduled for April 19.

English Oil Chiefs Arrive in New York

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 10.—J. B. Aug Kessler, managing director of the Royal Dutch-Shell group, arrived here today to participate in the conference on the world oil industry called by Charles E. Arnott, president of Socony-Vacuum corporation.

Mr. Kessler was accompanied by William Fraser, deputy crairman of the Anglo-Persian Oil company and a director of the Iraq Petroleum company, and by Robert Irving Watson, managing director of Burma Oil company, Ltd., and director of Persian Oil company and Shell Transport and Trading company.

Hopes for Yankee Help.

Mr. Kessler, acting as spokesman for that group, said:

"I have come to New York to consider with some of my friends to what extent it will be possible for the United States oil industry to give a lead in breaking the vicious circle in the export markets which has resulted in wasting the oil riches of the earth outside the United States, unemployment, and loss of capital.

"In intensity, and therefore in duration and effect, no previous crisis is comparable with the present one. The interdependence of economic factors never was so pronounced as today. The old remedies no longer apply. It is a hopeful sign in this present crisis that a large number of prominent men in big industries realize the enormous responsibility which rests upon them. What is needed is constructive cooperation instead of the 'dog eat dog' method which is aggravating the crisis and which must end in a reduction of the standard of living for all and everybody.

Sees Example for Others.

"An example of coöperation in the oil industry, which is possibly the most internationalized industry in the world, that would bring back prosperity to that industry and to its workers and shareholders, would, I am sure, be such an eyeopener for other industries as to what can be be done by coöperation that the result might well be the turning point in the present crisis."

Participation of the Royal Dutch executive in an international parley, which will include representatives of the soviet oil industry, is regarded as significant of a change of policy on the part of that organization.

In the past it has been an implacable foe of the Russian government, because the latter confiscated the Royal Dutch properties in that country. The Royal Dutch is the largest single factor in the foreign oil trade, and as such wields immense influence. Its coöperation, as well as that of Standard Oil of New Jersey, second largest international factor, is regarded as indispensable to success of the parleys.

Soviet oil exports are not responsible for the demoralization of the world market, Konstantin Riabavol, chairman of the Oyuzneftexport, or soviet oil export syndicate, declared today in commenting on the international conference which is to take place here. Mr. Riabavol will be one of the soviet representatives at the conference.

New York, May 10.—Its Washington complex kept the share market as inconspicuous as ever today. There were two or three items in the grist of news a little more bearish than usual, one of them being the unexpectedly large drop in unfilled orders of the United States Steeel corporation and the other the decided lack of enthusiasm on the business outlook displayed by the president of the Delaware and Hudson in his annual statement to stockholders, but neither of them cut very much figure in the situation.

Traders have their eyes glued on Washington too intently just now to be very strongly swayed by any development of a business nature, is the consenus on Wall street.

Today's turnover came to only about 800,000 shares. It was an all professional affair and the five hours of give and take left prices very little changed from where they stood at the close of yesterday's somnolent session. It took an industrious tape reader, in fact, to find a handful of stocks in the whole list which had swung more than a point.

Drops 3 Points.

Best & Co. fell 3 points on omission of dividend. Delaware and Hudson lost 2 on the statement of its head. Consolidated Gas was heavily dealt in at slightly higher prices, selling ex

WORLD BANK'S CHIEF OPPOSES TARIFF WARS

While Britain Plans for Drastic Economy.

in world prices of primary commodities. He added:

"It may be one of the objectives of the government to take such steps as are possible to raise sterling prices to a level which will make it possible to carry on trading remuneratively. A full development of policy, however, cannot take place without international coöperation."

"Changes of national policy may go far beyond anything that has yet been contemplated," he asserted. "I do not say at this moment that it may be necessary to inflict further trials of that kind [economies] upon the nation, but I do say that if we should be forced by the pressure of circumstances to bring about these new and more drastic reductions in expenditure I trust we shall have the support of all clear thinking and responsible citizens."

Referring to the effect of recent tariffs the chancellor stated that the April figures would show a more favorable balance than in any month since the termination of the war.

Would Halt War Payments.

Chamberlain told the house of commons last week that the government would not ask parliament's sanction for the payment of war debts, but a motion was presented last night providing "that no further payments on war debts in excess of receipts shall be made by Great Britain without the direct authorization of this house."

The chancellor had promised an opportunity for a debate on the question before December, but the motion calls for discussion "on an early day." The motion was offered by George Lambert, a Liberal who supports the government.

Urges Currency Parley.

Joint action by Great Britain and the United States on the monetary problem preparatory to planning an international conference was demanded by Winston Churchill, Conservative, in the commons last night in debate on the finance bill which passed second reading by 465 to 47.

"If the Uniled States and Britain were of one mind on this question, France would the very next day associate herself with our joint action," he said. "Other powerful countries would have no choice whatever, but to join. International action to arrest the fall of prices is the sole hope of averting a world crash to which everything suffered up to the present will be but a mere prelude."

Churchill begged the national government to summon the conference immediately. Other conferences will be of no use unless an accord is reached with the United States first, he said. What good, he asked, could result from a Lausanne reparations meeting held before the American election has taken place?

"Any agreement between the debtors of Europe will become a platfrom counter in what cannot fail to be a most fierce and confused contest in the United States," he declared.

Borah Favors Plan.

Washington, D. C., May 10.—(AP)—Commenting on Winston Churchill's statement favoring Anglo-American coöperation for a world money conference, Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee, said today such a conference called by the United States would be attended by every important nation.

"I haven't any doubt and never had any," Borah said off the floor, "that if the United States would assume its full responsibility in regard to a conference on the money question there would be a conference and it would be attended by every important nation. Necessarily some great and responsible nation must lead. We cannot get anywhere by suggesting to some other nation that it lead."

Bosch Attacks Reparations.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

FRANKFURT ON MAIN, May 10.—A basis for the revival of world trade and world credit will not be furnished without an early and definite solution of the reparations and debt problems, Robert Bosch, chairman of the board of the I. G. Farben Industries, declared today, speaking at a stockholders' meeting.

Bosch, one of the most influential of German industrial leaders, declared the Versailles treaty must be revised and the debt problem settled, lest world business, which now "comes near being chaotic," end in complete chaos.

Herr Bosch criticized diplomats, declaring that all official international conferences completely have failed to solve the world's problems. He rejected the deliberate policy of economic self sufficiency, widely advocated in Germany. Germany's reduction of imports, he said, must be regarded as a defensive measure in order to assure payment of private foreign debts.

DEAL WITH 63 LAWYERS BEFORE REORGANIZATION

Mark Twain Hotel Plan Is Now Ready.

BY AL CHASE.

If you have a defaulted real estate bond and haven't been able to get the desired information regarding it from the bondholders' committee or from other sources, The Tribune may be of assistance to you. Write to "The Tribune Real Estate Bond Service, Chicago Tribune." Don't ask for information regarding more than one issue at a time. Give name of underwriter and full title of the bond. Inquiries must be accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelope for personal reply.

With 92 per cent of the $850,000 outstanding bonds of the Mark Twain hotel and 88.8 per cent of the bonds of the annex in St. Louis deposited with the Phillip State Bank and Trust company of Chicago, Barnet L. Rosset, chairman of the protective committee for bond issues underwritten by the Straus Brothers Investment company, last night announced the adoption of a reorganization plan for the project. These bonds were extensively held in the Chicago area.

"The situation was so tangled and complicated when the committee assumed control," said Mr. Rosset, "that it seemed hopeless. One of the difficulties we had to overcome was the overabundance of attorneys. We had to deal with sixty-three separate lawyers or law firms before we were in a position to adopt a reorganization plan."

The bondholders' protective committee, of which Mr. Rosset is chairman, is composed of A. S. Craven, Chicago architect; Earle G. Krumrine, Charles B. Lawton, Charles J. Young, and Alfred Fairbank. This group announces that it will not open any bonds for deposit after May 25.

Sale Date Postponed.

Although the date for the foreclosure sale had been set for May 3, the court postponed it until May 31 in order to permit the committee to work out its reorganization in detail and also to allow the deposit of additional bonds.

Mr. Rosset stated that through the efforts of the committee and the attorneys for the trustees only $98,540 of the original mechanics' liens of $216,540 have been allowed in the foreclosure proceedings, and a stay of execution on these claims has been granted for a period of six months.

The committee has leased the hotel and annex to the Mark Twain Operating company, organized by the Sweet Hotel system and the Pick Hotels company, both chain hotel organizations, for a twenty year term beginning April 1, 1932, at a guaranteed annual rental of $50,000, together with a graduated percentage of all amounts taken in over $125,000.

Plan $300,000 Loan.

"On the basis of April operations, the first month under the new management, the annual net rental payable under the terms of the lease would be approximately $70,000, occupancy having been increased from 52 to 70 per cent during the month," said Mr. Rosset. "This compares with a loss of $1,000 a month under the receivership.

"The committee is negotiating for a new first mortgage loan of approximately $300,000 which, if obtained, will enable the committee to make payments and place the bondholders in complete possession of the properties. Among necessary payments are $40,000 in overdue taxes."

The reorganization plan contemplates a holding corporation, the stock to be held by a voting trust. Each bondholder will receive voting trust certificates in equal proportion to his bond holdings. There'll be three voting trustees, Mr. Rosset, Mr. Krumrine, and Mr. Fairbank.

Shore Apartment Hotel.

The Woodlawn Trust and Savings bank yesterday took title as trustee to the five story Shore apartment hotel property at the northwest corner of Kingston avenue and 75th street, 97x95, for the bondholders' protective committee. It was conveyed to the bank by the 7458 Kingston Building corporation, by Elmer Olsen, president, and Carl A. Pearson, secretary.

This transfer was made to save the property from foreclosure. If title is found to be good, the bonds will be called in and a reorganization effected. The building, containing five stores and seventy-five apartments, was financed by a $240,000 first mortgage bond issue, since reduced to $232,000, underwritten by the Woodlawn Trust and Savings bank. Bismarck Feilchenfeld is chairman of the bondholders' committee. The other members are: James Malcolm, George W. Kemp, Walter Fecher, and Dr. A. C. Klutchen. B. F. Langworthy is attorney.

BEDFORD STONE DISTRICT REPORTS MORE ACTIVITY

Increased activity in the Bedford-Bloomington quarry district that will mean the employment of many men beginning on June 1 was announced yesterday by A. E. Dickinson, president of the Indiana Limestone company. "Contracts held by this company total 600,000 more cubic feet of stone than held a year ago," he said. "The large contracts we now have will take a long time to complete. Many quarry workers, cutters, and carvers, we do not know how many now, will be put to work on June 1."

Among the larger projects for which stone is to be provided from these quarries, Mr. Dickinson mentioned the Christian Science Publishing society building in Boston, the Benjamin Franklin memorial in Philadelphia, the library building at Columbia university in New York City, and the large Rockefeller center group in New York City.

BILLS SO WILD NONE WILL PASS, BANKERS HOPE

Reynolds Pins His Faith on Hoover Veto.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Threats of radical legislation are always disturbing to business and finance. This has been particularly true during the present congress. However, in the last few days leaders in finance and industry have taken hope from the fact that there have been so many proposals and of such revolutionary character. It is their theory that none of them actually will become law.

"The fact that various tinkering statesmen have so many different panaceas for the present economic situation possesses hopeful aspects," George M. Reynolds, chairman of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, said yesterday. "While these various proposals cause industry and finance to sit tight and await the outcome, the opinion is spreading that the silverites, the inflationists, the bonus advocates, and the other proponents of various theories are not able to get together.

Rely on Hoover Veto.

"The word from Washington seems to indicate that none of the proposals will be able to gain enough following to be passed over a presidential veto. And President Hoover is relied on to exercise the veto power on most of the mass of measures if by any chance any of them should be passed by congress."

Furthermore, one of the news services widely subscribed to and circulated by brokers has the following forecast: "We state emphatically as our matured opinion that most of the frightening pending legislation will not be finally enacted."

Varied Proposals.

This refers specifically to the following proposals: the Goldsborough bill for credit inflation, cash payment of the veterans' bonus, pensions for widows of veterans, new appropriations of 135 million dollars for roads, guarantee of bank deposits, and control of agricultural surpluses by export debenture, equalization fee, or domestic allotment.

"We feel that Washington now is at its worst and that some slight improvement will be noticeable in the next few weeks," the service concludes. "We also feel like emphasizing the negative good signs represented by prospects for ultimate failure of disturbing legislation."

NEWS IS NEGATIVE

News of trade and industry was rather negative yesterday. The chief items consisted of a recession in the movement of commodities by the railroads and a fairly large increase in petroleum production. On the other hand, the weekly report on business failures showed a decline, whereas an increase would have been seasonal.

Loadings of revenue freight for the week ended April 30 totaled 554,012 cars, according to the American Railway association. This was a decline of 8,368 cars from the preceding week, while it also marked a decrease of 220,730 from a year ago and 388,662 from two years ago. Compared with the preceding week, miscellaneous freight fell off 4,707 cars, while smaller recessions were shown by coal, ore, coke, and live stock. Merchandise in less than carload lots held about steady, while grain and grain products and forest products showed moderate increases.

Crude Output Gains.

The daily average gross crude oil output last week totaled 2,251,900 brls, an increase of 74,400 brls a day over the previous week, according to the American Petroleum Institute. Practically all of the increase occurred east of California and most of it in Oklahoma. Refiners reduced their takings of oil and operated at 59.6 per cent of capacity, compared with 62.3 per cent in the preceding week. As the result of such curtailment, coupled with the advent of the motoring season, gasoline stocks at refineries declined 782,000 brls, although still standing at the large total of 45,621,000 brls.

Business failures during the week ended May 5 showed a decline of 9.3 per cent from the preceding week and were the lowest since early in March, according to Bradstreet's review. Moreover, the adjusted index of commercial defaults had fallen to the lowest level since the middle of January.

Hogs went to new low ground yesterday. The entire list of prices submerged to the lowest levels since December, 1898. Final sales were not much above that bottom. News from other places was discouraging.

Relatively the Chicago market proved to be the highest in the country. The narrower spread between here and eastern slaughtering centers restricted the buying by order buyers, which left more than enough hogs for local consumption. Only closely sorted light weights were eligible to more than $3.50, a fair showing of these kinds selling at $3.55@3.65, while about 100 head reached $3.70, the top. The general average sank 15c to $3.30, the larger proportion of plain quality light weights and packing sows helping to pull the average down. Declines for the day ranged from 10c to 25c, with plain quality stock hit the hardest on the break.

Buyers are discriminating against poor quality stock and extreme weights. Bulk of yesterday's total arrivals sold within a range of $3.15@3.50. Prime 325@350 lb averages were bought around $3.10 and extremely heavy under $3.00. One shipment of 646 lb butchers, 18 months old, sold at $2.60. These weights seldom bring more than a "packer" price. Five markets in the west reported extreme top hogs sold at $3.05@3.20 during the day.

Cattle Trade Slow Again.

Cattle met another slow trade and the bulk came under pressure again, but the scant supply of toppy kinds went over the scales at a fairly early hour at fully steady prices. In fact, the extreme top at $8.00 was 10c above the highest mark made last week. Two carloads of Nebraska steers of outstanding quality averaging 1,232 lbs sold to Swift at the top of the list. Few other cattle were good enough to pass $7.00, while the bulk of all beef steers went at $5.25@7.00. Not many steers weighing less than 1,100 lbs sold above $6.00. The latter price was paid for 667 lb yearling steers, while a load of 832 lb heifers reached $6.40. Most cows were firm yesterday. Calves slumped mostly 25c, with some off 50c late.

Old Lambs Slump.

The market for aged wool lambs keenly felt the influence of lower cattle and hog prices yesterday and before the session closed last year's crop was going at 50c decline. Top classes tumbled to $6.40, mates to the $6.90 lambs here Monday going at that figure late in the afternoon. California springers sold at $7.00@7.85, or steady to 25c lower. Most buyers carried orders that favored the new crop of springers. The unusually good quality of this year's crop of early lambs has been a factor in swinging demand on the wholesale trade away from the tail end shipments of "fed" lambs. As a rule the early lambs are not big enough to compete with the old crop, but many from the coast state this year are averaging 75@85 lbs.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 9,000 cattle, 19,000 hogs, and 8,000 sheep, against 9,542 cattle, 14,758 hogs, and 8,646 sheep the previous Wednesday and 9,775 cattle, 19,533 hogs, and 10,009 sheep a year ago.
